Gardner-Webb College Quarterly

VOL. 1

MAY 1954

NO. 1

The VOICE Of "Ye Ole Alma Mater"

This initial publication is a new venture. It has been the feeling for a long time that we needed a closer tie with the alumni and friends of the College. It is planned that we have a minimum of long articles, but that we dedicate this publication to giving the alumni and friends factual information that they want. You will want to know what has become of the boys and girls you knew here, who has married whom, who has given what, and what fortune has come to those you knew.

Let me urge that every one of you be on the alert for any bit of new information about former students of Gardner-Webb. If the editors already have the information, you will do no hurt in sending it. We prefer not to overlook anyone. Especially do we wish to hear of any good fortune that has come to any of them. In order to make this publication of greatest value, we must be constantly seeking information which all would like to have. To this we shall add the things being done here, giving you an opportunity for criticisms and suggestion. In this way the school in its policies may be a composite of the best we all think.

It is my privilege to introduce to you this voice of your comrades with the hope that it will become a valuable link between you and them and between all of you and the College, to the end that as the College grows, your love may grow for it; and together we may create a greater dedication of ourselves to the finer things for which it stands.

Gardner-Webb College Quarterly

The Voice Of "Ye Ole Alma Mater"

VOL. 1 MAY 1954 NO. 1

This quarterly entered as second-class matter at the post office, Boiling Springs, North Carolina. Published quarterly by the Public Relations Department of Gardner-Webb College, Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

GARDNER-WEBB SUMMER SCHOOL BEGINS JUNE 1

The annual summer school at Gardner-Webb College this year will begin on June 1 and close July 31. Courses will be offered in health, physical education, biology, chemistry, English, mathematics, history, Spanish, shorthand, typing, and accounting.

A special feature of the summer will be a twelve week school beginning June 1 and closing August 20, by which high school graduates who are interested in commercial subjects may benefit. A student may earn a year's credit in shorthand, typing, and accounting.

For the fourth consecutive summer Western Carolina College will offer on Gardner-Webb campus three courses for teachers. These courses carry nine quarter hours credit, sufficient to renew a certificate. Professor W. B. Harrill of Western Carolina College again will serve as instructor for the teachers. The dates of this school are June 1 to July 10.

For the benefit of senior high school students who are lacking in the subject, high school English will be taught. State regulations for this type of work will be observed. The student should secure the approval of his high school principal before enrolling for this particular course. Courses will be taught by regular Gardner-Webb faculty members and qualified visiting professors. The plan is to open the college dormitories and cafeteria for the convenience of the students.

Further information may be secured by writing to the Director of Summer School, Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

LIVING ENDOWMENT CLUB BANQUET

On the evening of May 6, 1954, at seven o'clock in the evening, Gardner-Webb College will honor members of the Living Endowment Club at a banquet to be given in the college cafeteria located in the O. Max Gardner Student Memorial Building.

The Living Endowment Club is composed of alumnae-alumni, trustees, and interested friends of the College, who endeavor to contribute at least $50 per year to Gardner-Webb for its Living Endowment program.

Approximately 250 invitations have gone out. It is hoped that all of these fine supporters of the College will make an effort to be present as we seek to honor them in this fashion. Each year more and more of our people are realizing the necessity of making such investments in our youth as these members of the Living Endowment Club are doing. It is significant that this emphasis upon Christian education is reaching an all-time record.

FRONT COVER

Quite naturally our first copy of the quarterly should carry a picture of the building which probably holds the most memories for us, none other than the E. B. Hamrick Building. Here as the students pictured linger and converse on the steps we are reminded once again of the many times we did likewise.

Outstanding Personalities On Field Day

A LETTER FROM OUR GARDNER- WEBB ALUMNI ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

To the Members of the Gardner-Webb Alumni Association:

As members of the Gardner-Webb Alumni Association it has been our privilege during the last few years to see this institution which is dear to all our hearts show rapid growth. This growth has not only been in buildings and facilities alone but also in all phases of the college's work—in athletics, in the number of students, and in the support of those associated with Gardner-Webb College. In addition to this perhaps the most outstanding growth has been in the field of service to the people of this surrounding area. The work which has been done and is continuing, which we started by departments at Gardner-Webb College, has received nationwide acclaim and the sincere heartfelt appreciation of the citizens of the entire state.

