BFGoodrich President:

“When This Country is Working, Nearly Everything is Right”

Patrick C. Ross, president of BFGoodrich Tire Group blames the U.S. Congress for America's joblessness and points directly to the United States Government for prohibiting an accumulation of capital funds for investment in the economy of the U.S.

Speaking to over 2,000 students, faculty, and other guests on October 29, through G-W's Broyhill Academy for the Study of Independent Concepts, Ross stated, "In the last several years, the U.S. Congress' failure to understand how jobs are born has been a real shocker. Yet, at the very moment when they're under fire to create jobs, they destroy jobs." What the government sets out to help, it hinders and even destroys.

"Jobless payments increase unemployment. Minimum wage laws increase unemployment. Putting the jobless on public payrolls compounds unemployment. It actively increases the cost of non-production, inflation which melts capital..."

Ross told the group that new, productive jobs could be created only through the private sector, and that requires an encouragement to invest and an incentive for individuals or businesses to take risks.

Supporting the new Reagan tax programs, Ross stated, "Whether or not you agree with every detail of these tax revision programs, I hope we all support the principle which underlies them." He emphasized that they clearly enable business, large and small, to generate more investment dollars to create new jobs and protect existing ones and that the new laws allow the private citizen to retain more money to invest and create jobs.

Pointing to the fact that money used for capital is taxed twice, once as it is used to create a corporate profit and again when the profit comes back to the investor as a dividend, Ross compared the United States system to the systems of other countries. "Every other leading industrial nation's tax laws avoid this double indemnity. Why can't we be as astute? Japan's maximum tax on dividends is 35%. Its tax on capital gains is zero. Germany's tax on dividends is 56%, on capital gains, zero. While recent changes have improved our double taxation by reducing rates, it is still overtaxation that kills the creation of jobs," he said.

"To bring investment money out of hiding, government must, as President Reagan has emphasized, reduce its out-of-control spending.

"When this country is working, nearly everything is right. When we're not, a lot is wrong. We've got to tool up America again."

Drayer Named To Post

Dr. John Drayer, elected last spring as Vice-Chairman of the Gardner-Webb College faculty, has also been named Acting Vice-President for Academic Affairs. The announcement was made Friday, November 20, at a regularly scheduled faculty meeting and again at the meeting of the Board of Trustees.

As Acting Vice-President for Academic Affairs, Dr. Drayer will be responsible for the development of educational policies, the administration of the academic program, the coordination and implementation of the curriculum and instructional program.

Drayer holds the B.A. degree from Belmont College, Nashville, Tennessee; and the B.D., Th.M., and Ph.D. degrees from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky.

He and his wife, Evelyn Smith Drayer, a teacher at James Love School, Shelby, are the parents of two children. Deborah, a Gardner-Webb graduate, and Dan, a student at Shelby Junior High School.

Raleigh Resident Elected Chairman Of Board Of Trustees At GWC

At the November 20 meeting of the Gardner-Webb College Board of Trustees, the 1982-83 officers were elected.

Bernard H. Parker, a native of Elizabeth City and current resident of Raleigh, was elected chairman of the Gardner-Webb College Board of Trustees.

BERNARD H. PARKER

Other officers elected were Chairman of the Executive Committee and Vice-Chairman of the Board, Hobart Smith, Charlotte; Secretary, Joe Mauney, Shelby; and Treasurer of the Corporation, Lloyd Bost, Shelby.

While on the Board at Gardner-Webb, Parker has served as a member of the Curriculum Committee, member of the Nominating Committee, Chairman of the Executive Committee and Vice-Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Vice-President-Regional Manager of Nationwide's largest regional operation, Parker serves on the N.C. Rate Bureau Governing Committee, N.C. Reinsurance Facility Board of Governors as Chairman, N.C. Insurance News Service Board of Directors, N.C. Insurance Education Foundation, Inc., Executive Committee, Life Enrichment Counseling Center Board, and the Greater Raleigh Chamber of Commerce.

He is also a member of the National Association of Life Underwriters, N.C. Citizens Association, N.C. Museum of History Association, Inc., and YMCA.

He serves as deacon, adult Sunday School teacher, and member of the Bold Missions Committee at First Baptist Church in Raleigh.

Parker and his wife Rose have three children, Bob, Cindy, and Brenda.

