Miss Miller Appreciates Gift of New Piano

The President's Page

Dear Alumni:

Our second semester at Gardner-Webb began this week. We have enrolled 51 new students in the day college, 55 in the evening college and 6 new students in the evening art classes. These numbers added to our 628 of the first semester give us a total of 740. Our summer school should push the enrollment for the year over the 1,000 mark.

Two great needs face us at the present time.

Dr. Poston

First, we must build another dormitory before the fall of 1963. The Baptist State Convention of North Carolina has voted to give us the privilege of borrowing $150,000. However, with a present debt of $185,000 we must raise a great part of the $150,000 or our academic program will suffer. Second, there is a growing need for a scholarship program. The cost of education is getting higher. Therefore, we need to provide more help for deserving students.

Perhaps you are asking "What can I do?" You can pray for us that God will open ways for us to meet the challenge of the day. You can also make a gift to the Building Program, the Alumni Endowment Program, or the Scholarship Program. We must build our Christian Colleges stronger if America is to survive.

May God continue to bless you, yours and your work.

Sincerely yours,

Reaccreditation of G-W Voted by Southern Association

Gardner-Webb was voted reaccreditation during the 67th annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, which met in Dallas, Texas, in November.

Approval was based upon a self-study lasting three years and required by the Association every ten years. After restudy and evaluation by both college officials and the Association, the college "more than met" fifteen association standards to gain reaccreditation.

The self-study was primarily designed to determine three things: (1) what are the school's purposes and objectives, (2) how well the college is fulfilling these, and (3) what changes could be made to effect these.

"The improvements made during the intense study of the college assures the college service area of quality education and that Gardner-Webb intends to serve the area well," Dr. Poston, President, said.

$200,000 Anonymous Gift Received

Gardner-Webb College recently received an anonymous gift of property valued at $200,000. This is one of the largest gifts the college has ever received from an individual. Announcement of the gift was made by the college President, Dr. E. Eugene Poston, to the Executive Committee of the Trustees meeting at the college in January.

The property has been set up in a trust fund whereby the income from it will be used for the support of the college, at the discretion of the trustees. The deed for the property has been received by the college Business Manager, M. W. Gordon, Jr.

In making the gift, the donor said, "Recognizing the needs of Christian Higher Education in general and of our Baptist colleges in particular, I want to give something for their support now, while I'm living. If the pressing needs of today are not met, the future is uncertain."

The trustees and the administration of the college expressed great delight in receiving the gift. Dr. Poston said, "It is a long step forward toward better support for the college. We hope it will be a challenge to others to make similar gifts."

THE OLD DAYS AT BOILING SPRINGS HIGH SCHOOL

The following article was written by Mrs. R. H. Gelling (Ozelle Gardner, '20) of Monticello, Florida, who is owner and operator of the Monticello Milling Company. After Boiling Springs High School, Mrs. Gardner graduated from N. C. State College and the Woman's Missionary Union Training School, Louisville, Kentucky. She taught school in N. C. and Fla. for six years and owned and operated a flower and gift shop for twenty years. In 1933 she married Monticello business man, Robert H. Gelling, who passed away in 1960. Her hobbies are antiques and growing orchid plants.

Her account will bring back fond memories to those of our older alumni and will give later alumni a picture of their Alma-Mater that they may not have known. Hope you enjoy it. — The Editor

My earliest recollection of the school was in the summer of 1941, when Professor J. D. Huggins came to the farm home of my parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gardner, to discuss the possibility of my older brother, Virgil, going to the school in the fall. Being farm people, we had very little cash, but grew our own food, and had plenty of milk, meat, and vegetables. If my brother went to high school there must be some way he could earn his way, and this he was ambitious to do.

It was decided that he would be allowed to take a cow to school in order to further his education. The school agreed to buy the milk, paying $.20 per gallon. My father built a small shed at the back of the school property and supplied feed from the farm. We had a small dairy and milking cows was not new to Virgil. As I remember, he walked the eight miles to school leading his Jersey cow. He milked her night and morning and carried the milk into the basement kitchen where Essie, the cook, strained the milk and took care of the milking vessels and had them ready for the next milking time. Of course, my brother was promptly nicknamed "Jersey" by the other boys, but he never seemed to mind it. The proceeds from the milk added up to more than he needed for his expenses.

