First Baptist Hosts Youth Meet

First Baptist Church of Shelby will host the annual North Carolina State Training Union Youth Convention April 29 through May 1, with people from over the state coming to Shelby for the three-day session.

"Jesus Revealed in Me" is the theme for the convention designed for intermediates and young people of the Baptist churches in N. C.

Nathan Porter, associate secretary for missionary personnel of the Home Mission Board in Atlanta, Ga. will speak Friday night and Saturday morning on missions and pressures on youth today.

The Saturday morning program will be concluded by Thomas Perkins, professor in the departments of religion and science at Gardner-Webb College, speaking on "God, Science and You". Semi-finals for the young people's speakers' tournament will be held Saturday afternoon, with the finals scheduled Saturday night.

John S. McGee, missionary to Nigeria for 21 years, will give an illustrated lecture on Baptist work in Nigeria on Saturday night and will conclude the convention at the Sunday worship hour.

Miss Sara Ann Hobbs, state Young Woman's Auxiliary secretary, will speak Friday night and Katy Ruth Grayson, associate in the Training Union Department, Baptist State Convention, will serve as general convention director.

Youth of First Baptist Church, under the direction of Miss Carole Pearson, will present dramatic worship programs at the conclusion of each session.

John Ward and Mrs. Hubert Plaster, minister of music and organist respectively, for First Baptist, will present the musical program and Dr. Joseph T. Mc-
