IN THE HANDS.

OF A WOMAN

The most influential position in the nation today is held by a woman. She enforces law, practices medicine, and teaches--without degree, certificate of competence, or required training.

She handles the nation's food, administers its drugs, and practices emergency first aid. This for all the spiritual, physical, and mental ills of the American family.

A man literally places his life and the lives of his children in the hand of this woman--his wife.