In November of that year, I entered school as a grade student. I worked in the dining room and kitchen, carrying dishes off the tables and helping with the washing of them. For a week's work of this kind, I was paid $1.50 to $2.00. I stayed with this job until I finished school.

World War I interrupted my brother's education and he died soon after his return from the war. Many students made great sacrifices to stay in school and today many of these have attained greatness in their chosen fields of service.

Discipline was much more strict than the present students can possibly imagine. We were not allowed to leave the campus without a teacher. The campus of that day was small as compared to the present one. Once a week we were lined up, two by two, by Miss Etta Curtis and marched to Hamrick's store where we could do our shopping, if we were fortunate enough to have any money. This was the only store where we could find things we needed. Once in a while we could find a teacher who was willing to take us for a walk on Sunday afternoon. We wore uniforms to church and marched in formation.

Speaking to boys was not allowed at all, except while at the dining table, where the boys sat on one side of the table and the girls on the other, and while waiting for classes to assemble. Dates were allowed once in a while, usually after some kind of public gathering in the school auditorium. Before meals the girls would gather on the porch on the south side of the building and the boys would gather on the northside porch of the Huggins-Curtis Building, as it was later known. Although we were not allowed to talk across from one porch to the other, there were many flirtatious smiles and loving looks from one side to the other. Even though discipline was strict, I am sure that Miss Curtis, who had charge of the girls, must

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Fellow Alumni:

Gardner-Webb is now in its spring semester with well over six hundred enrolled. From every indication the college is enjoying one of its best years. The spirit among the students is good, and the relationship between faculty and student body is fine.

You have probably read of the wonderful gift of some $200,000 to the college by an anonymous friend. We all rejoice in this strengthening of the school's ability to enlarge its ministry to young people in our area.

Mr. Padgett

You may remember also, that Rev. Robert Trexler, '42, headed a committee two years ago that recommended at our spring banquet that the alumni establish an Alumni Endowment Fund. The Alumni Association endorsed the recommendation by official vote. However, nothing much has been done about starting this move in any serious manner. Certainly not many could give $200,000 to Gardner-Webb, but most of us can give a little. With the rapidly growing number in our ranks, this can be of great service over a period of years. Why not get this endowment fund going by a personal gift between now and our spring banquet?

I'm sure that we have growing pride in the growth and development of Gardner-Webb. Your friendship and support will help this growth to continue. Let each of us use our influence to turn good students toward our school, and encourage support in every possible way. Remember to pray for the future of Gardner-Webb.

Sincerely yours,

New Alumni Chapters To Be Organized

Efforts are underway to organize seven new alumni chapters and to have all existing chapters meet before the annual Alumni Association meeting and banquet May 25.

Last year twelve new chapters were organized and added to the already active Gaffney chapter for a total of thirteen chapters. By the addition of seven new chapters there would be a total of twenty, which is a goal of Alumni Association and college officials.

The Central Piedmont Chapter (Lexington, Thomasville, High Point), which was the first one organized last year, met Jan. 24 in Lexington, with a good number in attendance. Dr. Eugene Poston, '43, Thomas J. McGraw, '49, Robert W. Abrams, '42 and Hubert C. Dixon, '33, attended, with Professor Dixon the speaker of the evening.

The Southeast Rutherford Chapter plans to meet in the near future. Meeting plans of other chapters are pending.

FOOTNOTES TO G-W COLLEGE HISTORY

1. Dr. Eugene Poston, President, was the main speaker at dedication services of the East Maiden Baptist Church, Maiden, N. C., the last Sunday in December. The services marked the completion of a $144,000 building program which included an educational building and an auditorium. The Rev. Frank Taylor is pastor of the 400 member church.

2. Thomas J. McGraw, '49, Director of Development, attended a four-day communications seminar in Charlotte, Nov. 26-30. Attendance was by invitation only, and McGraw was one of two Baptists in the state to be invited to attend. The meeting, held at Camp Walton Stewart, owned and operated by the Mecklenburg County Presbytery, was sponsored by the N. C. Council of Churches in co-operation with the National Council of Churches.

