Through the years I have been in constant contact with our Baptist schools. From time to time it has been my privilege to be in meetings and in conferences on the various campuses. In recent years I have been pretty well acquainted with our schools in a general way.

During the past few weeks I have had the opportunity to spend some time on the campuses at most of our seven Baptist colleges. I realized for the first time that I had not been familiar in detail with the activities and programs of our Baptist schools. The only way to know what our schools are doing is to take the time, spend some time attending chapel services and visiting all of the buildings and departments. I have really been amazed at the wonderful programs being carried on in our various schools.

To meet the presidents, hear them talk about the progress and problems, hear members of the faculties talk, meet the student bodies, and catch the spirit of the schools is really an inspiration. This is the only way to know our schools.

Of course all of us appreciate the contributions which our colleges are making to our churches and denominational life and can readily see what a dearth of leadership we would have if we did not have these avenues of Christian education. After catching a new vision of what is being accomplished in our seven Baptist colleges, I have a new desire to make a larger offering on Christian Education Day, June 16. I believe it would be a
