"Nothing Like A Letter From Home!"

In this brief message I wish to call your attention to some serious matters that face our college. During this first fifty years of service the college has faced difficulties that tried the faith, courage, and devotion of its friends. Today the problems are a bit different, but no less real and will again test its friends.

The main problem is how to make the college what it ought to be and do what it ought to do. The second is how to take care of those who want to come. The college now has about 235 beds in fireproof dormitories. Our student body is 463, the largest in the history of the institution, and 20% above last year. Applications for 1956-57 are now 33 1/3 per cent above this year's enrollment. All the colleges will be crowded to capacity. The poorly equipped ones will have their increase from students rejected by other colleges, and the cream will go to the colleges prepared for them. Gardner-Webb is recognized by the best colleges and universities now as the equal of their own for the first two years. It would be a serious mistake to lower that rating. To maintain it we must have students capable of moral and intellectual leadership.

With the increase in students we face a shortage of classroom space and equipment necessary for most efficient teaching. Our first and most urgent need is for the Health and Physical Education Building. By all means it should be started by June at the latest.

At the commencement in 1954 the Alumni Association set as its goal in the expansion program $100,000. This would require an average gift of $33.34 from those on our mailing list, or an average of $12.50 from all alumni. That is a worthy goal; not impossible.

For our buildings we must look to the Alumni and our local people. Most large gifts today are from corporations and foundations, and the junior college is not yet greatly in their philosophy of giving. Of the Ford Foundation's gift of $300,000,000 to private colleges not one cent went to a junior college. But we can provide our own college and be the better for doing it.

Dr. Philip Lovin Elliott

To aid us in this, our denomination is designating April as Christian Education Month, and April 22 as Christian Education Day. Let every one of us take advantage of this privilege for the sake of trained leadership. It is being said that we are losing the mountain people to the Catholics. If so it is likely because of the people's hunger for trained leadership and the fact that Catholics are sending them the best; we are not. Let's face the challenge and meet it.

About The Cover

As long as young people go away to college, they will rush excitedly to their mail boxes hoping to get a letter from home.

More than half of all mail received by college students comes from their parents. Other correspondence include such items as the hometown newspaper, the guy or gal back home or at another school, air mail from that certain serviceman overseas, and ever so often a box of Mom's own special cookies.

The picture on the front of the Quarterly was made recently at the post office in the student store as a few hopefuls made a hasty check of the mail boxes before rushing off to their 11:00 A. M. classes.

Alumni Banquet Plans

The Alumni Banquet will be held on Saturday night, May 26, in the college cafeteria.

Letters will be mailed to all alumni a few weeks in advance of this date, urging all of you who can to make reservations and attend the banquet.

The annual Alumni Banquet serves three important purposes for former students: (1) It gives an opportunity for you to see old acquaintances and renew friendships. (2) You are brought up to date on the work of the college, both by the President's report and by looking over the campus. (3) You are afforded an opportunity to participate in the life of the col-

Trustees, Faculty, And Staff Enjoy Dinner Together

The trustees and faculty members, together with their wives or husbands, met for dinner on December 2 in the college cafeteria.

This meeting was an enlargement of the annual faculty dinner, which has been given for several years by President Elliott and Mrs. Elliott for the faculty and staff.

Present for the meeting, in addition to the greater college family, were the retiring, beginning, and continuing members of the board of trustees.

The trustees conducted a brief business session following the meal, in which the officers were elected for 1956. Tribute was paid to the trustees by President Elliott for their selfless devotion to the college and what it stands for.

Arnold Kincaid, retiring vice-chairman of the board, in turn had high praise for the loyalty and sacrificial dedication to duty of the college faculty.

Thanks For Your Letters

If the Quarterly contains more than its usual amount of news, the credit is yours because you responded to our letters and returned our questionnaires.

To the 500 letters we mailed last month we received at least a 25 per cent response, and letters continue to come in daily.

Many more of you will hear from us in the coming months, because we want to know where you are and what you are doing. Our goal is to hold Gardner-Webb's 9,000 alumni together as a big family with a common bond, our Alma Mater.

The Editor

lege, through your vote and influence as an active alumnus.

Make your plans now to attend the Alumni Banquet on May 26.

New Babies

The Gardner-Webb "family" is larger by three new babies since the last issue of the Quarterly.