3. Four Gardner-Webb preachers have been serving as interim pastors of churches for varying lengths of time. Dr. E. Eugene Poston has been serving as supply pastor at Flint Hill Baptist Church near the college. Dr. Eugene M. Keebler, Dean of the College, has been serving at the First Baptist Church of Caroleen. Rev. Don Moore, '53, Director of Guidance, has been at Putnam Memorial in Shelby, and Robert W. Abrams, '42, Director of Promotion, has served the Calvary Baptist Church in Newton.

4. Dr. E. Eugene Poston and Dr. Eugene M. Keebler represented G-W College at the 67th annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, held in Dallas, Texas, Nov. 26-29. Meeting in conjunction with the Southern Association was the Southern Association of Junior Colleges, which they also attended. Dean Keebler was a member of the Student Personnel Committee which reported during the meeting. Many noted speakers were heard, including N. C. Governor Terry Sanford, who delivered a major address to the Commission on Secondary Schools.

5. Dean Eugene M. Keebler was a victim of a kidney stone attack in early December. After spending several days in the Royster Memorial Clinic in Boiling Springs, he was transferred to the North Carolina Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem, where he was a patient for several days. Following his discharge from the hospital, he returned home some time for rest and recuperation. Now he has regained his normal health and is actively on the job.

6. Mrs. Rubye Etta Terrell, wife of Professor J. O. Terrell, suffered a heart attack in late October, which caused her to discontinue temporarily her teaching at Mooresboro Elementary school. After an extended stay at Royster Memorial Clinic, she returned home and is reported to be making satisfactory progress in her recovery.

7. Mrs. Dorothy Hamrick, '35, Registrar, attended the graduation of her niece, Betty Louise Bridges, '58, from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, in January. While on this trip, she visited her brother, Reburn Washburn, in Las Vegas, New Mexico. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Washburn, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Bridges on the trip.

8. Thomas J. McGraw, '49, and Robert W. Abrams, '42 attended the Baptist Public Relations Association Workshop Meeting in Washington, D. C., Jan. 21-23. The retiring President of this group was John E. Roberts, '48, editor of Charity and Children and former editor of the Quarterly.

THE DEAN'S PAGE

Change is taking its toll upon all of us. Even Gardner-Webb must bow to the age of the missiles. The Model-T gave way to the modern automobile, and the raccoon coat has given way to the mink. The changes taking place at Gardner-Webb are really only "developments." Gardner-Webb is growing and developing into a better program of Christian education.

Some of the changes or developments taking place here are as follows:

1. The Nursing Program instituted this year for the first time is extending Christian education directly to the healing field. The threefold ministry of our Lord (teaching, preaching, and healing) is the direction for Gardner-Webb. The Nursing Program is small now, but it will grow.

2. The Evening College is the newest development at Gardner-Webb. The people of this area asked for this program. More than 60 highly motivated adults are already fulfilling their desires to continue their education. Lifelong needs are being met in this program. Eight classes (Mathematics, English, Bible, Art, Engineering, Accounting, Typing and Shorthand) are being taught. This service program is distinctively promising at this period of our college's history. The future of the program depends upon the people of the area. The administration is firmly connected with the service needs of the people in our area. We expect this to grow into a full curricula of offerings through the years.

3. What else is developing at Gardner-Webb? We are experimenting in several areas. For instance, Donald Moore, professor of psychology and Director of Guidance, is moving into a laboratory-type experiment with the course in educational psychology. Mr. Moore will lecture two days a week and on the third day smaller groups will work on projects, make institutional visits, operate laboratory experiments, etc.

4. Rev. J. T. Gillespie is presently developing a Greek seminar. He hopes that this will involve people who want to refresh their reading knowledge of Greek and who want to learn, to extend, and up-date their language proficiency. Pastors and interested laymen are invited to explore the richness of these seminars in the language of the New Testament as it was originally given.

5. What else? Hubert Dixon, head of the science department; Lansford Jolley, head of the social studies department; and Deck Andrews, head of the business department, are exploring new curricula, outlines and courses in their departments.

6. The In-Service Training Program this year has brought distinguished educators to the campus, such as Dr. Bonnie Cone, President of Charlotte College, and Dr. Doak Campbell, President Emeritus of Florida State University. Dr. Charles Harmon, President of the American Association of Junior Colleges, is scheduled for the April program. This program has strengthened the junior college goals of education at Gardner-Webb.