Vice-Chairman Smith served as the 1979-80 Trustee Chairman and has served as Chairman of the Finance Committee, Property Committee and Executive Committee. He is president of Hobart Smith Companies of Charlotte. He is the past president of Home Builders Association of Charlotte and past director of the National Association of Home

President's Corner

During the last few months Dr. Larry Sale, Dean of Continuing Education and Summer School, and I have visited our various GOAL Centers. The Greater Opportunities for Adult Learners (GOAL) Program is designed to enable graduates of two-year institutions to earn a bachelor's degree during the evening or weekend hours while maintaining a full-time job during the day. The regional centers allow these students who do not live near the main campus to earn a degree from Gardner-Webb.

It is human nature, I suppose, to think that we have more work to do and more obligations than anybody else that we know. With the demands of study, work, and family, most GOAL students do have a tremendous workload. The GOAL students I've met tend to be highly motivated individuals who tackle these many demands with determination and zest. GOAL students have already completed two years of college and have developed the prerequisite skills essential to productive independent work outside of class. The GOAL students tend to be good examples of the idea that the demands of our daily lives, when viewed as opportunities rather than drudgery, can be enriching experiences rather than tiring chores. The typical Gardner-Webb GOAL student is a good role model for all of us who think we have too many demands on our time.

The GOAL Program at Gardner-Webb is the product of creative faculty and staff members, who too are highly motivated individuals willing to make the extra effort necessary to provide a quality education for these students. During the past year 87% of the GOAL courses have been taught by regular Gardner-Webb faculty members who travel to these regional centers several evenings each week. New dimensions to the programs offered for the adult learners are weekend courses at Eastridge Mall in Gastonia and the on-site delivery of the four year degree offered at area industries for the employees.

Since its beginning in Fall '78 with 133 students, the GOAL Program has grown to eleven regional centers with 437 students, constituting approximately one-fourth of the total college enrollment in 1981. The adult learner, from all indications, will be more and more representative of the college student population of the 1980's. From what I've seen during my travels to the GOAL centers, the adult student of the 1980's is a quality student capable of meeting the demands of college and career. Gardner-Webb can truly be proud of the accomplishments of the GOAL Program and the GOAL students.

Naming Gardner-Webb In Your Will

Your will is a legally binding but completely amendable document which can guarantee that your most important lifetime decisions and desires will be honored and realized after your death. It is usually a document written and executed—with the vitally important assistance of a competent attorney—in accordance with certain formalities prescribed by state law.

We hope you will decide to include in your will a bequest to Gardner-Webb College, and we would be grateful to hear of your decision. Being able to determine the extent of the testamentary support which we may expect to receive from our friends in future years is of great importance to us and to those we serve.

A monetary bequest to Gardner-Webb is most common. This is simply a direction in your will that Gardner-Webb be paid a specified sum of money. Monetary bequests can pose the difficult problem of being absolute and fixed, while the value of the estate is variable and changes from week to week. You may want to consider whether a bequest of a percentage of your estate is a better expression of your desires than the typical monetary bequest of a fixed amount.

If you wish to restrict your bequest to a specific purpose, please feel free to ask us about the many existing opportunities to make a deeply satisfying, personally planned bequest. For information, complete the following and mail to the Development Office, Gardner-Webb College, Boiling Springs, North Carolina 28017.

Please contact me about how I can include Gardner-Webb in my will.

College President Craven E. Williams, left, and Director of the Broyhill Academy for the Study of Independent Concepts Dan Moore, right, talk with Charles Reynolds, center, chairman of the board at Spindale Mills. The three are reviewing the possible inclusions for the free enterprise section of the Dover Memorial Library which Spindale Mills has made possible through a $26,000 contribution.

Spindale Mills Makes GWC Free Enterprise Library A Reality

Dr. Craven E. Williams, during a Convocation Program October 29, announced that Spindale Mills, Inc., of Spindale, N.C., has provided funds in the amount of $26,000 to establish a free enterprise section within the John R. Dover Memorial Library on the College campus. This gift provides support for the Broyhill Academy, a Gardner-Webb program emphasizing the free enterprise system to the regional public, and the Business Department of the College, which is planning a Master of Business Administration program and is presently developing an International Business major.

