It's That Season Again

As we face the opening of the new college year, 1957-58, we also face the beginning of the second half-century of the history of the school. Naturally we turn to the matters of most serious concern.

After adequate support—I would mention the faculty as of first concern. The heart of any college is its teaching force, and no college can rise above that. Through the years Gardner-Webb has maintained with not too much difficulty a highly trained and efficient faculty, and this is largely the secret of her success. Now with crowded enrollments and reduced supply of teachers the competition grows intense. This competition for teachers now is not only with the junior colleges, but with high schools, four-year colleges, universities, and with industry. In all these areas teachers can get more salary than we can pay.

We shall have to be able to meet this competition or accept less efficient teachers. Dedication won't answer the problem, for as one industrialist remarked recently, "A teacher can feel a deep sense of dedication where he is paid enough to buy the groceries."

The second greatest problem, it seems to me, is that of the needy student. Here is one of the greatest arguments for the junior college. The major part of the cash of an education is in the junior and senior years. Many of our youth can secure excellent training in the junior college without this added expense. A freshman in a large institution, though taught by students, pays as much as does a senior. Besides this, the upper three or four percent of high school graduates, especially those with high I. Q's and excellent grades, as well as good athletes are paid to go to college. Those who have money can go. But there are a large number of our best potential citizens who cannot pay even what the colleges charge. Neither can they secure scholarships. Without help they face the loss of educational advantages and the country faces the loss of many trained leaders. It is for us to be constantly on the alert for the potentially capable citizens, and having found them create in them the desire to train, and create for them the means by which they may be trained. Not to do this is to be guilty of inexcusable waste of our most valuable and most needed possession. The Gardner-Webb Story is a success story. Let's never forget that, and let's keep it so.

About the Cover

The cover picture is intended to re-ignite some of the love for football that supposedly smoulders in the breast of every American. The weeks ahead will produce their usual crop of happy fans, enthusiastic rooters, and armchair strategists; and if precedent holds true it will be open season on every losing coach.

The picture was made by Paul Lemmons of Shelby, staff photographer for the Shelby Star. He was a student last year in the Gardner-Webb night school.

Joins Seminary Faculty

Dr. Nolan P. Howington, '36, has been named to the faculty of the School of Theology, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., where he will be professor of preaching.

Dr. Howington goes to his new work from pastorate of the First Baptist Church, Little Rock, Ark. Prior to that he was head of the sociology department at Carson-Newman College.

Dr. Howington is married to the former Marietta Price, '39. They have three children.

All Former Students Invited For Event

Every student of the institution, whether as a high school or college student, is invited to return to his Alma Mater October 25 for Founders Day.

On that day the college will be host to the Kings Mountain and Sandy Run Baptist Associations, meeting in the new physical education building. In addition to the constituency of Baptist churches in these associations, Gardner-Webb covets the presence of its former students and teachers.

Appearing on the program will be the presidents of each of North Carolina's Baptist colleges. These include Dr. Leslie Campbell, Campbell; Dr. Bruce Whitaker, Chowan; Dr. P. L. Elliott, Gardner-Webb; Dr. Hoyt Blackwell, Mars Hill; Dr. Carlyle Campbell, Meredith; Dr. Harold Tribble, Wake Forest; and Dr. Budd E. Smith, Wingate.

The gymnasium makes a comfortable and satisfactory auditorium, with individual chairs, a public address system, an electric organ, and a spacious stage.

The Boiling Springs Baptist Church is host to the Kings Mountain association on October 24, the day preceding the joint meet. They have accepted the college's invitation to use the gymnasium for their meeting also.

Lunch will be served on the church lawn for both days of the meetings.

New Faculty Members

Henson

Tribble

Crowe

Jolley

M. W. Gordon, Jr.

Mrs. E. H. Goodwin

Thirlen Osborne

Eight new people have been employed as members of the faculty and administrative staff at Gardner-Webb for the new school year. They will assume their new duties with the opening of school Sept. 2, with the exception of the new business manager who began work August 1.

M. W. Gordon, Jr., Marion businessman who has been prominent in the civic, religious, and business life of that town for 30 years, became business manager of the college August 1. He is a former principal of Marion High School and has served as chairman of the board of deacons at the First Baptist Church in Marion. He is chairman of the board of commissioners for McDowell County, and for a number of years has operated a furniture and appliance business in Marion. He is a Furman University graduate.

A picture and article in the May issue of the Quarterly announced employment of Robert L. Flynn as instructor in speech and dramatics. This is Gardner-Webb's first time to have a full time instructor in that department.

