3 Generous Gifts Boost Campaign

THREE generously large gifts have boosted Gardner-Webb much closer to achieving the $15 million goal of its current capital funds campaign.

A $102,000 contribution has been given to build a men's dormitory by the family of the late Hubert Merton Craig of Gaston County. Another $100,000 gift has come from Dover Textile Group of Cleveland County. This includes $75,000 from the Dover Foundation, $15,000 from Fiat, Walls and Co. of New York, Dover Textile Group selling agent, and a personal gift in excess of $10,000 by Charles I. Dover.

A $60,000 gift has been contributed by Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Norsey of Gastonia.

JOINING to make the $100,000 gift honoring Hubert Merton Craig were his widow, who lives in Lincoln, his son, Herbert Max Craig, Jr., of Stanley, a Gardner-Webb trustee, and his two daughters, Mrs. Harry L. Davis of Lenoir and Mrs. W. C. Hublingsworth of Charlotte. College President De E. Eugene Poston, in conveying his appreciation for the contribution, has announced that the new dormitory will be named the Hubert Merton Craig Hall.

JOHN R. Dover founded the Dover Textile Group in Shelby in 1907, the same year G-W began. In 1944, his sons, Charles L. Dover and the late John R. Dover, Jr., established the Dover Foundation to support philanthropic causes. Gardner-Webb has been a beneficiary for many years of the foundation, the Dover Textile Group and the Dover family members. Boasting witness to that support on campus are the present John R. Dover Library, the Charles L. Dover Campus Center, the semi-retiree John R. Dover, Jr. Chapel, and students studying under Dover scholarships.

THE college will name its endow baseball field "Norsey Field" to honor Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Norsey for their $60,000 gift. This name also is familiar on campus—the C. P. and Irene Norsey Residence Hall was the result of their generous gift in the 1965 capital fund campaign. Mr. Norsey, president of Sun Drop Dairies, Cole Bottling Co. of Gastonia, presently is a college trustee.

Alumni Banquet, May Day Set

Gardner-Webb alumni, students, their parents and other guests will join in celebrating a "Spring Jubilee" on campus May 1.

This festive Saturday will be the date for annual May Day activities, alumni banquet, parents' day events, and an evening concert for all students and visitors.

The alumni banquet itself will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Charles L. Dover Campus Center dining room. Those attending will include former students, faculty and administration members, seniors and their parents.

Banquet features will be the election of new alumni association officers, announcement of Gardner-Webb's "Alumnus of the Year", and lots of fellowship with old friends.

Classes in special reunion will be those of 1912, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1937, 1942, 1947, 1952, 1957, 1962 and 1967.

Before the banquet begins, though, will come a fall, gala day and alumni are invited to come early and share in all events.

Parents Day activities will begin with a pre-sequenced session in the lobby of the campus center. Luncheon will be available for campus visitors at 11:30 p.m. in the dining hall.

Theme of the May Day pageant, to begin at 2 p.m. on the green lawn of the O. Max Gardner building, will be "To Fulfill The Inexpressible Dream."

The student pageant will be followed by a May Day reception at 4 p.m. in the lobby of the O. Max Gardner Building.

Students and others not attending the evening alumni banquet will have a picnic-style supper on the patio of the campus center.

Winding up the festive day for all—students, alumni and guests—will be an outdoor concert in Spangler Stadium by the popular group, The Young Americans.

Other information on the day's events was to have been mailed directly to alumni. Make your plans now to attend and return your reservations. See you there!

BIG DAY — New G-W Alumni Director Jerry Walker talks over plans for the May 1 alumni banquet, May Day pageant and Parents Day activities with May Queen Judine Sellers, center, of Cherryville and her maid of honor, May Baron of Greenville, S. C.

Data Processing Program Aimed At Meeting Business Demands

Expanding needs of business and industry in the area of data processing are creating a demand for highly trained personnel in this field. With over 200 students involved in the data processing program, Gardner-Webb College is working to meet the needs of the two Carolinas.