Dr. and Mrs. Sam J. Crawley, Jr. have a son, Sidney Allen, born last November 17. He is their fourth child. Dr. Crawley, one of the college physicians, is a member of the class of 1941. Mrs. Crawley, the former Julia Crisp, is also an alumna of 1941.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Harris have a new daughter, Debra Jane, born December 21. They have one other child, Ann, 3. Coach Harris joined the faculty in 1949 and has been head coach since 1952. Mrs. Harris studied at Gardner-Webb in 1949-50.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert N. Elliott, Jr. announce the birth of a son, Robert Neil III, on January 21. Dr. Elliott joined the faculty in 1953 as associate professor of history. Mrs. Elliott taught and assisted in the guidance department in 1953 to 1955.

Construction Progress

Construction of the new dormitory continues to progress at a steady rate in spite of the unusually cold weather this winter.

The dormitory is scheduled for completion by next August 15 and is to be ready for occupancy by 100 girls when school opens next September.

At the end of January the masons had the walls up to the second floor windows of the three-story building. Concrete floors were being poured, and the electrical, plumbing, and heating work was keeping pace with other construction.

Meanwhile Dr. H. Hansel Stembridge, Jr. and Felix E. Hamrick, Golden Anniversary campaign directors, were preparing to wage an intensive campaign during April How's The Color?

The November issue of the Quarterly broke sharply with tradition, and believe it or not, the response from Old Grads was overwhelmingly favorable.

Prior to that issue the Quarterly had always used the school colors of red and black on the cover. Three months ago, however, we decided to try a new color and see how you liked it. The Quarterly came out dressed in green and black.

The usual comment was that the Quarterly is not obligated to uphold the school colors, and might have any possible color combination, as long as it looks good.

So here we go again with another twirl of the color wheel. Let us know if you particularly like or dislike it, because this is your alumni magazine.

In Senior Colleges

Among returning alumni for Founders Day and Homecoming last October 29 were 59 girls of the classes of 1954 and 1955. A survey shows that 28 of these girls are enrolled in senior colleges, 23 are working, and four are married.

for Christian Education Day offerings through the churches. The dormitory, furnished and ready for occupancy, will cost well over $200,000. Only half of this amount is now in hand, so Christian Education Day is an important day to the growth and development of the college.

While funds are being solicited for completion of the dormitory, the trustees and college officials are looking ahead to construction of the new physical education building. Vitally needed, it is expected to be the next building erected in the long-range expansion program now underway.

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Alumni:

As we near the end of the Alumni Association year we are reminded of the days when we were back on the campus attending classes and taking part in the many phases of student life. At the beginning of this year, we purposed to do many things just as we did back during our school days. Now at the end of the third quarter, we find many things undone which should have been done long before now. As we ponder our problems and the unfinished tasks, we find ourselves drifting into a little escapism by way of day dreaming and reminiscing about student life back on the campus. Those were days we shall never forget. There were the many activities which demanded our time and afforded us pleasures. In this connection, we are reminded of the daily fellowship we had in the classes, in the dining room and on the campus property. We are also reminded of the club and Literary Society Activities, the plays, Christmas Pageants, Debates, and Orations in which we participated as well as the football, basketball, and baseball. For many of us, those things are gone forever. However, there are many things that we can do to perpetuate those things for the boys and girls of this area.

As we think back to our student life we are further reminded that our Alma Mater has had a continuous struggle for growth and sometimes for its very existence. Fortunately for her and for us, she had many friends who gave her their loyal support through the trying periods as well as during the periods of growth. Our reminiscing brings us to the thought that we are soon going to have an opportunity to lend our support to the college and the good work it is doing by supporting Christian Education Day which will be observed by our churches during the month of April, and especially on April 22. During the observance of Christian Education Day, we will be afforded an opportunity to support our college through our church. This is as it should be, for there are many who prefer to make their contribution through their church.

Mr. Lane

Since this will be the last issue of the Quarterly before the Alumni Banquet, we should like to remind you of the banquet which will be held the fourth Saturday evening in May. This annual gathering affords an opportunity to renew our fellowship and to talk over the activities of our student days. It is especially good for the members of the classes that are in reunion. May we look forward to meeting you at that time.

ROWELL LANE.

Seven New Trustees Join College Board

Seven new members were named to the Gardner-Webb College board of trustees when the Baptist State Convention met in Asheville last November.

