Seeing Stars

English Sets Sights High for Observatory

Never mind Star Trek. Hollywood isn't necessary for good old-fashioned space-age entertainment.

So says Tom English, assistant professor of physics and director of the Williams Observatory at Gardner-Webb. In recent months, English's eyes have seen — up close and personal — the explosive impacts of comet fragments on the surface of Jupiter, the metamorphosis of a partial eclipse, and the Swift-Tuttle comet that was last spotted during the Civil War and predicted by one noted astronomer as having a small chance of hitting the Earth this time around.

"It's been a good year. There definitely hasn't been a lack of spectacular events in the sky lately," he says, leaning against the first telescope he had as a boy, which he keeps at the Observatory. "But, then again, I feel like there's something interesting to see every time I look through this lens."

Most recently, television news programs relayed to our homes NASA's brilliant pictures of Jupiter receiving some rather harsh blows from enormous comet fragments. The sight of these bombings were entertaining to the everyday person on the street. But to English, what he saw through his telescope was simply breathtaking.

"A lot of folks saw those pictures and thought, 'Wow, that's neat,'" he explains. "But I looked at it in a totally different way. The first time I actually saw the black markings that the comet fragments had left on Jupiter's surface, I started yelling and telling people around me to come look.

"I don't think the majority of people can really grasp what's going on up there," he says, noting that one of the impacts was 2,000 times more powerful than all the nuclear bombs on Earth combined.

Star-gazing is what English enjoys most. And as one might predict, he became engrossed with science — and later with stars and space — as a young boy. He admits to peering at the heavens with his binoculars and knowing all the constellations while still in elementary school, thanks largely to his mother who frequently took him to the library for books about astronomy.

He shares his appreciation for the "The Final Frontier" with members of the community on Monday nights throughout the academic year, holding public observation sessions at the Observatory. English also directs the Young Astronomers Club, for kids age 7-10 and their parents, and uses the facility as a home for the Cleveland County Astronomical Society.

"Believe me, the adults are just as much in awe of the things they see in the sky as the kids are," he says. "I love to let them look at Saturn and love to let them look at Saturn and have them ask me if that's for real or if it's a picture hidden in the telescope."

The Williams Observatory, adjacent to the football and baseball stadiums on campus, is the perfect playground for English and his visitors.

He makes it a point to show a short slide presentation to all first-time visitors before introducing them to the rest of the facility, which is equipped with nine telescopes of various shapes, sizes and magnification power. Don't be surprised if he also greets you with models of the planets in our solar system — "Pluto is actually smaller than Australia," he demonstrates — constructed for size comparisons.

The Observatory was completed in 1990 soon after the telescope located in its trademark dome was donated by local resident Dr. James Hermann. Although there are more powerful telescopes in the area, English feels what's most important is simply having a facility for astronomy activities. He points out that the nearest similar facility on a college campus is at Appalachian State University, although it is not for public use.

"We have the unique opportunity to use our Observatory as a resource to the community, for regional astronomy meetings or teacher workshops or whatever," he says. "It's a great way to attract people to Gardner-Webb and have a little fun at the same time."

He adds that a hotline number has been established to keep the public informed about activities at the Observatory as well as the latest developments in astronomy. Anyone interested can now call (704) 434-4434 for that information.

English admits to drawing more enthusiastic responses from his Observatory visitors than from his physics students, most likely because of the visual effects outer space provides.

"Astronomy is full of a lot of gee-whiz stuff, and that's what makes it so fun," he explains. "It's great to watch someone look through the telescope and say 'Wow!' when their eyes get focused."

But being caught by surprise isn't new to English. On one occasion in 1992, he and three students were at the Observatory when they noticed a fiery blur make its way across the sky in front of them. For 30 seconds or more, the small group watched in silence as the object journeyed along before disappearing beyond the horizon.

"The next day I got on the phone and called everybody who might know what it was. I even called NASA," he recalls. "Turns out it was a Russian satellite that had burned up and crashed in the Atlantic Ocean."

Keep looking at the sky long enough, he says, and you'll be amazed at what you see. Sometimes, however, you have to rely on patience.

"I still haven't seen Pluto through the Observatory's telescope," he confesses. "It's very tedious looking for something that's basically just a dot in the middle of millions of stars. But I'll let you know when I find it."