Mrs. E. H. Goodwin of Greenville, S. C., will be counselor for girls, replacing Mrs. M. A. Stroup, who died May 25 after a four-month illness. Mrs. Goodwin began her duties as counselor on February 1, and was re-elected to the position at the end of the school year.

Succeeding the late Prof. J. Y. Hamrick in the English department is Prof. Thirlen Osborne of Winchester, Ky. Osborne is a B.A. graduate of Kentucky Wesleyan College, and has the M.A. degree from the University of Kentucky. He has taught in the public schools of Kentucky, Indiana, and Texas.

Miss Louise Crowe will be librarian, replacing Miss Jessie DeShong, who has resigned because of poor health. Miss Crowe, a Boiling Springs native, has been head librarian in Burlington City Schools for the past seven years. Prior to that time she was librarian in the public schools of Cleveland and Rutherford Counties. She is an Appalachian graduate.

Miss Betty Mae Tribble, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold W. Tribble of Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem, will teach in the language department. Miss Tribble is a Wake Forest graduate, she studied at Columbia and at the University of Besancon, France, and has the M.A. degree from the University of North Carolina. She replaces Prof. Claude H. Britt, Jr.

Joining the faculty as instructor in the history department is Prof. Lansford Jolley, native of Boiling Springs and graduate of Gardner-Webb in the class of 1947. Prof. Jolley is a Wake Forest graduate and has the M.A. degree from George Peabody College. He has taught for a number of years in Ellenboro High School.

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Fellow Alumni:

It is with gratitude and humility that I have accepted the honor of being your president for this year. I am grateful because it gives me an opportunity to express my appreciation to the school that has meant so much to me. I am humbled by being selected to serve in this honored position.

Every alumnus has reason to be proud of his Alma Mater, but every Gardner-Webb alumnus has reason to be doubly proud and grateful. I am speaking of the heritage of the school now celebrating her Golden Anniversary, and her vision of the coming day in Christian higher education.

Recently I visited again the campus of our beloved school. The ing. The new Physical Education Building commanded my attention from its prominent place on the slight hill behind Decker Hall, suggesting by its very size and magnificence its impending role in the education of future students. Already the beautifully designed swimming pool had been tested for several months by students and R. A. campers.

I was amazed at the size and beauty of the interior of this newest addition to G.-W. facilities. In addition to adequate accommodations for indoor games there are several classrooms under its tremendous roof. Here is a building that can also be used for meetings requiring more space than is available in the Hamrick Building or the dining hall. Perhaps next year we may be able to use it for the Alumni Banquet without having to restrict attendance at all.

The new girls' dormitory, used for the first time last year, would be an asset to any college or university. The rooms are adequate in size and beautifully furnished in blond and oak finished furniture.

Every structure that rises to grace the campus is additional proof that Gardner-Webb in her fiftieth year is still dedicated to the proposition that higher education is good preparation for life and that Christian higher education is the finest preparation for the Christian life.

May each of us who are products of this "Golden Anniversary" College support her in a "Golden" way! The college needs our support particularly at this time. We are still a long way from the goal set as our alumni gift to the college. If you have not made a contribution to the college recently, I hope you will do so soon. ZEB MOSS EVER CHANGING, YET EVER THE SAME—Little more than a decade has passed since the college plant consisted primarily of the three white buildings to the left facing Quinn Circle. Yet this aerial view made last month shows these as only a small portion of the college. In the immediate foreground is the Clinic, and across the street from it are the two semi-quadrangular dormitories for girls.

Enrollment Records To Be Broken Again

Applications on August 1 indicate an increase in enrollment of approximately 50 students over last year. This means a steady climb for the past four years, with annual boosts of 50 to 60 students.

Total registration last fall was 483, with 57 additional joining ranks at beginning of the spring semester. This brought the year's total to 540, an increase of 67 over the preceding year.

Dormitory space for boarding boys is virtually filled, although a few rooms remain available and applications are still being accepted.

Boarding facilities for girls is not yet overly crowded, and late comers can still have some choice in selection of a room.

The school year begins September 2.

Nationwide Recognition Through Publication

Gardner-Webb received prominent recognition last month in a nationwide publication. The college was given a two-page feature story, illustrated with pictures, in the Junior College Newsletter.

The Newsletter is published monthly in Washington, D. C., by the American Association of Junior Colleges. It has subscribers, primarily educators and lawmakers, in every state and several foreign countries.