Offering a BS degree in data processing with two possible areas of concentration, business or mathematics, the program provides a flexibility not found in other colleges where computer science, usually involving higher mathematics only, is offered.

Since the classes are smaller the program at Gardner-Webb is more custom-tailored to the needs of the individual. Another benefit of the program is the small size which provides greater personal contact with instructors.

More than 200 students are involved in the program with 100 majors in data processing. Three faculty members staff the department.

The best teaching materials in such a program are the computers themselves. With over 2,000,000 words of data processing equipment the department is amply equipped to carry on the highest quality instruction.

Among the equipment available is a new IBM computer which represents the ample and recent system.

At Gardner-Webb the data processing program aims to prepare programmers, machine operators, systems analysts, data processing supervisors and managers to meet the demands of men, computers and research.

One of the best features of the program is that it provides an opportunity for those working in data processing in the Piedmont area to update their training. Two data processing supervisors from Danbury Plac Glass of Shelby and General Procurement of Farris City are examples of those who enrolled at Gardner-Webb and avoided leaving their jobs and families to take training in some more distant location.

A strong data processing department which is striving to provide a deeper and higher quality preparation to meet the needs of our society, is just another of the ways Gardner-Webb College fulfills its role as a full-service college.

G-W Hears Graham

More than 3,000 Gardner-Webb students, faculty and friends gathered Feb. 23 to hear a movingly inspirational address by Dr. Billy Graham on campus. He led in a consecration and dedication service in which he challenged his young listeners to commit themselves first to Christ. The service provided a luncheon honoring Trustee R. Patrick Spangler, for whom a new dormitory has been named. State Sen. Hargrove Bowles of Greensboro, principal luncheon speaker, and college officials headed Spangler as a man who has learned the art of giving as well as living. He has served the college as national chairman of two capital fund campaigns. Dr. Graham's visit and the dedication of R. Patrick Spangler Hall brought an overflow crowd, a warm response and a memorable experience to the campus.

Legislature Asked For Tuition Grants

Thirty-five N. C. private college alumni presidents, including G-W's John E. Roberts, have petitioned the state General Assembly to adopt a tuition grant plan for private college students.

Their petition says, in effect, that the state would find it cheaper to subsidize private tuition for Tar Heel students than to expand state-supported higher educational facilities.

Many state colleges, subsidized by tax funds, currently are turning away applicants because they lack sufficient classrooms, laboratory or dormitory space. Many private colleges, however, which must charge higher tuition, have sufficient classrooms and vacant space.

The petition, sent to Gov. Robert Scott, asks that the state undertake a major cash-out plan subsidy or grant program, along with other appropriate financial aid for N. C. students who attend private colleges in the state.

"... Such a program will result in a significant number of North Carolina students choosing to fill existing dormitories, classrooms and facilities at private colleges and . . . thereby the range of opportunities for our students will be expanded while the public tax revenues are more wisely and economically utilized."

Student Teaching Begins

A second wave of student teachers, 54 strong, were from Gardner-Webb College into eight North and South Carolina school systems March 8.

Added to the 12 prospective teachers who were sent last October, a total of 136 have been involved in student teaching this year.

This is the first year Gardner-Webb has participated in a teacher training program on a senior college basis. The program is under the direction of Dr. R. E. Casaday, chairman, department of education and library science.

These students will be involved in student teaching for a period of eight weeks. They will begin by observing and participating on a small scale and will eventually take over full teaching responsibility for a minimum of 90 hours and up to 200 hours.

On April 3, these student teachers were to take the National Teacher Examination. Then the N. C. State Department of Public Instruction will examine their transcripts. If all is in order the student will receive a class "A" N. C. Teaching Certificate.

Campaign Reaches Neighboring Areas

Gardner-Webb's current $1.5 million capital gifts campaign, completed successfully in several communities, is reaching out to other nearby areas. Alumni are being asked to join in the effort, to be climaxed with a May 15 "vicinity dinner" with Gov. Robert Scott as a special guest.

The campaign was undertaken to build a new library and a new men's dormitory, provide additional administrative and classroom space, and increase the college's endowment.