Senator Robert F. Morgan

As a member of the Alumni Association it is my honest conviction that the time has come when this association can render a great service to our Alma Mater. Perhaps in the past we have been a bit reluctant in assuming our fair share of the responsibilities of a growing institution whose future holds high promise of giving to each member of this Alumni Association a feeling of pride heretofore unknown. Therefore I believe it is the responsibility of each individual and our association to put our shoulder to the wheel and show our appreciation for the many blessings we have received and to insure for others the opportunities that we have received as well as encourage the sphere of influence that Gardner-Webb now holds.

MAY DAY

Perhaps the most festive occasion on the campus at Gardner-Webb is the observance of May Day. This year the May Day Festival was held on Saturday, May 1. Reigning over the court was Miss Janet England, who by popular vote had been elected Queen.

Miss England is 19 years of age. She is a brownette, has brown eyes and is five feet three inches tall. Of course, she is a sophomore. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. P. England of Marion.

Runners-up in the contest for Queen were Sally Thompson, of Waxhaw, North Carolina; Mrs. Betty Wise Bates, of Lincolnton; and Betty Jean Emmett, of Gastonia.

The following sophomore and freshman girls served as attendants to the Queen: Sophomores—Sally Thompson of Waxhaw, North Carolina; Mrs. Betty Wise Bates of Lincolnton; Valeria Banning of Hendersonville; Libby Stroupe of Alexis, and Betty Jean Emmett of Gastonia. Freshmen—Doris Phillips of Joanna, South Carolina; Gale Ball of Thomasville; Becky Hart of Oxford; Shirley and Peggy Reavis of Winston-Salem.

A double-page spread of the May Queen and her attendants will be found elsewhere in this issue of the quarterly.

The entire May Day program was under the direction of Miss Saranan Morgan, teacher in the physical education department.

G. W. C. COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

The 1954 commencement exercises at the College officially will begin with the Alumni Banquet, which begins at 7:00 o'clock on the evening of May 22. The following Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock the baccalaureate sermon will be preached. The graduation exercises will be held Monday morning, May 23, at 10:30.

We are very fortunate this year as usual in that we have secured two outstanding speakers for the commencement programs. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Reverend John E. Lawrence, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Shelby and formerly pastor of the Sunset Park Baptist Church in Wilmington. The literary address at the graduation exercises on Monday will be delivered by Dr. A. C. Reid, professor of psychology and philosophy at Wake Forest College.

Both of these men are outstanding in their particular fields. Mr. Lawrence has held various positions with the North Carolina Baptist State Convention since being in the ministry. In addition to Dr. Reid's reputation as a professor, he has written several books and has proved to be quite popular as a lecturer.

Shown above is a scene to be remembered. The 1953 Graduating Class poses with Dr. Zeno Wall, marshals, and various members of the faculty around an historic marker which was placed near the campus on Highway 150 shortly before graduation. The marker is another stepping-stone along the road to greater progress and prestige on which the College seems to travel incessantly.

THE NEXT STEP

(President P. L. Elliott)

The tie with the past is inevitable: we cannot escape it if we would. However, the tie to the past may hamper progress and destroy more than it saves. We cannot rest on the assumption that what was acceptable forty years ago is good enough for the present. Many churches and schools have lost their usefulness in a foolish devotion to the past.

However, the tie to the past is valuable and we must not lose it. Some things we have tried here at Gardner-Webb to preserve. We count them valuable.

First, the school was built on faith, faith in God and faith in men, and faith in the possible development of man. Second, this has always been a school with a pioneering spirit. It must always be so or die. Again, the school is devoted to sound learning. It is felt here that there is no essential conflict between intellectual learning and deep religious devotion. In fact the one fills out the other. Finally the tradition of service as the motivating force of all activities holds first place. This idea is embodied in the motto of the college, and in the college song is the phrase "serving all who want her service; blessing all with outstretched hands."

Any division of the steps taken in the upward progress of the college would be entirely arbitrary. For want of a better division I call them (1) days of laying foundations; (2) days of struggle and dedication; (3) the period of expansion; and (4) the next step. It was fortunate to have so long a consistent and devoted leadership in laying the foundations. The days of struggle and almost despair were brought about partly because the school, facing the creation of state high schools, was forced to become a junior college or, like all other Baptist high schools in the state save three, close its doors.

In 1942 with ideals and purposes firmly fixed, the period of great expansion was started. The idea was to prepare adequately for a resident student body of 400. Wars and their attendant results shot prices skyward until about one-half the proposed expansion was achieved. However the physical expansion is only a small part of the total program.

In that period of expansion the college won recognition by the highest accrediting agency within its reach and as high as that reached by any college or university of the South for its two years of training.