"We, at Spindale Mills," said Charles Reynolds, Chairman of the Board," are happy to assist Gardner-Webb College with this gift and the promotion of the free enterprise system and commend the college for its leadership and progress in this area as well as for the proposed Master's of Business Administration program."

Dr. Williams stated that the Dover Library has grown considerably during the past four years from 99,208 volumes in 1976 to 284,111 in 1981. "The growth has been critical to our ability to add new dimensions to our curriculum. Expanded holdings have been necessary for the establishment of our Graduate Program in Education as well as the growth of an undergraduate curriculum. Now, as we anticipate the addition of graduate studies in the Department of Business Administration, the Spindale Mills Collection will not only be a highly visible collection within the library, but clearly it will be one of the College's most consistently used collections."

The Spindale Mills Collection will provide necessary library resources for the academic department, provide a center for high school students and residents of this area to do research in business-related subjects, provide resources for the Broyhill Academy programs throughout the region, and provide tangible evidence of the Spindale Mills and the College's commitment to the free enterprise system.

Included in the Spindale Mills Collection will be materials from the United States Chamber of Commerce and Million Dollar Roundtables, biographies in business, periodicals, reference books, non-print media as videocassettes, and a special selection of books pertaining to free enterprise. Also in the selection are books included on the "Harvard List of Basic Books in Business."

Dan Moore, director of the Broyhill Academy for the Study of Independent Concepts, reviewed the first full-year of operation stating that more than 200 public school teachers were participants in the Economic Awareness workshops stressing the concept of free enterprise. More than 50 high school students spent a week on the Gardner-Webb College campus learning more about the inner workings of business, and Republican Senator Jack Kemp was brought to the campus, giving the Academy a national dimension. A large group of farmers and small business owners have also attended seminars sponsored by the Academy.

At the time of this announcement, Mr. Patrick Ross, chairman of the board of BFGoodrich, was the featured speaker for the Convocation, emphasizing the importance of the free enterprise system.

Christian Drama Presented By National Touring Group

The After Dinner Players performed on October 13 in the Bost Gymnasium on the Gardner-Webb College campus.

Though the twentieth century has seen the decline of the Christian artist's influence upon culture, this group is trying to change that. The After Dinner Players is a touring company of gifted actors and actresses that for fourteen seasons has been presenting entertaining original plays illustrating Biblical truths in everyday life. Players are committed to Christ and to craftsmanship in their multifaceted work.

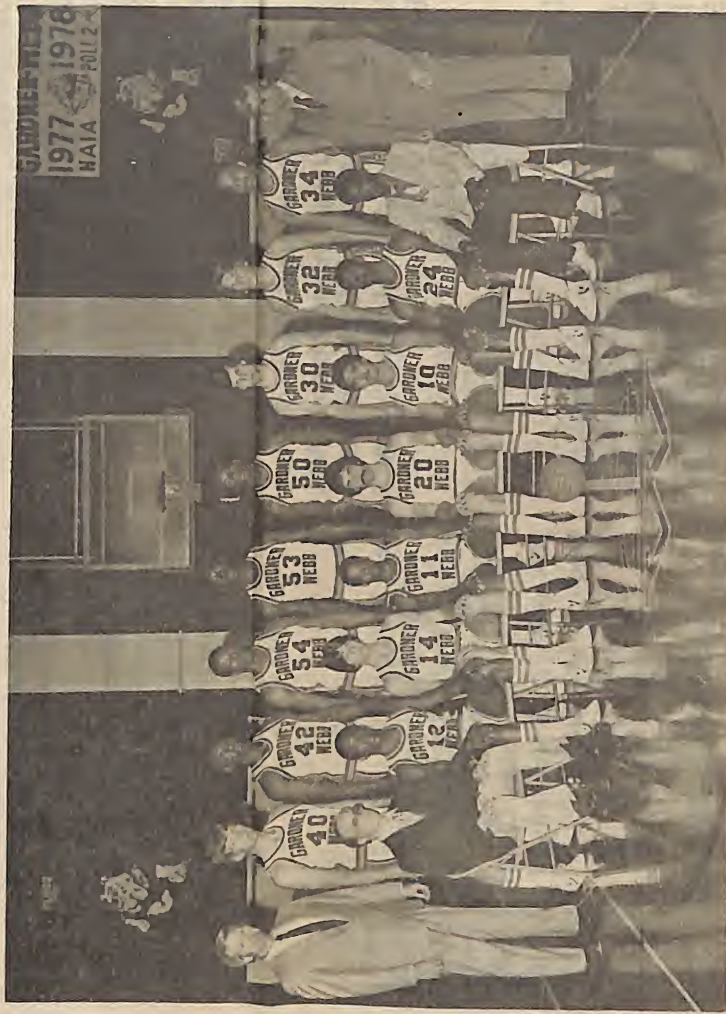

The After Dinner Players also have their own 200-seat theater building serving as home base and enabling them to offer a full season of resident performances to the community.