And even though he has witnessed some brilliant sky shows recently, English says the thought of what he'll see next continues to excite him.

He smiles and adds, "I'm still easily impressed."

Grant Provides Funds, Mentors To Women Science Majors

Gardner-Webb has received a $25,000 grant from the Glaxo Foundation in Research Triangle Park to establish the Glaxo Women in Science Scholars Endowed Scholarship Fund.

Scholarships from the fund will recognize outstanding female students at Gardner-Webb and provide an incentive for women science students to enter the science profession. Recipients of the scholarships will also be provided with a woman scientist mentor at Glaxo Inc., one of the nation's leading pharmaceutical companies.

John Thomas, executive director of the Glaxo Foundation, explained that the mentoring program is possible because women comprise 50 percent of Glaxo's professional scientific workforce.

"We want to help these scholarship recipients financially, but more importantly, we want to provide them with a unique educational opportunity as well," Thomas said.

The scholarships, to be awarded to two students, are being offered for the first time this fall. Students who remain eligible will be given preference in receiving the award in subsequent years.

Thomas noted that Gardner-Webb is now one of 17 schools across the state to offer the scholarships, which the Foundation first began establishing last November. Research, he said, indicates that small, private, liberal arts colleges like Gardner-Webb produce the greatest number of females entering careers in the sciences.

The Glaxo Foundation was formed in 1986 with donations from Glaxo Inc.

Honorary Doctorate Recognizes Recipient For Strides in Rehabilitation Efforts

"Reverend Weekley is a shining example of how the grace of God can work miracles in someone's life. Because he has willingly shared that healing grace with so many others, he is more than worthy of this recognition."

— Dr. Chris White

During its summer commencement exercises on Aug. 6, Gardner-Webb University presented the honorary doctor of humanities degree to the Rev. H. Gordon Weekley, executive director of the Rebound Christian Rehabilitation Center in Charlotte. Weekley also delivered the commencement address.

Weekley, who once sought treatment from the Rebound center he now directs, has served since 1977 to provide assistance to alcoholics and drug addicts through Christian teaching, therapy and recreation.

A former pastor of Providence Baptist Church in Charlotte, Weekley personally battled a 20-year drug addiction that is the subject of the 1992 book, "Balm In Gilead". A condensed version of the book, which appeared in Reader's Digest later that year, led a large number of substance abusers from across the United States and Canada to Rebound seeking spiritual and physical rehabilitation.

Gardner-Webb President Dr. Chris White noted, "Reverend Weekley is a shining example of how the grace of God can work miracles in someone's life. Because he has willingly shared that healing grace with so many others, he is more than worthy of this recognition."

Weekley is a graduate of Furman University and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, where he received a Master of Divinity degree.

The presentation of Weekley's honorary doctorate preceded the confirmation of degrees for approximately 200 Gardner-Webb graduates in the Lutz-Yelton Convocation Center on the Gardner-Webb campus.

A luncheon given in Weekley's honor followed the commencement exercises and its guests included entertainer Arthur Smith and former Charlotte mayor and current congressional candidate Sue Myrick.

Myrick said of Weekley, "I'm thrilled that Gordon is getting the recognition he deserves. He has touched more people in his life than all of us put together. His message is so strong and powerful that he has probably touched people in ways he doesn't even realize."

Local Couple Lends Helping Hand to Noel Program

Gardner-Webb has announced the establishment of the Carlos L. and Constance C. Young Endowed Handicapped Scholarship Fund, which will provide financial assistance to a student in Gardner-Webb's Noel Program for the Handicapped.

The Youngs, who reside in Shelby, are longtime friends of the University.

"It's obvious that folks who are handicapped need a helping hand in life and an equal chance to educate themselves," Young said. "My wife and I just didn't want anyone to feel left out. We hope this scholarship will help someone special beat the odds and succeed."

The Noel Program for the Handicapped is a special learning curriculum designed to assist deaf, blind and other identified disabled students succeed in their educational pursuits at Gardner-Webb.

The Program provides modern technology and equipment to its students who need course materials and notes translated into Braille or onto audiotape. Special orientation and guidance programs, as well as unique learning activities and teaching techniques, also assist Noel Program students to complete their degrees. Counselors, interpreters and tutors are also available through the Noel Program to help students easily make the transition to the University environment.

