G-W IN THE FALL

Ever changing, ever the same, leaves from old trees rustle on the swagpat walks . . . troubled by the feet of countless students in fall's crisp air . . . they walk the paths that others walked, in other falls, sound knowledge . . .

Alumni Message From The President

Calling all the Gardner-Webb Alumni!! We need your help. A major step has been taken by your Alma Mater—the Junior Year. Next fall the Senior Year begins. The launching of the four-year program calls for much sacrifice and work.

A major source of financial help for church-sponsored colleges is foundation support. Most foundations want to know the percentage of alumni giving. Why not now and write a check and send it to your Alma Mater? You will receive a blessing and your college will be stronger.

It is our desire to serve you and your children. An investment in Gardner-Webb will assure that your children and friends will receive a better quality education. Help us build a better quality into Chapel Hill Higher Education by giving to the Annual Fund.

President

COLLEGE'S SECOND ANNUAL FUND REPRESENTS "LIVING ENDOWMENT"

Gardner-Webb's loyal alumni are asked to join this year in the college's second Annual Fund, a living endowment for the college.

Many larger and older colleges and universities have accumulated great endowments, which are funds invested to provide permanent financial support in the form of dividends and interest.

Boyd Named To Promotion Post

William E. Boyd joined Gardner-Webb College effective Nov. 1 as the new Director of Promotion.

Mr. Boyd has served as pastor of First Baptist Church in Essex, Fla., since 1966. Before that, he was pastor of Boy Coza Baptist Chapel in Tampa, Florida, for three years, and editor of family life materials for the Baptist Sunday School Board in Nashville two and a half years. With the Sunday School Board, he edited Home Life magazine, with a circulation of more than 900,000 copies a month, and wrote for many other Baptist publications.

Mr. Boyd majored in journalism at the University of Florida in Gainesville, where he earned a B. S. degree. He became public reporter for the Tampa Tribune and rose to suburban editor before resigning to enter Southern Seminary eight years later.

He was graduated from the seminary with a bachelor of divinity degree in 1961. As a seminary student, he served as summary news director and as pastor of Sanduski Baptist Church (Ky.).

His wife, the former Miss Carolyn Bennett, earned a bachelor's degree at Wake Forest College and a master of religious education degree at Southern Seminary, and has been active in Baptist children's work and publications. The Boyds have four children.

W. E. BOYD

Life magazine, with a circulation of more than 900,000 copies a month, and wrote for many other Baptist publications.

Others, including Gardner-Webb, are not fortunate enough to have large endowments. Therefore, they rely on an Annual Fund to provide a "living endowment." Large numbers of people provide modest amounts each year in lieu of a larger investment which would draw interest annually.

Giving the college $50 a year is equivalent to a low per cent return on a $1,000 investment. Giving $5 each year is equivalent to the return on a $100 endowment.

Most of us would have to save many years before reaching a position to give our college a big endowment. But all of us should be aware that a small amount, contributed each year, can be immediately put to use as an effective aid to G-W's development.

As the college grows to four-year status and strives to achieve excellence in its service to young people, your participation in a "living endowment" can help her provide a program which is outstanding, rather than merely average.

You as alumni can have a vital part in strengthening your Alma Mater. Gardner-Webb's program depends to a large degree on the generous support of many people who are dedicated to that "sacred dimension" in education. An "investment" in the Annual Fund will pay rich dividends in the hundreds of young lives that will be affected. The coupon below is provided for your convenience in making a contribution to G-W's "living endowment."

WOULD YOU LIKE TO TAKE PART IN THE SECOND ANNUAL FUND? Take a moment to fill in the Coupon Below.

Dixon Lends Talents To Church

A college faculty's influence reaches beyond the campus every time. When a faculty member is a dedicated Christian, that influence is felt, particularly in the church where he worships.

So it is with Professor Hubert C. Dixon, whose mathematics classes are almost a tradition at Gardner-Webb College, and his church, Bowling Springs Baptist. Pastor Max Linnans recalls that Professor Dixon was on the pulpit committee which brought him together with the congregation 11 years ago.