7. Studies are being made in several areas of administration. The recent self-study made by the college will soon be off the press. The Southern Association of Colleges recently re-approved the already accredited program at Gardner-Webb. We are also studying ways of improving student academic accounting, as well as evaluating the trimester system.

Changes, changes, changes, . . . . .
Gardner-Webb will meet the need!

Dr. A. F. Settlemire, '10, of Houston, Texas, died Dec. 5, 1962. After leaving here, he attended Erskine College, then went to Houston, and worked for the Railroad Company until World War I broke out. He went in the Army with the Texas 36th Division and saw action in France. Later he received the D.D.S. degree from the University of Texas Dental School, and opened an office in Houston, where he practiced until he retired in 1958. For the last 13 years of his practice his son, Howard Vance, shared offices with him. He was always an active member of his church, the Bering Memorial Methodist Church, and at the time of his death was a member of the Board of Stewards. He was also a recipient of the Good Fellow Award of the Texas Dental Society. After he retired he spent about half of his time at his Sand Hill Farm, where grandchildren, John Alfonso, Mary Elna, and Shirley made life interesting and very happy for him. He was married to the former Elna Windham. Mrs. Settlemire says that Dr. Settlemire loved Boiling Springs, and that Gardner-Webb College's profound influence was utmost in his life.

Dan W. Moore, '14, of Boiling Springs, prominent Clevelander and register of deeds for Cleveland County, died sometime before noon November 15, 1962, apparently suffering a heart attack. ## Former Trustee Dies

The Rev. J. A. "Daddy" Brock, 83, of 1302 S. Lafayette St. in Shelby, died at 1:30 a.m., January 4, in Spartanburg General Hospital following a lengthy illness. Mr. Brock served as a member of the Board of Trustees of Gardner-Webb from 1931-1941.

A native of Anderson, S. C., he was first married to Lelia Jennings in 1899, who died in 1948. He was later married to Mrs. Effie Bridges Brock, who survives. He is survived by one son, the Rev. Paul T. Brock, '41, of Greensboro, five daughters, and four stepchildren.

He was educated at Furman University and served as a pastor in North and South Carolina for more than 55 years. He held important positions in state conventions of North and South Carolina and served on the General Board of both conventions.

"Old Timers" Basketball Game Staged

The Athletic Department of G-W sponsored the first "Old Timers" basketball game in mid-January, in which former college stars played the present varsity team.

Seventeen "greats" of former years returned and participated, making a good showing for themselves. Thomas J. McGraw, Director of Development, and former player and coach of high school basketball, was coach for the "Old Timers".

The college furnished uniforms, and provided a pre-game meal in the college cafeteria for the players and coaches.

Following the game, a reception and fellowship hour was held, to which all players and their families were invited. Light refreshments were served.

In addition to the players' families, many other alumni and friends attended the game. It was considered a successful effort by Coach Norman Harris, who hopes that it may become an annual affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Scottie Frizzell ('56) and young son traveled the longest distance for the "Old Timers" basketball game. They came from Atlanta, Georgia.

Dean Inaugurates In-Service Training Program

An In-Service Training Program was inaugurated last fall for the administration and the faculty of the college under the direction of Dean Eugene M. Keebler.

The need for this program is based upon a three-fold basis: (1) the rapidly changing world and the outdating of much of the knowledge originally brought to a position; (2) the welding of the staff and faculty together through a continuing program of professional development; and (3) the fostering of individual growth and contribution by group participation and development. The In-Service Training Program has been found to be one of the most effective ways of ensuring the continuous improvement of a group in the light of these factors.

The program at G-W has included several work sessions of administration and faculty on current problems at the beginning of the school year.

The schedule of speakers has included Dr. Bonnie Cone, President of Charlotte College, who reported on the North Carolina educational scene, and Dr. Doak Campbell, President Emeritus of Florida State University, who lectured on the role of the junior college in today's world.

In April, Dr. Charles Harmon, President of the American Association of Junior Colleges and President of Bluefield College, is to lecture on the private college point of view.

Dr. Keebler and others have expressed hopeful enthusiasm for the program which has gotten off to a good beginning.

GIFT ESTABLISHES COMPETITIVE SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Gardner-Webb was recently the recipient of a gift of $5,000 from Mr. Jack R. Dover, Jr., '11, of Shelby, for setting up a Competitive Scholarship Fund. This gift marked the beginning of a long-desired and long-awaited effort toward meeting a real need at the college.