In addition the college projected its service program which is the pride or envy of all who know it. In the extension department more than 1200 students a year receive certificates for nine weeks' courses under teachers whose qualifications are unquestionable. The health center with its proposed services of diagnostic, educational, and preventive as well as curative medicines is rendering service to all alike, and to approximately 10,000 patients a year. In addition, agriculture and industry as well as religion and education feel the beneficent influence of the college. Francis Bacon in speaking of his place in the scheme of things says, "I have taken all knowledge to be my province." Gardner-Webb in its wider vision has taken all the persons, the all of every person, and all the relationships of all the persons in this area to be its province.

Now, what shall the next step be? In material things we must complete our original project of equipping the school to take care of 400 resident students. That will cost a

Before this issue of the quarterly had gone to press we were fortunate enough to receive some snapshots of this year's May Day exercises. So often we are not this fortunate and have to make use of last year's material because most of our publications do go to press before May Day.

To the left we see the Queen-Elect, Miss Janet Eng-land of Marion, North Caro-lina, being crowned by King Forrest Teague of Shelby, Li- the Miss Nancy Hamrick, who was train bearer for the queen, doesn't seem to be too concern- ed with the highlight of the festivities as she seems to be attracted for the moment by something else.

The scene for this annual occasion was the porch of the O. Max Gardner Building, which served as the court, and the center campus proper was used for the spectators.

Shown below is one of the four seasonal dances called "Summertime". The theme, "Four Seasons", was car- ried out quite well by our Gardner-Webb girls, who quite obviously had spent much time in preparation for their dances and costumes.

Miss Saranan Morgan, in- structor in physical education at the College, is to be con- gratulated for the fine pres- entation. Year by year our people have learned to expect from her and the Physical Ed- ucation Department the very best in May Day presentations.

Science In Our Day

By PAUL STACY

(Reprinted by permission from The Pilot)

I take it that it is the job of the educational process to train and develop the entire personality including the mental, social, physical, and spiritual being. Thus, then, so called pure science has found its place in the curriculum of our colleges and universities along with the arts and humanities. Science in the pure sense, is an organized body of proven knowledge relative to specific subjects. The scientific method infers that all the faculties of observation be used, that all known experiments be utilized, and that no conclusion be made until all the facts are in. In other words, science is after the true solution to any unanswered problem.

Science has sought the truth about man, mass and matter, and this universe; the great laws of nature which are a part of the God-head have been studied and a portion of them revealed to man. An analysis of natural law and matter has enabled our day to witness the industrial revolution and the mass production line; to give mankind every conceivable gadget for making a more fruitful life. Such common names as automobiles, refrigerators, television sets, H-bombs are products of science and are not, in themselves, but only bad in the hands of sinful men.

Must science now say? "It is Christ or Chaos!" The spirit of science, which is the spirit of truth, is a way of life. Mankind must realize—and early—that common sense and religion are necessary to the proper use of the instruments and products of science. It only proves that in the true light science and religion are not direct opposites; it rather states that they are both handmaidens in the educational process which is to improve and develop the lot of mankind.

The spirit of truth in nature, the spirit of research, in this a troubled world, should challenge all the faculties and capacities of our youth today. Such subjects as mathematics, chemistry, biology, and physics are but a few of the pure sciences, but are, I think, necessary subjects in the light of education, because they lead young men and women to a host of vocations, to nature study, science teachers, research scientists, the professions, defense projects, and to a way of life in any job.

great deal and will challenge a supreme devotion for the accomplishing of it; but it can be done if we want it enough.

As did the founders we must go in faith. We have a great God; we have a great people. Our children are the community's greatest asset. We must always keep that in mind. Our purposes once determined, we can more properly provide the tools with which to complete them. Apart from an awakened and developed people we have no challenging purpose.

This is a great educational step. People become great in proportion to their educational opportunities. It is a great economic step. The economy of our area will match the educational development. It is a great social enterprise. Social justice rests on intelligence and integrity. This brings us to the heart of the HIGH SCHOOL DAY — On April 23 the College once again observed its annual High School Day. Shown above is Dr. Robert Allen Dyer giving the Vocational Guidance Inventories to a group of the students in the Dover Memorial Library. The students arrived on the campus at 9:30 and met for main assembly in the E. B. Hamrick Auditorium, with Mr. John Worth Long presiding. The inventories were given from 10:00-12:00. From 12:00-1:00 a concert was presented by the Boiling Springs Band under the direction of Professor J. Y. Hamrick. The visitors had lunch with us in the cafeteria. From 2:00-3:00 tours of the dormitories were made. At 3:00 the visitors were entertained at our baseball game between the College and Presbyterian Junior College. Students from the following high schools participated: Mooresboro, Boiling Springs, Number Three Township, Tri-High, Polkville, Piedmont, Cherryville, Ellenboro, and Cool Springs. In all there were 142 present for the occasion.