Business School Names First Dean

Gardner-Webb has named retired businessman Jim Crawley as the first dean of the School of Business.

Crawley, a Rutherford County native, will primarily be responsible for developing the curriculum for the undergraduate business school, which enrolls 650 students at the University, the largest of any Gardner-Webb program.

A retired plant manager for Polygram Manufacturing & Distribution Centers Inc. in Kings Mountain, Crawley is strongly endorsed by Gardner-Webb administrators as a valuable asset to the University because of his extensive business background. He served in engineering and management positions for DuPont from 1958 until 1988 and then assumed the role of plant manager for Polygram until his retirement in April 1993.

Dr. Chris White commented, "Jim brings a real-world view of business to the Broyhill School of Management. His experience will help us develop a curriculum that will teach our students practical applications of what they're learning."

A new prospective for educating the business leaders of tomorrow is what Crawley said he hopes to bring to Gardner-Webb. "In addition to the fundamentals of economics, accounting and math, I like to stress to young people the importance of communicating," he said. "You may have a brilliant business mind, but if you can't get your point across, your not going to be effective."

Crawley is currently chairman of the Cleveland County Chamber of Commerce. A graduate of Cool Springs High School in Forest City and Clemson University, Crawley also served four years with the U.S. Navy. He was the recipient of outstanding service awards in 1993 from the United Way and Shelby Headline News as well as being named Shelby Lions Club Citizen of the Year in 1993.

Crawley and his wife, Marcie, live in Shelby and are members of First Presbyterian Church of Shelby. They have two children, Steve and Sharon.

Scholarship Second in Pittmans' Support of Divinity School

The Reverend and Mrs. James Pittman of Roanoke Rapids recently endowed their second scholarship in a year for the Gardner-Webb School of Divinity.

The University announced that the Rev. and Mrs. James Pittman Christian Service Organization Endowed Scholarship Fund will provide financial assistance to worthy School of Divinity students who have committed their lives to full-time Christian service.

The fund will contribute significantly to the Christian Service Organization's ongoing campaign to increase its endowment to $250,000.

The Pittmans earlier this year established the Underwood-Watson Scholarship Fund, named in recognition of two college professors who had a profound effect on the Rev. Pittman while he attended Mars Hill College. The Underwood-Watson fund will also provide support for School of Divinity students committed to full-time Christian service.

As a retired pastor of churches in the Kill Devil Hills area of North Carolina, the Rev. Pittman has expressed a genuine interest in Gardner-Webb's efforts to train future ministers and church leaders through the School of Divinity.

He noted that he felt moved to support the School of Divinity when he first learned of its formation.

"The element of trust Gardner-Webb showed by establishing its divinity school, even without having secured all the needed funds, displayed admirable Christian spirit and character," he said.

Dr. Chris White added that support like the Pittmans' is the reason the School of Divinity can better serve the church leaders of tomorrow.

"This couple has shown us that if we put our trust in the Lord, then He will provide for us," Dr. White said. "We can't offer enough appreciation to the Pittmans for their generosity."

BSN Degree Offerings Now Available on Boiling Springs Campus

"Graduates of the program can expect the degree to open doors for them professionally... It's a major stepping stone if someone is looking to advance into a specialized area of nursing."

Jennifer Morgan
Vice President of Nursing Services at Cleveland Memorial Hospital

Gardner-Webb this fall will begin offering the bachelor of science degree in nursing for registered nurses on its Boiling Springs campus. One of the first steps in establishing the program was taken in May when Marcia M. Miller was named as the program's coordinator.

Previously, the University's bachelor of science in nursing (BSN) degree was only offered on Gardner-Webb's satellite campus in Statesville at the Davis School of Nursing. Only the associate degree in nursing (ADN) was offered on the Boiling Springs campus prior to this move.

From 1983 to 1987 the BSN degree was offered on the Boiling Springs campus before being discontinued. Dr. Gil Blackburn, Gardner-Webb associate vice president and dean of academic affairs, said renewed interest in the BSN degree in the Cleveland County area has now brought the degree back to Gardner-Webb's main campus.

Approximately two years ago, a study by the Area Health Education Center identified the Shelby area as having the second greatest need for bachelor's degree nurses in North Carolina, according to Blackburn. A survey included in that study revealed that 300 nurses within a 40-mile radius of Shelby expressed strong interest in a local bachelor's degree program.