Dr. E. Eugene Poston, College President, in discussing the gift said it was the first received toward a goal of $50,000, the earnings of which are to be used for scholarship purposes. He said that it is felt a Competitive Scholarship program will do much to attract academically talented students to G-W. It will aid the effort to keep the scholastic standards high. Also it will boost Gardner-Webb's ability to aid deserving students who are unable to pay the entire cost of their college education.

It is hoped Mr. Dover's gift and example will encourage and challenge others to contribute to this fund. Already Mr. W. T. Bost of Hickory has made a gift, and Mr. Claude Hinson, a college trustee, of Belmont, has indicated that he plans to make a gift.

From My Side

By R. W. Abrams

One of my responsibilities is to conduct the College Day Programs in the high schools of our area, which are held mainly from the middle of September to the middle of December each year. In this capacity, I drove over 7500 miles and presented Gardner-Webb to more than 1100 students who signed a registration card and received one or more pieces of literature dealing with the college. Other students came by my table but did not tarry long enough to sign a card. From these contacts and from observations, I have drawn these conclusions:

Mr. Abrams

1. Gardner-Webb College has a good image and a good reputation wherever it is known. This is true on the college level with all the institutions of higher learning and especially with the four-year colleges and universities of North Carolina. Unfortunately we are not known everywhere, and it is a constant challenge for us to make every effort possible to become better known.

2. Students in high school who plan to go to college are by and large a serious group. They are fairly well informed about the requirements for entering certain institutions. High school counselors are doing a good job, and they are going to do a better one. In spite of this, however, many students are ill prepared, course-wise and grade-wise, for entrance to college. They are often deficient in one or both areas. Here is a place for improvements.

3. Students are seeking and receiving scholarship aid toward a college education. There seems to be almost no limit to the number and type of scholarships available to the academically talented. Perhaps more should be given to the "average" student and the one in real financial difficulty. At both points Gardner-Webb is short. We need a strong competitive scholarship program. A real good start has been made toward achieving this position. Let us move on with it.

4. Present students and alumni of Gardner-Webb are her best recruiters. Students can reach former fellow students in high school in a way unbelievable to others. Alumni with enthusiasm for their Alma Mater are able to share with prospective students in a most effective way. And of course, they often encourage their children to follow in their footsteps. Fellow alumni, let me appeal for your help at this point. It may be that you can make your greatest contribution to the college just here. However, don't overlook other areas of service and help.

5. There is a place, at least for the present, for good two-year schools like Gardner-Webb. With entrance to four-year schools being gained with increasing difficulty, an added responsibility is placed upon us. Without compromise and without the lowering of standards, we must find a way to serve those students who are rejected by the four-year schools when they are not in the top third of their high school class. At the same time, we need to attract some of the top students for our school. This seems to be a paradox, but it must be overcome.

These are some conclusions I have reached for the moment. What do you think of them?

Sincerely yours,

R. W. Abrams

BULLDOGS HONORED

Gardner-Webb placed four players on the All-Region 10 Junior College football team as announced in Dec. by Region 10 commissioner "Chick" Martin of Brevard, N. C. A total of 13 players were selected by a vote of the coaches of the teams representing Region 10.

Gardner-Webb players named were: James Harmon, 170 pound guard from Forest City; Jerry Campbell, guard, weighing 200 pounds of Cramerton; Center Woody Dillard, weighing 190 pounds from Hickory Grove, S. C.; and Clayton Christwell, fleetfooted 150 pound halfback of Bath, S. C.

Chriswell also was given honorable mention on the All-American Junior College football team as announced by the National Junior College Athletic Association. This team included 45 players from 32 junior colleges across the nation.

Christwell's Bulldog teammates voted him the team's out-standing back for the season. They also chose Enoch McCarter as the most valuable player for the 1962-63 season. Jimmie Few of Greer, S. C., was voted the sportsmanship trophy.

Chriswell's record shows that he gained 545 yards rushing for better than 6 yards per carry average. He also led G-W in scoring, punt and kickoff returns, and individual tackles. Clayton's longest run was a 97 yard kickoff return against the Furman Freshmen.

When told of Chriswell's All-American selection, Coach Norman Harris said, "It couldn't have happened to a more deserving boy. Pound for pound, he is as good a halfback as we've ever had."

