A REAL LIFE — SIZE VALENTINE

The President's Page

The second half of the fifty-first year of Gardner-Webb College is now beginning. A larger number of students were enrolled last semester than in any other semester in the history of the college. During the past eleven years the college has erected twenty buildings, large and small. These are the criteria of greatness of many institutions: schools, churches, businesses. However essential these may be, they are but the tools with which we work. It is not how long, how much, or how many. It is how far an institution has progressed in achieving a fellowship of learning, of service, and of quality production in human values that counts. In a word it is the satisfying, intangible values that count the most. It is the dream of your college to achieve this higher goal which can be attained only by an increasing number of people being sufficiently convinced of its worth to provide the material needs.

The time has come when we must think constructively about replacing the Hugins-Curtis Building which was completely destroyed by fire last August. The building was insured for $60,000.00 which amount is being reserved as a nucleus for the replacement of the destroyed building. Individuals and groups are already swelling this figure. The honor list will be published later.

Dr. Elliott

The building proposed for the same site will be divided into three units and can be so built as money is available. One unit is planned for science laboratories, lecture rooms, home economics, business education, mechanical drawing, mathematics, and psychology. This wing is a must if we provide courses in science already in demand. For a number of years now we have had sufficient requests for additional sections in biology and chemistry, but laboratory facilities were not adequate.

The second unit will contain greatly needed classroom space, conference rooms, and faculty office areas.

The central unit, joined by covered walks with units one and two, will house the administration offices, and all records.

On the first floors will be a student store, a post office, student activities area, publication offices, and storage rooms.

The three units will cost in the neighborhood of $400,000.00. By careful planning, hard work, and sacrificial giving the science unit should be under construction in 1958.

Christian Education Day in the churches will be June 15, Fathers' Day, at which time the church may designate a gift, either to the building or to current expense.

Every day is Christian Education Day at Gardner-Webb.

Pinson Coaches Palmettos To Shrine Bowl Victory

Walter Pinson, member of the class of 1938 and outstanding athlete during his student days, coached the victorious South Carolina high school all-stars in their upset victory over the North Carolinians in the Shrine Bowl football game in Charlotte December 21.

Pinson is head football coach at Union High School.

Commenting on the victory, Pinson heaped credit on his associates and the Palmetto players. Sports-writers, however, were unstinting in their praise of the timing and strategy of the coach picked to direct the South Carolina team.

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Fellow Alumni:

Of all disasters that befall the created objects of man, probably two of the worst sights are a ship dashed to pieces upon the rocks and a building in flames. The latter was the fate of the historical Huggins-Curtis dormitory building on the campus last August.

Not only did this building hold many precious memories for the early founders of the college, but also for us of a later generation. Before its portals I was met by B. S. U. officers who kindly helped me lug a burdensome trunk into room 131. My second year was appropriately spent on the second floor of this same building from which we could overlook the front lawn and hear clearly the chimes calling us to church on Sunday morning. These halls held memories of bull sessions, cramming for exams, long talks with new friends, and hall prayer meetings.

But enough reminiscing! The loss of this landmark not only removed the brick and mortar which housed this student, but it removed prematurely from use a building still valuable to the college. The college is now faced with a shortage of men's dormitory space. The men now occupy space formerly reserved for women students. The completion early last summer of a new girls' dorm fortunately provided adequate housing for the women students.

But, the college must have a replacement for the Huggins-Curtis building. Additional classroom space, plus replacement dormitory and office space lost is needed. As a fellow alumnus let me urge you to send some contribution to the building fund at the college soon. No matter how small it may seem to be, our gifts are needed by our college now.

It is not too early to begin making plans for the annual Alumni Banquet. The banquet was a great success last year with a capacity attendance. Plan now to be present to help make this a most successful event.

Sincerely,

Zeb V. Moss.

Mr. Moss

HUGGINS-CURTIS BUILDING & DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

Turn to this page as soon as you receive the Quarterly next time, because in the May issue we plan to show the architect's sketch of a proposed new administration, science, and classroom building.

These are perhaps the last pictures we will publish of the Huggins-Curtis building, which burned during the pre-dawn hours of August 23.