Blackburn noted that Dr. Miller's appointment as BSN coordinator is a strong step toward meeting the program's demands, such as recruitment and curriculum planning. Dr. Miller holds a Ph.D. from The University of Texas at Austin and has had previous clinical nursing experience locally at Rutherford Hospital and Cleveland Memorial Hospital. Dr. Miller is a former faculty member of Gardner-Webb's nursing program as well as similar programs at Gaston College in Gastonia and Queens College in Charlotte.

Beginning this fall, both the ADN and BSN degrees will be offered through the Gardner-Webb Department of Nursing, explained Dr. Shirley Toney, department chairman and director of the ADN program. The department's curriculum will be structured so that the BSN degree will build on the ADN degree, thus creating a two-year plus two-year plan for completing the bachelor's degree.

Toney added that the BSN degree is considered necessary if a nurse aspires to achieve various types of leadership and managerial positions in nursing. Also, many health agencies are now requiring their nurses to have a broader educational background, with the BSN degree serving as a desired credential.

Gardner-Webb's decision to offer the BSN degree in Cleveland County again comes at a time when the nursing profession is becoming more complex, said Jennifer Morgan, vice president of nursing services at Cleveland Memorial Hospital. "Graduates of the program can expect the degree to open doors for them professionally," she said. "It's a major stepping stone if someone is looking to advance into a specialized area of nursing."

Gardner-Webb's ADN program on the Boiling Springs campus and BSN program in Statesville are both accredited by the National League for Nursing. The University was granted permission by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) to begin the BSN program on the Boiling Springs campus.

Those interested in applying for the BSN program may do so through the Gardner-Webb Admissions Department. For more information about the program, please call the Gardner-Webb Department of Nursing at (704) 434-4360.

Cochran's Experience Boosts Force

"The University is growing and, as a result, its security needs will also grow. We are all very comfortable in knowing that this department and its future are in very capable and very experienced hands."

Jerome Scott
Associate Vice President and Dean of Student Affairs

Former Shelby police chief Charles D. "Chuck" Cochran has been named director and chief of University Police.

Cochran served as chief of police in Shelby from July 1992 until April 1994 before retiring. He replaces David Helton, who recently accepted a position as campus police and public safety director at Pembroke State University.

A 1984 Gardner-Webb graduate with a degree in criminal justice, Cochran was employed with the Shelby Police Department for 20 years. He is also a graduate of the FBI National Academy and a U.S. Army veteran.

As Director and Chief of University Police, Cochran will supervise five full-time staff members and approximately 15 student officers who assist with campus security, escort services and dispatching duties.

Helton, a longtime acquaintance of Cochran's, praised his replacement and said Gardner-Webb should feel very fortunate to have attracted such a distinguished police veteran.

Cochran's extensive background will more fully develop a campus police department that is relatively young and has grown significantly in recent years. Jerome Scott, associate vice president and dean of student affairs for the University, noted that the department could offer barely more than night watchmen services before Helton arrived at Gardner-Webb.

"Now Chuck's vast experience will allow him to expand on the successful program that David has built," Scott said. "The University is growing and, as a result, its security needs will also grow. We are all very comfortable in knowing that this department and its future are in very capable and very experienced hands."

Gardner-Webb President Dr. Chris White added, "Chuck's enthusiasm is especially impressive. He indicated that accepting this position with us did not mean he had found a place to end his career, but to start a new career."

Professor Publishes Book, Joins Divinity Faculty

Dr. Alice Cullinan, religion professor and chair of the Department of Religious Studies, recently published her second book, "Time for a Checkup."

The book is a guide for Christians who seek tips for daily growth once they have become saved. It contains thoughts and ideas the author has recorded over the past seven years, including hints on prayer, Bible study and realizing one's spiritual gifts.

"Whenever I came across a practical idea or exercise that helped me grow as a Christian, I jotted it down," she said. "After all these years, I felt it was time to pass these thoughts along to others who may need some spiritual guidance."

The book, published by Christian Literature Crusade, is available at local bookstores or through the Gardner-Webb University bookstore.

Dr. Cullinan, recently added to the adjunct faculty of the Divinity School, will teach an integrative ministry curriculum.

"The new book and my position with the School of Divinity accomplish many of the same things," she explained. "Through my own experiences, I can help those who are wanting to expand on their Christian faith and ministry."