Six G-W players were also named to the Western Carolinas Junior College All-Conference team. They were: guards Harmon and Campbell, Center Dillard, halfbacks Chriswell and Robert Monday of Clover, S. C., and tackle Enoch McCarter of Honea Path, S. C. All are sophomores except Harmon and Monday, who are freshmen.

have looked the other way many times so as not to see the love notes that were passed and the rules that were broken, so long as they were minor.

All girls were required to stay in their rooms during school hours unless they went to classes or to the library. No visiting was allowed at night after seven o'clock, and all lights had to be out by ten. Saturday and Sunday nights we could visit anyplace in the building and we really had a "ball". If we got too boisterous, Miss Curtis would come down the hall, but we usually became angels by the time she reached the room.

So far as I know, all the old buildings are gone, but they are still clearly pictured in my mind, as are all the many activities and many of the students I knew and loved during the five terms of school I was there.

By today's standards the class rooms were poorly equipped and inadequate. I do not remember all the things I learned in books, but I learned many lessons which build character and brought out the best in the pupil. I am sure that most students of the old ways will remember the wonderful hours spent with Professor Huggins when he would close his text book and spend the whole hour just talking to us in language we could understand about the problems of life and the world about us. I cannot write or speak perfect English, but I remember the Gems of Literature that Miss Curtis made us copy to perfection in our note books and memorize for the next day. We were not allowed to make a single erasure or she could detect it.

I remember the many kind deeds done by teachers and students and especially Mrs. Huggins, who mothered us whenever she could. I was required to make my graduation outfit, which I could do, except for working buttonholes. My dress was of white organdy with five rows of

The College once more has a flagpole. This one is located in the circle in the walkway near the center of the campus. A little research by Professor Hubert C. Dixon, '33, reveals this one is made from the pipe of the old well casing that supplied water by pump to the Huggins-Curtis Building.

Dr. Cone Speaks To Faculty

Many students never embark on a college adventure for three reasons, according to Dr. Bonnie Cone, President of Charlotte College. In an address before the faculty of G-W, Dr. Cone listed the reasons as: (1) lack of money; (2) lack of proper motivation from parents and others; and (3) insufficient preparation in secondary schools for successful progress in a college program.

To compensate for these factors, she suggested that church-related colleges and universities take more positive steps in preparation for the expected increase in persons attending college each year. She also issued a challenge to all people concerned with higher education to grasp a new sense of mission, dedication, and the pioneer spirit of enthusiasm that prevailed in the hearts of those who preceded us.

Evening College In Progress

The Evening College effort at Gardner-Webb was renewed with the registration of 54 students on January 28, the beginning of the second semester of the school year. This marked another attempt in a service going back several years, as the college sought to offer its facilities and services to the people of the area for lifelong learning experiences in the Adult Education field.

College officials expressed gratification at the initial response and said they expected more students to enroll before the registration deadline on Feb. 11.

Classes meet on Monday and Thursday nights from 7:00 to 8:25 and from 8:35 to 10:00 o'clock.

Courses offered on a credit or non-credit basis are: Shorthand, English, College Algebra, Accounting, Typing, and Bible.

Dean Eugene M. Keebler is directing the Evening College. The teachers are from the college area and Shelby, though no regular college faculty members are teaching in it.

G-W CHOIR COMPLETES TOUR

The G-W choir held its annual tour January 27-30. Eight appearances were scheduled.

The choir has 40 members and an accompanist. It is directed by Mrs. Robert Gidney, of the music faculty, who teaches choral conducting and voice at the college.

The program was divided into four sections. The first group was composed of works from the early composers. The second section was arrangements of familiar hymns. A number of spirituals comprised the third division, and selections of scriptural text compositions made up the final section.

The itinerary followed was: Jan. 27, 10:00 A. M., First Baptist Church, Spindale, 7:30 P. M., Merrimon Avenue Baptist Church, Asheville; Jan. 28, 10:00-10:30 A. M., Montreat-Anderson College, Montreat, 8:00 P. M., First Baptist Church, Statesville; Jan. 29, 11:30 A. M., N. C. Baptist Home for the Aging, Winston-Salem, 7:00 P. M., Southside Baptist Church, Winston-Salem; Jan. 30, 7:30 P. M., Woodlawn Baptist Church, Charlotte.