Above is the last professional picture made of the structure before the fire.

In the picture to the right, your editor caught Coach Norman Harris silhouetted against the flames as he watched precious athletic equipment burn in storage rooms which were once the kitchen and dining hall.

Our loss was tremendous, but we shall overcome it, secure in the conviction that those who love Gardner-Webb can do no less than their forefathers who founded the school and erected the original building. Construction of the proposed new building is dependent on approval of plans and securing of necessary funds.

Boiling Springs Pastor Accepts Virginia Charge

The Rev. John S. Farrar, pastor of Boiling Springs Baptist Church since 1952, resigned effective January 26 to assume pastorate of First Baptist Church, Culpepper, Va.

He and his family moved to Culpepper the last of January, and he began his new duties February 1.

During his five years in Boiling Springs the local church has substantially increased its missionary offerings. It also gave generously to Gardner-Webb College during the Golden Anniversary expansion program, contributing $36,000.

Former Science Teacher Lives In Lincolnton

Mrs. Mildred McClain Milam, who taught science at Gardner-Webb in 1909, now lives in Lincolnton, where she has made her home for over 30 years.

Following her stay at the Boiling Springs High School she taught for a time in Cliffside. Later she was married and moved to Lincolnton. For the past 32 years she has been secretary for Ideal Chair Company in Lincolnton.

Mrs. Milam was honor guest September 30 at a dinner meeting of the Lincoln-Catawba Chapter of the Gardner-Webb Alumni Association.

Deaths

A. V. Washburn Sr.

A. V. Washburn, Sr., who would have completed his second term as a trustee January 1, died at his home near Lattimore November 11.

Mr. Washburn, 71, had been in declining health for a year, but remained active until a few weeks before his death.

Throughout his life he took a vital interest in the college, and while in office as a trustee he worked diligently as a member of the board's tone and character committee.

Lee B. Weathers

Lee B. Weathers, publisher of the Shelby Daily Star and twice a trustee of Gardner-Webb College, died January 11 in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He suffered a fatal heart attack while vacationing at his winter home there.

For many years Mr. Weathers had been a generous and enthusiastic supporter of the college, and at the time of his death he was working on a project for the school. Two years ago he was re-elected to the board of trustees but was unable to serve because of ill health.

Mrs. Faye McSwain Greene

Mrs. Johnny Greene, the former Miss Faye McSwain, died last August 28 at her home near Boiling Springs.

She served the college as dietitian in 1945-1947.

Mrs. Pat Stout Dean

To many recent graduates homecoming and alumni events will never again be quite whole without Pat Stout Dean, 1956 graduate.

She and her husband, Joseph Dean, lost their lives December 21 near Charleston, W. Va., in an auto crash as they traveled home for Christmas holidays. Riding with them and also killed in the crash were three young children of friends.

May Queen in 1956, Pat held several other honors and offices while at Gardner-Webb. She was a cheerleader, attendant to the homecoming queen in 1955, and a member of the May Court as a freshman.

Mrs. Dean and her husband were enrolled in the School of Furniture Design, Grand Rapids, Mich. They were married last summer after she completed her junior year at Meredith College and he finished his third year at the University of North Carolina.

Clarence Griffin

Clarence Griffin, noted North Carolina historian and Forest City newspaperman, died January 10 of a heart attack.

A long-time friend of Gardner-Webb, he had given hundreds of books to the college library, including several rare volumes housed in the North Carolina room.

Across The Desk

By John Roberts, Quarterly Editor

Interest is increasing in organization of local chapters of Gardner-Webb alumni. First to be established was the Lincoln - Catawba Chapter last year. At its year's end meeting before Christmas Mrs. Velma Propst Drumm, '30, was elected president, succeeding Dr. S. A. Wilson, '32.

Charlotte alumni held their initial meeting in September, electing Julius Pinkston president, Jack Creech vice - president, and Betty Staton secretary.

Alumni in Winston-Salem have inquired lately about the possibility of establishing an alumni chapter in this area. To all these we lend encouragement and pledge cooperation.