The new trustees are the Rev. John Lawrence, pastor of Shelby's First Baptist Church; Ollie Harris, Kings Mountain mortician; G. B. Harrill, Forest City insurance man; the Rev. Tom Lawrence, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Cliffside; Dr. W. Wyan Washburn, Boiling Springs physician; James F. Cornwell, farmer and businessman of Lattimore; and Fred Caldwell, attorney of Maiden.

Mr. Caldwell was appointed by the trustees to replace Lee B. Weathers, Shelby publisher, who declined appointment to the board because of ill health. Mr. Caldwell's appointment is for a regular four year term, subject to the Convention's approval when it meets next fall.

Three of the newly appointed board members have had previous service on the board. These are Dr. Washburn, Mr. Caldwell, and the Rev. Tom Lawrence. The other four are newcomers to the college's governing body.

Mr. Cornwell and Mr. Caldwell are Gardner-Webb alumni. Mr. Cornwell is a member of the class of 1933, and Mr. Caldwell graduated in 1924.

Board members who retired at the end of 1955 are James L. Eskridge of Greensboro, Felix E. Hamrick of Boiling Springs, Arnold W. Kincaid of Kings Mountain, R. E. Price of Rutherfordton, Dr. H. Hansel Stembridge, Jr., of Forest City, Carson Stout of High Point, and the Rev. John W. Suttle of Shelby.

Twenty-one members are continuing on the board. Those whose terms expire in 1956 are the Rev. H. M. Baker of Warsaw, Paul Broyhill of Lenoir, Claude Hinson of Belmont, C. D. Spangler of Charlotte, and Guy Roberts, Howard Rollins, and Carlos Young, all of Shelby.

To continue on the board through 1957 are J. R. Dover, Jr. of Shelby, W. B. Hair of Gastonia, S. Bruce Hildebrand of Marion, Dr. M. O. Owens, Jr. of Lenoir, R. P. Reece of Winston-Salem, A. V. Washburn, Sr., of Shelby, and the Rev. H. Gordon Weekley, Jr. of Charlotte.

Serving through 1958 are Mrs. O. Max Gardner, Dr. Hubert S. Plaster, D. W. Royster, Sr., and J. L. Suttle, Jr., all of Shelby; John Moore of Tryon, Mrs. Hattie P. Self of Cherryville, and the Rev. Harold White of Spindale.

Newly elected board officers are the Rev. John Lawrence, chairman; Dr. W. Wyan Washburn, vice-chairman; the Rev. Tom Lawrence, secretary; and Mrs. Rush Stroup, re-elected treasurer.

Officers who retired on January 1 are Dr. H. Hansel Stembridge, Jr., chairman; Arnold W. Kincaid, vice-chairman; and Dr. W. Wyan Washburn, secretary.

The college trustees are elected to four year terms by the Baptist State Convention. The board is composed of twenty-eight members, with seven members rotated each year.

The Convention makes its selection each year from a list of fourteen names presented by the existing board. The Convention also has the authority, seldom exercised, of electing board members not included on the list presented by the board.

Clinic Gets Ford Grant

The Gardner-Webb Clinic, along with non tax-supported hospitals and colleges all over the country, will share in the grants made last December 12 by the Ford Foundation.

The Clinic will receive $10,900 with the stipulation that it be used to expand or improve facilities of the hospital and its service to the patients. The fund will be available within the next six to 18 months.

The Clinic, erected as a memorial to the late Dr. S. S. Royster, is a modern, 18-bed hospital owned and operated by the college. It received its first patient on December 1, 1949, and in the six years since that time has treated close to 100,000 patients.

In his annual report to the trustees last May President Elliott stated that in the preceding 12 months the Clinic had hospitalized 1,500 patients and treated 17,000 out-patients. Two hundred minor surgical operations were performed, and 225 babies born at the Clinic.

Dr. W. Wyan Washburn and Dr. Sam J. Crawley, Jr., college physicians, are polling the public and studying several possibilities for most wisely spending the Ford Foundation grant. The hospital committee of the board of trustees are studying the matter and are expected to make recommendations in the next few months for use of the grant.

No Negro Applicant

Much newspaper and radio publications to the story that, "a negro has applied for admission to Gardner-Webb."

Hundreds of people have expressed opinions as to what the college should and should not do about the matter. As so much interest has been expressed in the matter, it is felt the alumni should know the true facts in the case.

(1) The trustees are required to study the segregation question, in compliance with a request from the Baptist State Convention.