Eight-Point Program Adopted

GARDNER-WEBB SETS GOALS FOR 50th ANNIVERSARY

Gardner-Webb College trustees yesterday approved a formal observance of the school's 50th anniversary and adopted an eight-point program of goals to be achieved by the anniversary, three years hence.

The observance will be held during October of 1957, the 50th anniversary of the enrollment of the first student in Boiling Springs High School, which later became Gardner-Webb College.

The program of celebration originated with a steering committee made up of three faculty members, three alumni, three trustees and two ex-officio trustees and was submitted yesterday to the board of trustees.

The eight-point program set up as a goal to be reached before 1957 is as follows:

1. Increase the school's endowment from $260,000 to a million dollars.

2. Increase the student loan fund from $10,600 to $40,000.

3. Raze the Huggins-Curtis hall and replace it with a modern administration and science building.

4. Endeavor to reach and maintain a student enrollment of 500.

5. Provide additional dormitory space for 50 more boys and 100 more girls.

6. Construct a physical education building which includes a swimming pool and complete the athletic field.

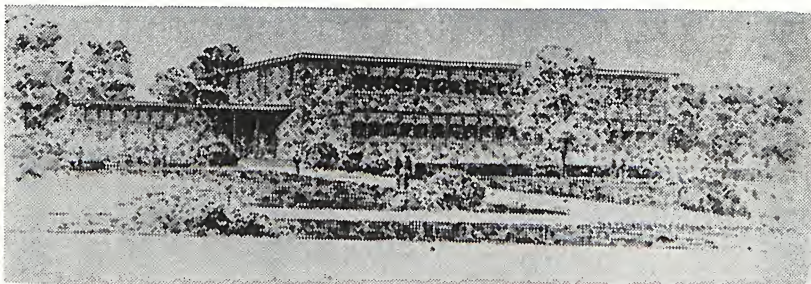

7. Provide additional housing for eight single faculty members.

8. Institute a $20,000 beautification program which will include an outdoor theater.

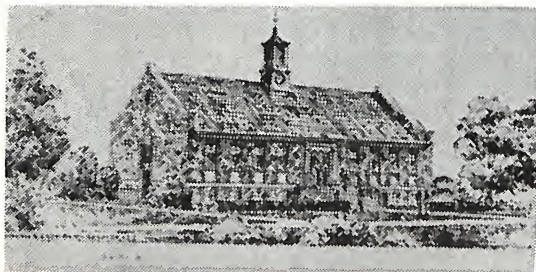

The trustees also authorized President Phil Elliott to increase the faculty by three members, a science teacher, an English teacher and a combination business administration and language teacher.

G. W. C. ALUMNI BANQUET

The annual Gardner-Webb Alumni Banquet will be held in the Gardner Memorial Student Center on Saturday evening, May 22, 1954, at seven o'clock.

The classes in reunion for this year are as follows: 1916, 1919, 1921, 1931, 1936, 1941, 1946, and 1951. If you are a member of one of these classes, please contact other members of your class and urge them to be present. We hope there will be representatives from every single class in reunion this year.

The speaker for the occasion will be the Reverend Leon H. Hollingsworth, an alumnus of the Class of 1941 and now pastor of the First Baptist Church, Boone, North Carolina.

Over 2400 invitations have been mailed out to our alumni-alumnae. Additionally members of our Board of Trustees and their wives and/or husbands as the case may be, members of the faculty and their husbands and/or wives, and the present Sophomore class are invited.

By the time this quarterly goes to press and is in your hands the following may be a bit late, but, nevertheless, we will say a word or two about reservations for the banquet. Because of the rapid growth of our alumni-alumnae quite naturally our banquet space is limited. Consequently, we must know in advance the exact number of those who will attend. Those who palm to come are asked to get their reservations in, if at all possible, no later than May 19. The dinner will be $1.50 per person, and admittance will be by ticket only.

As for dress, the Alumni Association voted at its meeting two years ago that we make the statement: "Formal dress is optional," so that everyone will feel perfectly proper if he comes dressed formally or informally.

Bob Morgan, president of the Association, says, "This will be perhaps one of the most important alumni meetings we have had for many years and we are particularly anxious for all who can to attend. Please make a special effort to be there."