MESSIAH PRESENTED BY COLLEGE CHOIR

Handel's Messiah was presented by the Gardner-Webb choir Sunday afternoon, Dec. 9, in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Gidney, assistant professor of voice at the college. Stephen Morrisett, former choral director at the college, was organist.

The college choir was assisted by the choirs of the First Baptist Church of Gaffney, S. C., and the Central Methodist Church in Shelby, combining to form a mass choir of over 100 voices.

Soloists for the program were: Soprano, Mrs. Preston Edwards; Alto, Miss Sarah Jones and Mrs. Dean Ross; Tenor, Lawrence Vassy; and Bass, Allen R. Willis.

The performance was repeated Dec. 19 in the First Baptist Church of Gaffney, under the direction of Dean Ross, choir director at the church.

COLLEGE CATALOGUE TO BE PUBLISHED EARLY

Officials of the college are planning to publish the 1963-64 catalogue early this year. It is scheduled to come out in the spring rather than in the summer as in previous years.

The new schedule of publication will bring G-W in line with most other colleges and universities, which publish early. It will also allow the Registrar and others to send the catalogue out earlier to prospective students and others who request copies.

It is anticipated that on this basis an extra issue of the Quarterly will be published each year, making it a four-times-a-year publication.

Phi Theta Kappa Active

The first tapping service since receiving its charter last May was held in November by the G-W Lambda Omega Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa.

Tapped for membership were Bobby Deviney of Lawndale, Melvin Flynn of Pilot Mountain, and Walter Davenport of Greenville, S. C. Being tapped for membership in Phi Theta Kappa is the highest honor to be achieved by students in any junior college.

Officers of the chapter are: Charles Gidney, President, Shelby; Jack Spainhour, Vice President, Lenoir; Shirley Ramsey Luckadoo, Secretary, Mooresboro; and Robert Redding, Treasurer, Bessemer City.

The present membership of the chapter is twenty. Other members are: Nancy Snead Dyson, Marion; Dave Johnson, North Augusta, S. C.; Floyd Benfield, Hickory; Wilson Knight, Ahoskie; Betty Brackett, Ellenboro; Betty Lou Smith, Mooresboro; Nancy Rider, Gastonia; Jerry Punch, Maiden; Diane Jones, James Holland, William Watterson, and Barbara Wright, Shelby; and Robert Brown of Gaffney, S. C.

Misses Kathryn Copeland and Ruth Kiser are the co-sponsors. Dean Eugene Keebler holds honorary membership from the Norman College Chapter, Norman Park, Georgia. Miss Copeland was recognized with honorary membership by the Anderson College chapter while she was teaching there. Recently Miss Kiser was given a certificate of honorary membership in the local chapter.

In presenting Miss Kiser's certificate, Professor J. O. Terrell, advisor to the faculty committee of Phi Theta Kappa, said that G-W now has the unique distinction of having three members of the faculty who have been awarded honorary membership in Phi Theta Kappa chapters in three different junior colleges.

N. C. Tercentenary To Be Observed at G-W

Plans are well underway for Gardner-Webb's observance of North Carolina's Tercentenary on March 20. A chapel program is being planned by a committee headed by Dr. Garland H. Allen, chairman. Dr. Allen's committee is working in conjunction with the North Carolina Tercentenary Commission, which has been appointed by the governor, and is encouraging the commemoration of the state's 300th anniversary of the granting of the charter.

The chapel program will consist of five parts: (1) the story of the granting of the charter; (2) a pageant or play, written by Tom Harris of the English Department, depicting the granting of the charter; (3) renditions of appropriate colonial music under the direction of Miss Miller of the Music Department; (4) a description of locations of historical markers in the area; and (5) a ceremony raising the North Carolina flag.

lace around the neckline and five rows around the sleeves. It buttoned down the back, with a full skirt of graduated tucks from waist to hemline. Mrs. Huggins finished the dress by working the tiny buttonholes, free of charge, of course. I have never forgotten that favor and thanked her again last summer when I called on her at her home.

Days were hard for both pupils and teachers in the old school, but somehow we never knew it. The hardships of the old days built a good strong foundation for the college of today, which I hope will continue to grow and instill high ideals in its students and build character as in the old days.