The feature story appearing in the Newsletter was prepared by the Quarterly editor and deals principally with the growth and development of the college and its current Golden Anniversary Celebration. It reviews the college's service program and its philosophy that, "To survive and grow in the face of competition from larger schools, we must be ever conscious of our obligation to serve all our people in every possible way."

Alumnis Chosen to Head Sunday School Board

Dr. A. V. Washburn, Jr. '29, has been elected executive secretary of the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, effective January 1, 1958.

Dr. Washburn is a native of Cleveland County, and although he has lived in Nashville, Tenn., for the past 24 years while serving with the Sunday School Board, he has kept close ties with Gardner-Webb and has visited the campus regularly.

His father is currently serving his second appointment as a member of the college's board of trustees.

Dr. Washburn is a graduate of Wake Forest and Peabody, and received an honorary doctor's degree last year from Georgetown College. He expects to complete work later this year for a doctor's degree from Baylor University.

FINISHED AND READY—Work on the new physical education building is now finished except for cleaning the windows, scrubbing the walls, and landscaping the grounds. The $300,000 structure will seat 1,600 spectators at games, or 3,000 when used as an auditorium. In addition to the playing court it has classrooms, offices, shower and dressing rooms, a 40 by 60 foot stage, restrooms, spacious lobby, caretakers' rooms, and service kitchen. First major use of the building will be for assembly of the Kings Mountain and Sandy Run Baptist Associations October 24 and 25.

1944 Grad. To Teach At Furman University

Dr. Robert W. Crapps of Hickory has been named assistant professor of religion at Furman University, according to an announcement by Dr. A. E. Tibbs, dean of the University.

Dr. Crapps, who is pastor of the Temple Baptist Church in Hickory, will join the Furman faculty in September. A native of Gastonia, he is a graduate of Gardner-Webb College and Wake Forest College and holds B.D. and Th.D. degrees from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Crapps is married and has two sons, Robert, 7, and John, 5.

Clyde F. McAllister, a 1944 graduate of Gardner-Webb and bursar from 1946 to 1949, has been appointed assistant bursar of Douglas College in Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J. Since leaving Gardner-Webb he has been bursar of Shorter College, Rome, Ga.

New Faculty Members

Mrs. Jolley is the former Cothenia Jones, '47. She teaches in Boiling Springs School.

James P. Henson, for the past five years a teacher at Tri-High School in Rutherford County, is the new professor of business education, succeeding Prof. Eugene Vosecky. Prof. Henson is a graduate of Appalachian State Teachers College with the B.A. and M.A. degrees. He has taught in McDowell and Lincoln Counties prior to going to Tri-High. Prof. Vosecky has accepted appointment to the faculty of Western Carolina College.

Death Takes Counselor

Mrs. M. A. Stroup, who came to Gardner-Webb last September as counselor for girls, died May 25 after an illness of four months.

Her husband, who was a member of the class of 1911, died in 1955. The two were residents of Cherryville, where he was prominent in business and civic affairs, serving for a number of years as chairman of the Gaston County school board.

Across The Desk

By John Roberts, Quarterly Editor

Mention the name of his Alma Mater and any old grad immediately gets a far-off look in his eye and begins to reminisce, aloud if he has an audience or silently if they withdraw from earshot, about incidents associated with his college days. These incidents usually tend to be humorous, with the first party or one of his close friends as the victim of a harmless prank.

The following anecdotes have been collected from various alumni covering the entire history of the college. They make no claim to complete accuracy, are light in intent, and are designed solely to oil the memory values of old grads.

Remember? —

... The way Gertrude the cook used to turn out pompous meals for banquets, and even managed to make tasty everyday eating from corn bread, molasses, liver mush, and turnip greens during the depression-ridden '30's.

... John Blanton's bucket brigade that may be credited with saving Huggins-Curtis, and probably the life of the college simultaneously, when the Memorial (E. B. Hamrick) Building burned one cold November night in 1937.

... The fire-produced excitement that caused Eugene McSwain to pitch his typewriter from a third floor window and then carry his clothing from the burning Memorial Building.

... Perry Sellers and Katie, a little black mule, using a twister plow to construct Quinn Circle, Gardner-Webb's Main Street, in 1907. While Sellers guided the plow, classmates Tommy Goode and J. O. Ware chopped trees and dug stumps from the right-of-way.

... R. D. Hord's service station and general store, which served as social center, barber shop, trading post, and horseshoe pitching spot for the college boys.

... The way chickens would periodically disappear from neighboring farms during the "Roaring '20's," and mysteriously turn up in a cooking pot in the "Barn," boys' dormitory.