(2) Gardner-Webb has not had an application for admission from any negro. We have had a letter of inquiry from a Rutherford County negro youth, but he has not applied for admission.

(3) Negroes are studying at Baptist colleges in Oklahoma, Kentucky and other Southern Baptist states. They are enrolled at Southwestern, Southern, and the New Orleans Seminaries. They are also enrolled at the University of North Carolina.

(4) If a negro or negroes are admitted to Gardner-Webb, it does not mean that the school will be overrun by negroes, because the admissions committee of the faculty acts on each individual application.

(5) We repeat, no negro has been admitted, or applied for admission.

As the Quarterly went to press, the trustees were scheduled to meet on February 13, at which time they would discuss the segregation issue and hear a report from a fact-finding committee which has been studying the case.

With the trustees' consent, their stand on segregation will be given publicity in the public newspapers. The May issue of the Quarterly will also report their actions.

Whatever their decision, they and the administrative officers and faculty of your Alma Mater covet your prayers, and urge you to think carefully and prayerfully about the question at hand.

THE OLD - - - - - and - - - - - THE NEW

The clock in the old Huggins-Curtis Dormitory has ticked off the seconds and struck the hours that have crowded now into decades. In its time it has looked down from its stately perch as you came and went to class, or to meals, or to the library. You have checked the time by it as you came in with your date, or glanced anxiously at it as you stood in line for meals. In a sense it has recorded the history of Gardner-Webb, minute by minute, for almost half a century. Here Robert Withers stands and sets the timepiece as Bill Poole looks on.

Everyone on the campus is quite naturally interested in the new girls' dormitory now under construction. Here Cordie Hardin and Al Proctor check construction progress from a vantage point that is to be the main parlor. Cordie, a freshman, is a daughter of Rev. Robert L. Hardin '48 and Mrs. Hardin. Al is a sophomore day student from Shelby.

That You May Better Remember

This issue of your Alumni Quarterly features life among the students now enrolled at your Alma Mater.

As you can readily see from the pictures on the cover, in the center, and elsewhere, Gardner-Webb has its usual fine group of pretty girls and good looking young men.

Very few of these people are known to you, but the forces that mold their lives while they study, work, and play at Gardner-Webb are the same forces that permeated the campus during your student days here.

Go back, on memory's wings, to your student days at Gardner-Webb. Four years—14 years—40 years. The year you were here doesn't matter. In which of the pictures do you see yourself?

One of them?—All of them?

What do you remember most about your student days at Gardner-Webb? Perhaps it was an especially enjoyable class, or one you did not like. You of several years back may remember Mrs. Ritch's breakfasts of grits and eggs, or Prof. Huggins' chapel talks. And what about Miss Curtis and her strict discipline? Some of her regulations seem more sensible to you now, don't they?

You of the last 10 or 20 years will remember such things as Mr. Dixon's dry wit in math class, Mr. Stacy's philosophy and his opinionated statements about women, and Miss Miller's piano recitals. Girls of this era will recall Miss Cuthbertson's house meetings, and the year's end serenades by the boys. None of you could forget President Elliott's chapel talks.

Look at the pictures again. Remember the excitement of getting a letter from home, with maybe a dollar or two in it? What about taking hasty notes in class and then not being able to read them when you tried to study for exam? Then there were the nightly jaunts to the snack shop, where those lucky enough to have an extra quarter would satisfy youthful appetites with a hamburger—sometimes only 30 minutes after supper.

Vespers was another vital part of the day for many of you, who met each evening for a brief period of worship together. Many a young life found Christ in these services, and many a fledgling preacher here learned how to talk to others about God.

Your college life seems to fall into three major areas of development: mental, social, and spiritual. Gardner-Webb seeks to develop in its students a harmonious blend of these three, and in so doing to promote the maturity of the individual.

Current News From Former Teachers

Several inquiries have come to us recently about former faculty members who are no longer teaching at Gardner-Webb.

We have compiled as much recent news as possible about several former teachers. The next issue of the Quarterly will also carry news items about other faculty members of recent years.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Otis Trentham, who taught here in 1947-1949, now live at 1765 North Eleventh Street, Abilene, Texas. Mr. Trentham is professor of biology at Hardin-Simmons University. Mrs. Trentham was an instructor in social studies until becoming ill a year ago. A series of light cerebral hemorrhages have caused her to become partially paralyzed, but she is slowly recovering. Mr. Trentham has been in his present position since leaving Gardner-Webb. All their children are now married.