If a leader is someone who is going somewhere and taking people along, then producer Jeannette Cliff George is one great example. She is going into an unknown world called "Christian drama" and building the roads, defining the terms, and making the way for the future. She is God's person for the job because she is committed to Him, to His calling, and also to her craft.

Her acting experience includes: touring with the New York Shakespeare Company, performing summer-stock and off-Broadway in the East and New York, presenting her own one-woman show nationally, actor in residence at the Houston Alley Theatre, and starring as Corrie Ten Boom in the film "The Hiding Place".

"Because great drama is about truth, in the Bible there is a wealthy supply of exciting theater at our fingertips," says Mrs. George. She began in 1967 and continues today to transfer Biblical truths, stories, and characters into theatrical plays which move, enlighten, and entertain grateful audiences.

Letters To The Editor

1ST PLACE

Gentlemen:

My daughter said I got frantic when I recognized myself in your "Those Were the Years" picture in your Sept./Oct. issue. I was a member of the 1956 Student Government and the picture is as follows: Seated, L-R: Ed Scruggs, Wilma Moxley, Al Proctor, Paul Roberts; standing, L-R: Charlotte Carroll, Eddie Hudson, Betty Barker.

When I attended our class' 25th reunion last spring I was very disappointed that only eight members of that class were there; at least they were the only ones I saw. I am now enrolled in GWC's GOAL program on Surry Community College's campus, so my ties with the college have been revived. Thanks for bringing memories with the picture.

A 1956 Alumni,
Wilma Moxley Singleton

Dear Friends,

Thanks again for "The WEB". I get to visit the campus only every five years and it is so hard to keep up with changes, otherwise.

I'm an English teacher at Lake Worth High School. My husband is pastor of First Baptist Church Lake Worth. Two sons, both Texans.

Those were the days!

Mildred Peterson Dixon '56

Dear Debbie,

I graduated from Burns-Fallston in 1966 and remember you. Just wanted to let you know that my husband, Lane Taylor Cross, is working in Winterthur, Switzerland for 6 months. He is associated with American Rieter Co. in Spartanburg, S.C.—he is here in Switzerland for special training. We are living here with our two sons, Taylor-age 6 years, and Evans-age 3 years. I graduated from Gardner-Webb in 1968. I enjoy "The WEB" and keeping up with former classmates. I was and am still called "Charlie"—Audrey Charlene Moore '68. My new address in Spartanburg is:

Mrs. Lane T. Cross
311 Crews Drive
Spartanburg, S.C. 29302

We are also traveling quite a bit. Our mail is being forwarded to us in Switzerland. We return to Spartanburg in Feb. '82.

Sincerely,
"Charlie" Moore Cross '68

Dear Sirs,

Thank you for your Fall copy of "The WEB" after nearly six years of wondering what has happened to the college and my old classmates, I can now keep up with things. I attended GWC from 1972-75 before going to the U. of Alabama to graduate in 1976. I hear regularly from Dr. Nuhrah and on a recent (July) trip to the college, I was able to see Drs. Gil Blackburn and Barry Hambricht. The campus was as lovely as I remembered. It's good to see that the college is doing so well in these hard times.

I am currently working for the City of Atlantic, Florida Police Dept. where I have been employed for about a year. Besides my police work in this small but exclusive golfing community, I substitute teach, do singing telegrams and try to sing in the church choir and coach the church league basketball team.

I am recently engaged to Eileen Petersen of Boynton Beach, Fla. and we are due to be married on April 17th 1982.

With what little free time I have I try to attend as many classes as possible at the local junior college. I have taken the FBI Fingerprint I.D. course and am due to take Procedures and Techniques, and the FBI Crime Scene course later this year.

Again, thanks for the WEB and best wishes to all my former teachers, hope the entire college community has a richly blessed year ahead. Go Bulldogs!

