BOOKS BY THOMAS DIXON

The novels listed below are housed in the Special Collections Room and do not circulate under any circumstances. They may only be used in the Special Collections room. (Most of these copies are first editions and many are in poor condition; they are also very difficult to replace.)

8. The Man in Gray. Appleton, 1921.
11. The Southerner. Grosset and Dunlap, 1913
15. The Way of a Man, Appleton, 1919.

The library owns duplicate copies of the following of these novels. Although these books are also kept in the Special Collections Room, they may circulate by Special Permission of a librarian.

2. The Leopard's Spots. Grosset and Dunlap, 1902
5. The Victim. Appleton, 1914.

The two non-fiction books owned by Gardner-Webb are also housed in Special Collections and do not circulate from that room. They are:

Books by Thomas Dixon which the library does not own:

2. Dixon on Ingersoll, Alden, 1892.
6. The Fall of a Nation, Appleton, 1916.