... Pranks played on Prof. O. P. Hamrick during the 20-odd years he taught at the college; things like hiding his car, or rigging a bucket of water strategically over a door. Remembered too should be the nobility of "Fesser" in always being able to take a joke.

... The endless stunts of "Nat" Perry, and the cold evening in 1938 when one of his tricks misfired. It seems he was dared by classmates on a weiner roast to swing out over Broad River on a cut muscadine vine. The vine, with "Nat" aboard, took a dunking.

... Buck Page's "speed machine," an ancient convertible, that often wheezed into Shelby in the late 1940's with a dozen students aboard.

... And as for vehicles, who could ever forget Miss Abbie Miller's little '32 Chevy and the spare jug of gasoline that always dangled from the spare tire?

... Which brings up another four-wheeled wonder, the truck of dubious origin that saw Arvil Icard (1936) through school. It seems that Arvil, backed by the truck, landed a contract to keep coal hauled for the heating plant. All was rosy until after a hard afternoon's work he raced for the dining hall at the last minute, forgetting to wash the coal dust from his face. Legend has it that Mrs. Ritch mistook his identity and informed him that "Colored help eat in the kitchen."

Across The Desk (Cont'd.)

... The Sunday some 20 years ago when the Rev. J. L. Jenkins failed to appear in the pulpit for the morning service. After inquiries among the family and a hasty check of the home by son Jay, the pastor came from his study and confessed that "Time had slipped up on him."

Mr. Jenkins, as he is universally known, is said to have more sermon outlines in use than any other Baptist pastor in North Carolina and possibly in the South.

... Incidents like one that happened to Mrs. Dorothy Washburn Hamrick, college registrar, who renewed acquaintance with her Gardner-Webb roommate after 22 years as the latter, Sibyl Moore, now Mrs. C. O. Dellinger of Charlotte, brought her daughter to the college last month to apply for admission as a freshman. The daughter, Dorothy Ruth, was almost forgotten as the two indulged in a pleasant session about college days.

... The weekly parade of girls to Hamrick's Store for shopping, a ritual which began with the school's opening and continued for 25 years. They walked the mile each way under the watchful eye of Miss Etta Curtis.

... Mountain pilgrimages made by Florence Burnett and her pals in "Belinda", an aged Buick, when her father, Dr. G. J. Burnett, was president.

... The huge dishwashing machine in the old kitchen that was "automatic" if the lever had a husky boy on the end. It is said that machine put more ministerial students through college than could attend on a large scholarship fund.

... J. Y. Green, the old Negro who hauled scraps from the kitchen to feed his hogs which were penned on the site presently occupied by the Clinic.

... Another Negro employee, Ulysses S. Hamilton, who has worked for the college since 1917, currently as orderly at the Clinic.

... Field Day competition in 1955 during the do-or-die high jump battle between Don Smith, freshman; and Bill Norris, sophomore.

... Mr. Dixon's favorite autograph for yearbooks "Always B2", or Mr. Stacy's favorite which goes like this: "YAAFPPJS" (You are a fine person. P. J. Stacy).

... The big radio with a "horn" speaker that sat in the main parlor of Huggins-Curtis. It was purchased by Prof. Huggins around 1923 when pioneer radio station KDKA, Pittsburg, began broadcasting. Students and community residents were charged 1¢ each for an evening of listening (Often to more static than dialogue or music). In spite of the high cost of admission the parlor often held an audience of 100 or more, and some of the couples, it is rumored, violated the strict atmosphere by holding hands or even patting their feet to the music.

... The soul-stirring chapel talks of Dr. Elliott or of Prof. Huggins, depending on when you attended. Many who have heard them declare they will never forget those words of wisdom. Even as the specific content of the speeches is forgotten, the philosophy that fostered them remains with the old grad as a guide to greater living.

... Popularity of the male quartet in 1938-39, composed of J. C. Digh, Robert Calton, Eugene McSwain, and John Hicks; and the girls' quartet that year including Aileen Jones, Jeanette McSwain, Luna Whitaker, and Helen Borders.

... Vance Havner, the "boy wonder of the pulpit" around 1915, who later met expectations of his classmates by becoming an outstanding preacher.

... Don't disturb the old grad, he's still dreaming.

BULLDOG SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

The Gardner-Webb Bulldogs will hit the practice field Sept. 2 this year, in preparation for a nine-game schedule that begins two-and-a-half weeks later.