Chuck Scoville
Class of '76

Dear Mrs. Putnam,

I enjoyed reading the Sept./Oct. edition of "The WEB", especially the letter from Charles Gordon.

Since I haven't seen Charlie in some 20+ years, I was wondering if you could send me his address?

Thanks,
Robert L. Hearn
21 Holly Road
Severna Park, Md. 21146

Dear Deborah:

I want to express my appreciation to you for a job well done with The WEB. It delights me so much that you include articles and pictures of people who were students in the past as well as the present.

Thanks for the article written by Bob Shepherd entitled "A Will to Review." I had just recently reviewed my will with the Baptist Foundation. It's a great feeling to know that Gardner-Webb will benefit long after I'm gone because of my trust funds.

As Baptist Women Director of Woman's Missionary Union of North Carolina, I travel all over the state. What a joy it is to find so many Gardner-Webb graduates and especially so many who are involved in missions either in their own community or in other areas where there are needs.

Sincerely,
Suthell Walker

Those Were The Years

Congratulations to Wilma Moxley Singleton. She was first to identify the "Those Were The Years" photo which included herself. This is the photo I promised you. It will be harder to identify than anything we've had before. Send us your replies.

Gardner-Webb Fall Revival

Fall revival was held October 5-9.

Visiting minister was Rev. C. David Matthews, senior minister at First Baptist Church in Greenville, S.C. A graduate of Baylor University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, he has served pastorates at Seventh and James Baptist Church in Waco, Texas; First Baptist Church, Altus, Oklahoma; and First Baptist Church, Sanger, Texas. He has served as associate pastor of Royal Lane Baptist Church in Dallas, Texas, and as assistant pastor of First Baptist Church in Tallahassee, Florida. Matthews serves on the General Board of the Baptist State Convention of South Carolina, served on the Christian Life Commission and the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and on the Board of Trustees at Baylor University. He is the composer of two musical pieces, "Creative Praise" and "I Ask None Else of Thee." Publications include articles in the denominational periodicals, Proclaim, The Student; and Sunday School lessons in The Adult Teacher. Published by Broadman Press in AWARD WINNING SERMONS, VOL. 2 was "The Christian's Cross," also Prayer Meeting Resources, VOL. 2. Matthews is married to the former Sue Kinzer, a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University. They have two children, Kyle David and Keri.

The music director was David M. Thomas, presently Minister of Music and Youth at First Baptist Church in Asheboro, N.C. He is a graduate of Cumberland College in Williamsburg, Kentucky, with a Bachelor of Music in Church Music and a graduate of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky, with a Master of Church Music with a concentration in vocal pedagogy. Before going to the Asheboro Church, Thomas was Minister of Music at First Baptist Church in Lenoir, N.C. As a student, he was Minister of Music at First Baptist Church in Andersonville, Tennessee, and First United Methodist Church in LaGrange, Kentucky. He is the author of "Musical Expressions," an article in Choristers Guild Letters, Vol. 10, and of three handbell pieces in the collection FANFARE. He is married to Theresa Ann Adair, a graduate of Cumberland College, and has one daughter, Melita Ellen.

Alumna Tells Of Life As Germany Resident

Dear Mrs. Putnam,

I am finally answering your letter from June 8 of this year regarding your proposal to do a story about my life in Germany . . .

This is the second time that my husband and I have lived in Germany. My husband serves with the U.S. Army and we lived here first in 1976, immediately following my graduation from Gardner-Webb. We returned to the United States in 1977 (November). At that time we lived at Ft. Stewart, Georgia and returned to Germany in June of 1979. We are scheduled to return to the U.S. in July, 1982.

Living in Wiesbaden, Germany is something that we have come to take for granted. In many ways it's just "where we live". I go to work everyday, clean house and do laundry just as I would in the States. We live in government housing and brought over much of our own furniture so it really is "home".

All I have to do, though, is look out my bedroom window and then I realize I'm not in the U.S.

When you first arrive in Germany you experience a "culture shock". Everything seems so strange—all signs are written in German, the countryside is so different and the people are even different. You can always pick the Americans out of a crowd—we are just not even put together the same as the Germans. But after being in Germany for 3 years and growing accustomed to the strange door knobs (we have forgotten how to operate those strange round ones in the states!!) and the crazy German drivers, returning to the states becomes our new "culture shock".

