Dear Mrs. Gardner:

I say it again: you're a wonderful person and you mean more to Shelby than anyone else I know. That's just a word of affection to "send flowers to the living," so to speak, in the hope that it might be some comfort to you in these days when your heart

2// is heavy. You've never been lacking in courage and I know you won't be lacking in it now.

I thought you might have missed these clippings — since the papers they appeared in don't circulate here as freely as does The Observer — and that you might like to see them.

With my abiding admiration,

Erna