Coach Norman Harris and Assistant Coach James Garrison, while naturally conservative in the comments, are expected to field a rather strong team. They will be pinning their hopes on ten returning letter-men, plus a couple dozen eager rookies. The latter group includes at least two Shrine Bowl and All State veterans.

The team-supporting Bulldog Club is now in process of collecting fees for new and renewed memberships so that all members can have their cards before the season opens.

The Football Schedule:

Sept. 21	Lees McRae	Away
Sept. 28	Wingate	Home
Oct. 5	Appalachian "B"	Home
Oct. 12	Mars Hill	Away
Oct. 19	Wingate	Away
Oct. 26	Lees McRae	Homecoming
Nov. 2	Mars Hill	Home
Nov. 9	Ferrum	Home
Nov. 16	Georgia Military	Away

SUMMER SCHOOL—Even study of a cross section of the round worm can be interesting on a hot day in summer school, when explained by positive and philosophical Prof. Paul Stacy. Enrollment for the summer session totaled 109 students for the 28 courses of study offered.

New Alumni Officers Named At May Banquet Meeting

The Rev. Zeb Moss, '50, is president of the Gardner-Webb College Alumni Association for the 1957-58 year, having been nominated and elected at the Alumni Banquet May 25.

The new president is pastor of Caroleen Baptist Church in Caroleen. He is a Wake Forest and Southeastern Seminary graduate, and was formerly associate pastor of Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala. Mrs. Moss is the former Evelyn Krause, '50.

Adam Haynes, '50, of Union Mills is the newly-elected vice-president. Mrs. Dorothy W. Hamrick, '35, college registrar, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Elected to three-year terms on the nine-member board of directors are Robert Spratt, '34, of Caroleen; Marjorie Bridges, '48, of Gastonia; and Don Shull, '57, of Shelby.

Retiring officers include Mabel Padgett, '44, of Spindale, president; Margaret Dellinger, '47, of Belmont, vice-president; and Mrs. F. B. Hamrick, '13, of Boiling Springs; Mrs. J. Lowery Austell, '26, of Shelby; and Henry W. (Bunny) Price, '54, of Miami, Fla., directors.

Arnold Kincaid Honored As Alumnus of The Year

Arnold W. Kincaid, class of 1926, has been named Alumnus of the Year for 1957. Announcement of his selection was made at the annual Alumni Banquet May 25.

Kincaid is a resident of Kings Mountain, and is a successful manufacturer with plants in Bessemer City. He is a member of the First Baptist Church in Kings Mountain and is a member of the school board in that city. For a number of years he has served on Gardner-Webb's board of trustees.

Arnold W. Kincaid

The honored alumnus enjoys telling that he met his wife, the former Janie Sue Dodd, '25, at Gardner-Webb, and that his daughters Iva Jean (Mrs. Robert Beason, '46), and Sarah (Mrs. Bobby Bush, '53), met their husbands at the college.

Kincaid's selection was made by a committee of the board of trustees, who sought an alumnus, "Most nearly embodying, in his life and work, the ideals of Christian living represented by the college."

A monogrammed silver bowl, given by friends of the college, was presented Kincaid at the Alumni Banquet.

This is a new award, given this year for the first time. A recipient is to be selected each year from among all the men and women who have studied at Gardner-Webb during its years of service as a college and as a high school prior to that.

College Histories Given Donors To Current Expansion Program

Lengthened Shadows, the Gardner-Webb history published in February, is now in the hands of several hundred former students and many other friends of the college.

Hundreds more of the books, however, are still on hand. Last month the trustees approved giving a copy of the book to every person who makes a contribution of $3.00 or more to the building fund before mid-October, or until the book supply is exhausted before that time.

Gifts have come in daily for the past few weeks, bearing contributions in response to letters sent by the Quarterly editor. Books have been sent to these donors by return mail.

If you wish to contribute to the expansion program, and receive a copy of Lengthened Shadows by return mail, please clip the blank below and mail it, with your gift, to the address shown.

Hi folks!

I'm Butch. All you old timers remember me, although the young set for the past couple years are since I turned in my last T-bone.

I want you to join the Bulldog Club right away. Get your season pass and come out to the ball games. Believe me, the boys are going to be plenty RUFF this year.

Bulldog Club membership entitles you to take your whole family to the games without gate charges, and the family gets free barbecue at Homecoming too.

Join the Bulldogs, and come to the games.

I'll be there in spirit. You come in person.

For details write Coach Nerman Harris, or write Bulldog Club, Gardner-Webb College, Boiling Springs, N. C.