Shopping on the economy (in the German shops) is one of my favorite things. Every German city has a superb public transportation system. I can board the bus in back of my apartment building and take a fifteen minute ride to the downtown area. It's just neat to stroll and look at the different items that are in the store windows. The Germans have different types of furniture, linens, curtains, pots and pans. The lifestyle is so different from ours. Some things that we can buy cheaply, are very expensive for the Germans and vice versa. For example, the Tupperware industry has come to Germany, but one piece (say, a small rectangular bacon keeper) costs around 30 Deutsche Marks or $13.50. On the other hand, the Hummel figurines, which cost around $250 or $300 in the states, cost only $30.00 here.

There are many factories which sell "seconds", but the pieces have no visible flaws. There are factories for everything; crystal, ceramics, porcelain, wicker, Hummels, precious stones, curtains, nutcrackers, wood carvings, clocks, toys—and the list goes on. At least once every two months we try to visit a factory. (I did say that shopping was my favorite pastime!)

Another one of my favorite things which I don't get to do as often, is traveling. We've been to Holland to the tulip festival three times. It's a nice weekend trip—only a 6 hour drive. I spent Labor Day weekend in Paris. There are tours to everywhere anytime so it's very easy to see all the sights. We spent 7 days in London and that was my favorite trip of all. Southern Germany (called Bavaria) is my favorite part of Germany. This is the area with the ski resorts and the Bavarian Alps. There is snow on the Alps all year round and it is the most beautiful sight I've ever seen. How anyone can see that and not believe in God is really a mystery to me. There are many nice things to see on just one day trips. After being here 2½ years, I'm really ready to go home but when I do, I know that I'll miss Germany so much.

I work for the government in the Department of Engineering and Housing, Budget Office. I handle the budget for the Family Housing section. In my office, I am the only American out of five people. The supervisor is Turkish, one lady is Mexican (married to an American), one man is from Bangladesh and the other lady is German. I have learned so much about all the different cultures. In the states, I would never have had such an opportunity. I have had the good fortune to learn some of the German language so I sometimes shop in the German market for fresh vegetables and fruit. These things are things that are commonplace to me—but the things that I will miss after I leave Germany.

We have our own commissary and post exchange with American items so we don't have to buy very many things in the German stores. We also have an American radio station and TV station. Our TV shows are very far behind and we only have one station so there isn't much of a variety. For instance, "Mork & Mindy" just started. It's the first show from 1978! Some shows are more recent. The 1980 seasons of "Dallas" and "Little House on the Prairie" just finished here. We have an American newspaper so we get most of the news from the states. We miss out on the new fashions in clothes and hairstyles though. BUT OUR SALVATION IS THE SEARS CATALOG!!

You asked about the German pastry and food. That's another favorite of ours. The rolls and pastries are delicious and very inexpensive. It's very hard to resist making frequent trips to the bakery below our building. The German restaurants are very good. The best dish is called schnitzel. It's a deep-fried, boneless, breaded pork chop and you can have it plain or with a mushroom or cream sauce. It is served with pommes frites (German french fries). There are not too many German restaurants in the U.S. so when we go home we'll really miss the food. There are so many things that we take for granted here—just as you do in the states. We have no Kmart or 7-11 to run to at 9:30 P.M. All the stores close at 6 P.M.—American AND German. And most all the stores are closed on Sunday.

T.V. doesn't come on until 9 A.M. and we have NO COMMERCIALS! When the commissary has Sour Cream 'n Onion Dorito Chips, everyone goes CRAZY!! There is a MacDonald's, a Burger King and a Kentucky Fried Chicken. (But NO Shoney's, Pizza Inn or Wendy's!!) The German MacDonald's is much the same—only more expensive—and they sell beer—which is unheard of in U.S. MacDonald's. Our beverage shops just recently got "Mountain Dew"! Now that was a red-letter day! I could go on and on with the comparisons. The point I'm trying to make is that even though we love Germany, we miss the U.S. too. And when we return to the U.S., we'll miss Germany. Living here is such a neat experience but it is very hard to be so far from our families and friends. It's so good to know that we'll always have the memories of our life here. It probably sounds very strange for me to say that I love it here but want to go home. It's a hard feeling to describe but it's just as hard to tell you about Germany. Like I said, "it's home" so everything is no longer strange.