Sports Wind - Up

By MAC HILL

Football dominated the Fall sports schedule here at Gardner-Webb this year. Coach Norman Harris issued the call for initial drills the first of September and continued to drill his charges in preparation of their '53 season.

The local eleven began rather inauspiciously, fighting Chowan to a scoreless draw in the inaugural game of the year and preceded to fall before Asheville-Biltmore, 14-0, and Lees-McRae, 12-6. After this the Bulldogs slowly, but surely, rounded into a gridiron power. They plowed through Mars Hill 13-7 and 31-0, and clipped Lees McRae 14-6 before dropping a 13-6 decision to the Asheville-Biltmore team in the season's finale.

Scatback Ernie Byerly led the team in scoring and total offense. He was assisted in rushing by Dean Upton, Norman Hardin, Joe Saunders, James Parker, and "Bunny" Price.

The forward wall, constantly under the shadow of the backfield, but nevertheless deserving of equal praise, was led by Richard Yearwood and Grady Thomas on the flanks, Edgar Teague and Ronald Burns at the tackle posts, and Gothard Overcash and T. G. Phillips at guards. Alfred Stepp was the pivot man.

Cold weather forced athletics indoors and basketball prevailed. The hardwood quint appeared destined to a good season in their pre-season drills but failed to come up with a winning combination. The local cagers managed only eight victories in twenty-two outings.

Although their regular season play was sometimes disappointing the Bulldogs came to life in the state tournament at Campbell Junior College in Buies Creek. The locals had finished the regular schedule rather strongly by winning four of their last five contests. In the tournament the Bulldogs met the second-seeded Campbell team. Despite a previous 31 points licking and the fact that they were playing the host team, the locals gave the Camels a bad time only to lose in the closing seconds. The Bulldogs held a margin over the Campbell club throughout the game until the last quarter when the entire starting lineup for the locals was retired via the personal foul route. When the smoke had cleared Campbell College had won the game, but this game alone was indicative of what the locals could do and it served as a moral victory even if it was a little late.

Baseball is the final major sport here at Gardner-Webb. The local nine enjoyed a good beginning, winning six of their first seven outings, but have since dropped four straight. Fireballer Harold Pearson has copped four victories to pace the pitchers. Centerfielder matter. This is a great religious enterprise. Integrity is developed by thinking great thoughts, feeling great impulses and doing great deeds through a faith that sees, a courage that dares, and a determination that endures. For this area there is no greater challenge. What shall the next step be — forward, remain as we are, or retreat? If we retreat or try to hold our own we invite defeat and death. If we can rise to meet the challenge that is ours the school may live. Our golden opportunity is in our plans for the Golden Anniversary plans for the month of October 1957. These include a million dollar endowment, a forty thousand dollar student loan fund, a physical education building, swimming pool, athletic field, an outdoor theatre, a $20,000 beautification program, a science classroom and administration building, and dormitory space for 100 more girls and 50 more boys.

This is our challenge; this is our task; this is our glorious opportunity. May we respond as we shall wish we had when the opportunity is gone.

Ernie Byerly is the leading stickman with a healthy .388 average.

In the minor sports Miss Morgan's lassies captured two basketball games compared with three setbacks. Dot Bridges and Shirley Reavis supplied a capable one-two scoring punch for the sextet. Nancy Lattimore, Peggy Reavis, and Lib Moore starred in the backcourt . . . Richard Yearwood, "Squirrel" Thomas, Richard Harrell, and Bill Norris starred in the recent track meet . . . Evaleen Wiggins and Thomas were winners in the ping pong tournament . . . Shirley Bell and Tommy Hill are badminton champs . . . the Reavis twins were declared unofficial tennis champs, why not, who can beat them? . . . the intramural softball league is still in progress with the Basement and 2nd West teams setting the pace.

Dear Alumni:

It is with pleasure that we present to you this, our first copy of the Gardner-Webb College Quarterly. In years to come, ours is the desire that it may serve as a greater connecting link between you and your Alma Mater.

In addition to your interest in and contributions to the college, another way you can be of invaluable service is to send us students. Talk Gardner-Webb wherever you are and encourage high school graduates to choose G. W. C.

*Sincerely,

One of the most pressing of the present needs at the College is a GYMNASIUM; we do not have one. If our Alumni were so minded they could, through UNITED efforts, erect a new gymnasium, and it could be named...

"THE ALUMNI MEMORIAL"

But plans for such a building must begin at an early date. Will YOU be the first to make a generous contribution toward the project?