In addition to the Shelby and Beeding Springs campaigns, already reported, drives have been conducted in Kings Mountain and Cherryville. Kings Mountain residents, led by Chairman Charles Alexander, topped their $70,000 goal with total pledges of $73,042. Cherryville supporters, with Aaron Moss as chairman, raised $67,047 to exceed their $52,800 goal.

Four other new campaigns began in March. G-W Trustee Tom Knowles is chairman in Belmont, which has a $200,000 goal. W. B. (Bill) Hurr is leading the Gaston effort to raise $200,000. Loveland's T. S. Patten is chairman of the Upper Cleveland County drive, aimed at a $30,000 goal.

College Trustee Heademan Bell is chairman of the Charlotte campaign, for which a goal had not been set.

All-American George Adams and G-W President E. Eugene Poston.

Baseball, Tennis, Golf In Gardner-Webb Sports Spotlight

Now that this school year's football and basketball are history, the spotlight's shifted to spring sports on Gardner-Webb's campus.

Lively G-W baseball's on full swing, with Coach Jerry Bryson's Bulldogs being such powers as Ekst, High Point, Catawba and Guilford of the Carolinas Conference.

Bryson's veteran team's given a good chance of being among NAIA District 26 leaders. They won 22 and lost only two last year.

Here's the schedule for the remainder of the season:

April 6	California State	Home
April 7	California State	Home
April 8	California State	Home
April 10	Piedmont	Away
April 12	Catawba	Away

April 13	Drew Elkins	Home
April 16	Ernst & Horn	Home
April 20	Lenoir Memorial	Home
April 24	Guilford	Away
April 26	Milligan	Home
April 30	Lenoir Memorial	Away
May 1	Guilford	Home
May 4	Boydell	Away
May 5	Winston-Salem State	Away
May 8	High Point	Home

TENNIS

Four senior players were expected to carry the college's colors in a rugged 20-game tennis schedule which began in March. Two other team slots were to be filled before competition began in earnest. Coach Jim Taylor reported. The returning seniors are Larry Smith of Denmark, S. C., Berry Nancy of

'Cinderella Team' Wins 20, Loses 4

All-around All-American George Adams, 6-6 junior from Kings Mountain, led G-W's 1971 "Cinderella" basketball team into the District 26 NAIA Playoffs in Winston-Salem during March.

Though the Bulldogs lost in first-round journey play to Guilford College, 58-66, they'd already ended up a season second turned highly successful for a first year's competition against stouter colleges.

The NAIA playoff loss was only their fourth of the season. The "Dogs" won 20, and were ranked seventh in the nation in the final NAIA National Poll.

Adams, versatile post man, was named at season's end to NAIA First Team All-American, U. S. Basketball Writers Association's All-American first team, the Greensboro Daily News' All-State Team and District 26 NAIA. In regular season, he pumped in 271 field goals in 25 games for an average of 28.2 points, and 152 rebounds a game. In final NAIA poll, he ranked 17th in the nation in individual scoring.

The Bulldogs' second leading scorer was Henry Boyd, 6-11 freshman from Watauga, S. C., who had an average of 18.8 points per game.

Ellenburg Attends Meet

Dr. Joe Ellenburg, professor of physical education and health, recently attended the southern district meeting of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation in Oklahoma City, Okla. He served as secretary of the safety section of the meeting.

Ashville, Billy Watson of Shelby and Tommy Hill of Guilford, N. C. Coach Taylor predicts that the team will better last year's record, and his players will vie against High Point, Wafford, Ekst, Lenoir Rhyne, Milligan, Mars Hill and Catawba colleges, Tusculum University, Emory & Henry, and the University of North Carolina at Asheville.

GOLF

Coach Garland Allen says G-W's golfers this spring are facing their toughest loss yet, but they'll be playing to top their last-season record.

Included in this year's schedule was a trip to the Furman Invitational Tournament in early April. Also, this will be the first year G-W will be eligible for District 26 playoff honors, and Allen is optimistic that the G-W team will be one of the top contenders.