* * * *

Something new was added December 6 and 7 when a Baptist Junior College Basketball Tournament was played in the new gymnasium. Participating were the North Greenville Mountaineers who won first place, the Gardner-Webb Bulldogs who bagged the second-place trophy, the Camels of Campbell College placing third, and the Wingate College Bulldogs who ranked fourth.

The gold cup won by the Bulldogs stands in lonely solitude in an otherwise empty trophy case in the new gymnasium, because a score of trophies of former years were destroyed last August in the Huggins-Curtis fire. Perhaps the bare shelves will be added incentive for the Bulldogs to win honors and bring home more trophies for display.

* * * *

The Quarterly was not published in November, but in its place we mailed to the alumni copies of the 14-page special section of the Shel- by Daily Star. This section was devoted to the history and growth of the college and was published in conjunction with our Golden Anniversary celebration last October 24-25.

As this is our first issue of the Quarterly in six months, many of the personal news items are old, but we feel they may still be of interest to friends and former classmates.

* * * *

The half - centennial celebration last October attracted around 1,500 people for each day of the two-day program. A high point in the meetings was dedication of the new physical education plant and the dormitory for girls. Following this, the cornerstones from the Huggins-Curtis Building were opened. Present were six people who had witnessed laying of the stones 50 years and 119 days earlier. They were Joe C. Washburn, J. L. Lovelace, Mrs. Ola Crabtree Greene, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Whitaker, and W. E. Hill.

Many an old grad found a wife or husband while a student at Gardner-Webb, and a larger number saw friendship flower into courtship and marriage after completing their studies at the college.

Now cupid seems to have invaded the faculty ranks as well. In October Prof. Richard Barnett, head of the social studies department, married Miss Betty Mae Tribble, instructor in languages.

During Christmas holidays Miss Jean McSwain, English instructor and 1953 graduate, was married to the Rev. Forrest Teague '54, pastor of Union Baptist Church near Shelby.

Alumni - Living Endowment

By W. Lawson Allen, Vice-Pres.

Living endowment accrues from benefits received from individuals to take the place of income which ordinarily would come from trusts, bonds, stocks, real estate, etc. Gardner-Webb has about $260,000 invested, which amount produces around $10,000 each year. This income is about 4% on the invested capital.

The question might be asked: How much does the college need from endowment to balance the budget? It takes around $50,000 each year from endowment or other gifts to balance the budget. It would take, therefore, an invested capital of more than one million additional dollars to produce the necessary income from endowment. Most individuals do not have that kind of money.

Living endowment is the answer. You may not have $100,000 to give to the college for endowment, but you might give $5,000 per year for living endowment which is 5% of $100,000—or even $4,000 which is 4% of $100,000. It may be that you can't give even $10,000 for endowment, but you might give $500 for living endowment. Or $250, or $100, or $50, or $25, or $10, or $5, $4, $3, $2, $1, which would represent the interest on an income from amounts you could never give at one time.

We have some alumni who can give large amounts others smaller amounts. Let us look at some possibilities, even probabilities in living endowment.

2 gifts of $10,000
per year—total	-----$20,000
2 gifts of 5,000
per year—total	----- 10,000
3 gifts of 2,500
per year—total	----- 7,500
10 gifts of 1,000- 2,000
per year—total	----- 10,000

10 gifts of 500- 700
per year—total	----- 5,000
20 gifts of 250- 300
per year—total	----- 2,500
50 gifts of 100
per year—total	----- 5,000
50 gifts of 50
per year—total	----- 2,500
50 gifts of 25
per year—total	----- 1,250
100 gifts of 10
per year—total	----- 1,000
100 gifts of 5
per year—total	----- 500
1,000 gifts of 1 or more
per year—total	----- 1,000

	$66,250

The above amount is 4% on $1,666,250, or equal to returns from an endowment of more than 1½ million dollars for one year!

Where do you fit in the scale? If we can get 1,000 of our alumni to give something this year we will effect a wonderful start toward a Living Endowment which will solve our current expense problems. Will you help?

Addresses are known for fewer than half the Gardner-Webb alumni. We need the current address of every former student so that we can send them the Alumni Quarterly. Please help us keep our files up to date.
