Tributes To Judge Webb

A Prince of a Man.

Charlotte Observer.

The death of such an one as the distinguished and kindly Judge James L. Webb calls from us more than an expression of loyalty. We bring a brief word of recognition and appreciation for the spirit that has left us and seek a gratitude for an illumined-consuming mind which was truly moral, wise, and majestic in his high achievements and dedicated without stint to the public service.

Judge Webb was a man of iron strength of character. A hereditary instinct toward justice, no matter how incorrigibly wrong, kept him from turning a blind eye to the suffering and wrongs of his fellow men. He was a righteous man, one who knew the virtues of a great man, and was a gentleman in the truest sense of the word.

In his deliberations, Judge Webb may not go down in annals as a great jurist. But he can be credited with manifesting his conscientious desire to do the right thing, the fair thing and the just thing. He was held in the highest respect. In the eyes of his fellow men, he was a man of courage and will. He was a man of great courage and will.

WEBB PICTURE TO BE GIVEN

Sheboygan, July 13.—A handsome oil painting of the late Judge James L. Webb, for nearly a half century an official in the state courts of North Carolina, will be presented to the New York public at the Cleveland County Bar association.

The ceremony was attended by the representatives of the Cleveland County Bar association.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Partin and Miss Amelia Love Partin, of Gallatin, also attended the presentation of the portrait of Judge Webb. Mrs. Partin's uncle, and was known and loved by many men in this city.

The Governor's office will be closed today in respect to the memory of Judge James L. Webb, father of Mrs. O. M. Gardner, who will be buried at Shelby today. The order to close the office was given by Tye C. Taylor, Private Secretary to the governor.

Quickled begins November 16

RALEIGH: November 16. — Quickled of Strasburg, named superior court judge to succeed the late James L. Webb of the 16th district, will take over his new duties at Dobson on November 16.