J. Karl Jordan, who taught music in 1931-1933, is teacher of eighth grade boys at Boiling Springs High School. He is also engaged in raising beef cattle.

where she has taught music until last year.

Mrs. G. W. Vick, Jr. (Frances Cuthbertson), dean of women and teacher of English and dramatics from 1940 through 1949, now lives in Bossier City, La. Her husband is a captain in the Air Force, stationed at Barksdale Field. They have two sons, Giles, 5, and John, 3.

Miss Lilla E. Watkins, professor of commerce in 1942-1952, now teaches in the Opportunity School, West Jefferson, S. C. Since she left Gardner-Webb Miss Watkins taught at Montreat College and studied at Peabody Teachers College before entering her present work. The Opportunity School's curriculum is designed especially for handicapped people.

John R. Cantrell, president of the college from 1939 until 1943, is now pastor of Lattimore Baptist Church. He and Mrs. Cantrell live in Boiling Springs.

Horace G. Hammett, teacher of English and math in 1926-1929, is assistant executive secretary for the Baptist State Convention of South Carolina. Mrs. Hammett is the former Miss Lorene Woody, who taught piano in 1927-1929.

Mrs. F. B. Hamrick, who taught music in 1922-1924, now teaches piano in Boiling Springs High School. She and Mr. Hamrick live in Boiling Springs, where he is engaged in farming.

James L. Jenkins, president of the college in 1933-1935 and 1938-1939, is now teaching in the Preachers' School at Fruitland. The Reverend Jenkins taught Bible at the college for several years between 1929 and 1945, and was pastor of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church from 1927 until 1952. He suffered a heart attack last fall, but is now sufficiently recovered to be back in his work as a teacher of preachers.

Miss Marjorie Crisp, teacher of women's physical education from 1935 through 1942, is now head of the department of physical education for women at Wake Forest College.

Mrs. Jayne Putnam Jolley, college nurse in 1948-1952, is now a nursing supervisor at Shelby Hospital.

Mrs. Ada Hamrick, who taught high school subjects in 1929-1935, now teaches math in Boiling Springs High School.

Dr. Zeno Wall, president of the college in 1930-1932, is now pastor of Elizabeth Baptist Church near Shelby. He was pastor of Shelby's First Baptist Church until 1948, when he became superintendent of the Baptist Orphanage of North Carolina. He returned to Shelby three years ago.

A. C. Lovelace, president of Gardner-Webb in 1935-36, died February 3 of a heart attack while traveling on Highway 27 in Cabarrus County. Mr. Lovelace was living in Forest City at the time of his death.

Your Opportunity on Christian Education Day

You are needed for leadership in your local church on Christian Education Day. As alumni of Gardner-Webb you know the value of Christian education. You are needed to spearhead the cause of Christian education and explain the purpose and function of our Baptist colleges.

April is the month set aside by the Baptist State Convention for observance of Christian Education Day. The specific Sunday is to be decided on a local level. In most cases it will be April 22.

Christian Education Day is the only time during the year when a special offering is taken for any or all of the Baptist colleges.

A portion of all funds given to the Co-Operative Program go to the seven Baptist colleges. Part of this is designated for operating expenses and part for capital outlay. With the overflow of students now reaching college age, however, our colleges need to expand at a faster pace than is provided by the funds received from the Co-Operative Program.

"We must go all out on Christian Education Day if we expect to do anything toward expanding the college," says the Rev. John Lawrence, chairman of the board of trustees. "Let's pull out all the stops and give everybody in every church an opportunity to have a part in providing Christian education for our young people."

Many churches do not observe Christian Education Day, and in those that do, pastors sometimes fail to explain the purpose of the day and the important role played by our Baptist colleges.

We need over $100,000 to finish paying for the new girls' dormitory. This building for 100 girls will be completed by next August 15, and we must have the necessary funds by that time. It would be wonderful if this amount could be raised on Christian Education Day.

Those of you who are not Baptists may contribute directly to the college and designate your contribution for the Golden Anniversary expansion program or whatever other use you choose.

You as Gardner-Webb alumni have an opportunity to have a great part in the life and expanded services of your Alma Mater on this day. Designate any gifts to the college, and encourage your friends to contribute as loyally as they do for other special offerings.
