GOING BACK DOES IT

We all grow weary in coddling chronic absentees and prospective members. But a survey made by the National Retail Goods Association throws significant light on the question:

- 48% of the salesmen make 1 call and quit.
- 25% of the salesmen make 2 calls and quit.
- 15% of the salesmen make 3 calls and quit.
- 88% of the salesmen quit after 1,2, or 3 calls.
- 12% of the salesmen keep on calling.

The 12% who keep on calling do 80% of the business. The 88% of the salesmen who quit by the third call do only 20% of the business.

The principles of Jesus are equally applicable here. Even after the ninety-nine were safely in the fold He kept on seeking. He said, "Go and do thou likewise."

You Can Be a Church Historian!

John listened intently as the assembly conference leader declared: "Every church member can do something to help make history important, to conserve the records of his church, and to make the past a vital part of the present and the future."

"Me, a church historian?" thought John, "What can I do?" However, John returned home determined to make his church's history his business.

Gradually he led his fellow members to know and appreciate their Baptist heritage. They learned about the service of former pastors and leaders through biographical sketches John compiled.

Some members joined the search for photographs of pastors and buildings for a permanent display in the church. Interest centers, featuring items related to the history of John's church and the denomination, caught the eye of all who passed by.

Upon John's recommendation, the church insured the permanent safety of its records by having the Historical Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention microfilm them in Nashville.

No one was surprised when the church elected John chairman of its first history committee. All were delighted with the history of the church later compiled by the committee. It encouraged the members to want to make as big a contribution to the work of Christ as others had done in years past.

You—a church historian? Why not see what you can do to get your church excited over its history and interested in discovering and conserving the story of its past.

Like a Tree

I'll never forget the huge hickory tree of my childhood. The tallest tree around, it grew in the fertile meadow down by the creek. It must have been the biggest tree because of the good rich soil and the never ending supply of water.

Summer afternoons my brother and I played in its cool shade. In autumn, after the first frost or two, we gathered hickory nuts from under its spreading branches. When the nuts dried we knew mother would use them in delicious cookies and candy.

When the Psalmist talks about the people of God being like a tree planted by the water, I think I know something of what he meant. The hickory tree helped teach me. When I see Christians tall in character, rooted deep in spirit, I know they stand close to God who gives richness and meaning to life.