"And he has been there since. When there's a service at the church and he's not there, I know he's sick."

Professor Dixon is a deacon, teacher of a new 7th Sunday School class and former Sunday School super intendant. He led the Sunday School to its largest attendance in history and into a graded system. Also, he served as a member of the church's building and finance committee throughout a period in which it moved into newly constructed facilities.

"He's a man whose money, whose life, whose time, whose service is there all the time," his pastor says. Yet, he's an individualist, the Rev. Mr. Linnans adds. The same talents of thinking-through and accuracy that stand out in his classrooms are lent to his church work, too.

"His answer speaks off the top of his head in our church meetings," Linnans says. "He asks questions, gets the information. . . . Then he takes a positive stand." The pastor refers to Mr. Dixon as a "strong right arm."

To the Baptists who know him, he's an outstanding example of the kind of resource to church and community that a Christian college's faculty can be.

Basketball Forecast: Another Exciting Season

Gardner-Webb basketball in 1991 and 1970 promises to be just as exciting as in the past few years, but head coach Eddie Holbrook has cautioned, "We won't live in the past."

The Bulldogs won 30-5 last year and made their second consecutive trip to the national junior college playoffs in Hutchinson, Kansas. There they lost the opener to undefeated Robert Morris in a tight one bounced back to roll over Nevada of Florida, and then, in what was to be their final game as a junior college, lost to Phoenix in triple-overtime, 108-106, after overcoming a 23-point deficit.

Games from the toped are 7-3 center Artis Gilmore and 6-5 forward Eric Fleming, and Steve Keckak, the short, sharp shooting guard.

Holbrook, however, has moved to fill the gaps.

Leading the list of returning veterans is 6-5 sophomore George Adams from Kings Mountain. Adams carried a big portion of the weight in the Bulldogs from free last year, especially in Kansas, and averaged over 16 points and a dozen rebounds per game.

Other returning veterans are Tony Spagnolo, 6-4 forward from Patterson, N. J., who is capable of bursts of scoring, and Kevin Cantwell, 6-3 swing man. Both Spagnolo and Cantwell saw plenty of action last year. Other returnees with experience are Gary Vallascaourt, Alan Lund, Joe Bookins, Buck McGill and Meredith Scruggs.

Holbrook has signed three top fresh prospects and two highly regarded transfer students. Fresh signs are 5-10 Jimmy Phoenix, a left-handed defensive ace from powerful DeMatha High in Washington, D. C., 6-4 Duane Carter, a strong jumper with good potential, from Brooklyn, N. Y., and 6-11½, 243-pound Heavy Boyd from Wrentham, S. C., who also has excellent potential and superior speed for a man his size.

Football Team Enters Senior Competition

The football Bulldogs are finding the going a bit rough on the senior college level of competition this year, but the record is in no way indicative of the individual contests.

At this writing, the Bulldogs were 0-4. They made good showings in three of the contests, actually winning in the statistics departments but losing on individual scoring plays.

The Bulldogs have displayed brilliant football in sports David Gibbons' naming the pairing of quarterback George Spencer, good line play by Hardin Davis, Jim Scauro and Ray Miller and consistently good defensive efforts by Gary Galt, Tony Purnon and Meredith Scruggs have all been bright spots in a losing record.

Some freshmen have shown explosive-ness. Quarterback Ray Hinton, named by a sophomore jury very well out of the option, and Ken Ross who was Athletic of the Year in Mecklenburg County last year, has been coming along well, and Lance Myers, outstanding back in last year's Ent-

West (N. C.) All-Star game, was switched to defense against Guilford and did very well.

G-W Joins In Rubella Prevention Campaign

This picture of Gail Alexander, junior elementary education major, will be used nationally in publicity for a campaign for rubella (German measles) screening and vaccination. The picture first appeared on a pamphlet explaining a pilot program carried out by Royce Memorial Hospital and the N. C. Board of Health in cooperation with Gordon-Webb and surrounding public schools. The program laboratory-tests blood samples from high school and college girls to determine their immunity status and need for vaccination. Vaccination before marriage is important for the disease may cause infant abnormalities if a mother contracts it in early pregnancy. The little stick Gail holds is an important part of the screening process: pure cells from such sticks are used to identify the virus.