I work part-time for Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University. It's a university that has its base in Florida. It is geared toward the Air Force and Army aviation workers. They offer many math courses for their aviation degrees. I majored in Mathematics at GWC so I sometimes teach a class for ERAU. It's run by Americans and all of the students are Americans.

Thanks so much for your interest and for making me take the time to sit down and say "I'M REALLY LUCKY TO BE HERE!"

Please give my regards to everyone at GWC, Dr. Paul Jolley in particular.

Sincerely,
Shelia Wilkinson

P.S.

Wiesbaden is located about 30 miles from Frankfurt. You may remember that the hostages from Iran were taken to the hospital in Wiesbaden. That's where we go to the doctor and that's where my little girl was born. I was lucky enough to be at the hospital when the hostages arrived on January 21. That was a VERY memorable experience.

Gardner-Webb College Is Counting On You!

Let's Put The 1981-82 Annual College Fund Over The Top!

OUR GOAL: $150,000

Vice-President for Development Bob Shepherd (l) and Annual College Fund National Chairman Oren M. Wyatt (r) discuss college finances. The O. Max Gardner building is in the background.

Dear Fellow Alumni and Friends:

The success of our annual giving program and its potential to serve Gardner-Webb College are facts of record. As you know, contributions to the Annual College Fund help assure the high standards in teaching, research, and public service which have reflected so well upon all of us associated with the College. These high standards of performance give the College a special quality and enhance the pride which we feel.

Donations through the Annual College Fund have always provided funds for attracting and retaining distinguished faculty and for meeting the needs that simply cannot be met from student tuitions.

I know you join with me in expressing your faith in the ideals of this institution, but our faith alone is not enough. If we are to continue as a dynamic institution, dedicated to providing quality education with a Christian influence, we must continue to sacrifice in order to foster freedom from Federal assistance and preserve our independence.

The sum of all the parts at Gardner-Webb College—the faculty, the administration and staff, the student body, the curriculum, the campus itself, all these make the College an impressive institution for service to the church and to the community. It is a real privilege to be a part of this.

We are grateful to you for your interest and support. Thank you for your gift to the Annual College Fund.

Oren M. Wyatt, '64
National Chairman
Annual College Fund 1981-82

Bob Shepherd

Why Do People Give Money?

The primary motive for giving is usually a firm belief in an organization's program. Gifts are not made to charity merely to be charitable. Instead, gifts are made to a specific institution which the donor wants to support. Therefore, the Development Office of Gardner-Webb takes seriously the responsibility of telling our exciting story so that listeners will wish to be a partner in the action. While a desire to help us is the primary motive of most of the gifts that we receive, the federal tax deduction allowed for such a gift is usually a welcome by-product.

For most people, there is an inner desire to give. The role of solicitation is selling in the most sophisticated sense. It is the strategically timed and artful presentation of an opportunity for a person to find fulfillment in supporting a worthy cause.

Most people who give to Gardner-Webb work hard to earn their money. Thus, motivation becomes a vital factor in solicitation. Generous gifts usually come from people who can identify with the cause seeking their support. The involved person understands the cause and agrees with it. As testimony to this concept, a cause's largest individual donors are usually the people most closely associated with it on a voluntary basis.

Few people will give when told it is their duty. In fact, a gift cannot be required. It is a tangible expression of an intangible spirit. Usually one person prompts another until the need to give is fulfilled by giving to the need.

From The Director's Chair:

Nancy Sarazen

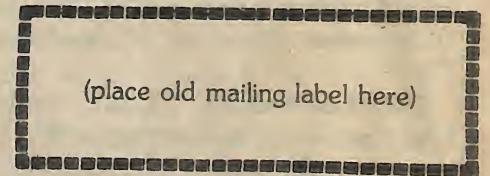

The Alumni Board met during the morning of Homecoming Day, October 24. Good attendance evidenced good interest. The Board voted to accept $7500 (5% of the total ACF goal) as its own goal in this year's Annual College Fund campaign. Each member is part of a team, and each one of the four teams has a goal of $1875. They will be contacting some of you.

Let's all accept a personal goal this year and make a gift to Gardner-Webb College through the Annual College Fund!

And don't forget that matching gift from your employer. Your personnel department will have the forms. Send one in when you make your contribution.