DRAMA GROUP IN NEW QUARTERS

Gordon-Webb's imaginative new Opera House Theatre will open Nov. 14 with a student performance of Tennessee Williams' dramatic Summer and Smoke before a black-tie audience.

The Opera House Theatre formerly was the sanctuary of Bellinger Springs Baptist Church. The church buildings were acquired by the college in a recent campus expansion and are providing, for the first time, a real "home" for the thriving theatre arts department.

The lower floor has been transformed into a drama workshop area, with tools and equipment for the construction of stage sets. The sanctuary area was being redecorated during September and October after the style of 19th century opera houses, a theme suggested by the ornate architecture of the building itself. Victorian-style furnishings and decor will lend atmosphere. A feature will be customized patron "boxes" popular in theatres a hundred years ago.

Hopefully, the redecorating will give the theatre a picture, unique style of its own. Design and redecoration of the structure have virtually been do-it-yourself projects for the theatre arts department faculty and students, whose contributions have included the actual painting and carpentry.

The Summer and Smoke premiere will be the theatre's first. To celebrate it, the formally dressed audience will join cast and crew in a reception afterward.

Provision for a theatre is part of the college's move toward a well-rounded four-year status. In 1971, G-W will offer a B.A. degree in theatre arts. Course offerings in the field are being increased.

Professor C. Robert Jones, a playwright himself, is departmental chairman. Dr. Charles Cox, who joined the department last year, is teaching new courses in theatre arts and mass media and religious drama. Mr. Terry Hines, new department member who handles technical duties, has been supervising students in work on the theatre building. He teaches stagecraft, scene design and acting.

- ... New student body officers have been installed on G-W's campus. Larry Thomas of North Aspinwall, S. C., assumed the presidency, Wilbur G. Hubbard of Charlotte was elected vice-president and Swadlow Lee Webster of New Bern was elected secretary-treasurer in recent balloting.
- ... Bellinger Club Appreciation Day was held Oct. 11. A pancake supper held before the G-W-Newsport News football game raised funds for a Baptist Student Union Athletic Scholarship. An open house of all athletic facilities preceded the event.
- ... Students will take a break from classes for the Thanksgiving holidays. They'll be dismissed after classes Wednesday, Nov. 26, and return Dec. 1.
- ... G-W's historic junior class, first in the college, will get a head start on registration for second semester. Juniors will sign up for classes in November through their counselors in advance of freshmen and sophomores who'll register in usual January.
- ... A new Religious Education Club has been formed on campus, with Dr. Bob Lamb as advisor. Officers are Steve Gregory, president, Jeff Crawford, vice president, Liberty Koonce, treasurer, and Mrs. Carolyn Duncan, secretary.
- ... The Classics IV, a leading popular singing group, are scheduled to appear in the East Physical Education Building Nov. 16 in a concert sponsored by the Student Government Association.
- ... Representing Gordon-Webb at a Sept. 24 luncheon sponsored by the N. C. Foundation of Church-Related Colleges were Dr. E. Eugene Poston, President; Mr. J. Randolph Hines, Director of Alumni Activities; and Larry Thomas, President of the Student Government. The luncheon honored the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. for its significant role in support of higher education and also marked the kick-off of the first phase of the Foundation's 1969-1970 Fund Appeal. The appeal will seek $350,000 from business and industry.

Jones' Script To Be Published

A new full-length theatre script by G-W Professor C. Robert Jones will be published by Baker's Plays in Boston, Mass., this fall. Entitled "Love Is Better Than The Next Best Thing," the script has been designed for Resident Theatre to be performed by two men and two women in a 110-2 hour production. The script is the second for the college's theatre arts chairman to be published this year. "Marked For Murder," a one-act murder mystery, was released nationally this summer.