New Academic Scholarship Offerings Attracting Top High School Students

High school students in a five-state area are being given more incentive to attend Gardner-Webb with the addition of two scholarship programs now offered by the University.

The Gardner-Webb Scholars Program gives $1,000 scholarships to outstanding high school juniors who commit early to the University. Each high school guidance counselor in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Virginia has recently had the opportunity to nominate a male and female from the school's junior class to receive the scholarship.

Once the student has committed to Gardner-Webb, he or she is guaranteed a $1,000 scholarship toward tuition that is renewable each year if a certain level grade point average is maintained. Students targeted by the Scholars Program are typically in the top 10 percent of their high school classes and have scored above 1000 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), according to Gardner-Webb Director of Admissions Ray Hardee.

Also this year, Gardner-Webb has established and begun giving to exceptional high school seniors its Academic Fellows award, the most prestigious scholarship now offered by the University. The scholarship covers full tuition for four years at Gardner-Webb.

The new scholarship offerings are an integral factor in Gardner-Webb's effort to continually attract the top high school students in the region, Hardee added.

"In the past few years, our admissions department has intensely sought after higher quality students," he said. "And our records show that we are succeeding."

Such is the case with Amy Hamrick.

Hamrick is a rising senior at nearby Crest High School and the top-ranked student in her class. She has already committed to Gardner-Webb for next year and feels comfortable attending a school close to where she lives.

"Gardner-Webb has everything I'm looking for in a college," she said. "It offers several interesting majors to choose from, and it's small enough that I may be able to play a few sports there. And, of course, it's not far from home."

Hardee said the new scholarships, along with numerous physical and educational changes on campus in the past few years, have boosted the University's effort to attract students like Hamrick.

"Top high school students are becoming aware of what we can offer them," he explained. "They're realizing Gardner-Webb is serious about enrolling the best from their class."

13 Join Gardner-Webb Faculty

The dawning of a new school year brings with it the addition of new names and faces. Those who have joined the Gardner-Webb faculty this fall semester follow:

Jim Crawley has been named the first dean of the School of Business. Crawley brings more than 35 years of expertise in business and industry to Gardner-Webb. Most recently, Crawley was plant manager with Polygram Manufacturing and Distribution Centers Inc. in Kings Mountain, prior to his retirement last year. He is currently chairman of the Cleveland County Chamber of Commerce.

Marcia Miller has joined Gardner-Webb as coordinator of the Bachelor of Science in Nursing program, now located at the Boiling Springs campus. She will also serve as assistant professor of nursing.

Susan Manahan has been named instructor in microbiology.

Stephen Baglione has joined the University faculty as assistant professor of business and management.

Elaine Groskopf has been named instructor in nursing.

Dr. Janet Land has joined Gardner-Webb as assistant professor of English.

Dr. June Hobbs has been named assistant professor of English.

Emily Brown has joined the faculty as an instructor in business.

Dr. T. Eugene Carpenter will serve as coordinator of the Human Services program and also as associate professor of psychology.

Dr. Sophia Steibel has been named assistant professor of religious education and religion.

Dr. Roy B. Wyatt has been named distinguished professor of Old Testament.

Margaret (Maggie) Spears has joined the faculty as assistant professor of nursing.

Jack Ollis has been named instructor in Chemistry.

Radio Station Gets Power Boost

Gardner-Webb's radio station has begun major improvement plans that include the construction of a state-of-the-art transmitting facility.

Having secured a Federal Communications Commission (FCC) building permit in September 1993, WGWG-FM is planning to upgrade its signal from 4,680 watts to 50,000 watts with the raising of a new tower and antenna.

The station is Cleveland County's sole FM radio outlet.

"This is the most exciting time in the life of the radio station since it was built," said Allen Setzer, manager of WGWG. "The new transmitting facility will mean a clearer signal as well as an enlarged audience."

Final decisions have been made for new equipment, land is being cleared and electrical lines are being connected to the new site.

The new tower will grace a spot among the 20 acres of land the University owns on College Farm Road, about three miles from the GWU campus. For the present time, the radio studio will remain at its current location on Emily Drive adjacent to campus. An upgrading of studio facilities in the near future, though, remains a possibility, Setzer says.

The station celebrated its 20th birthday in January. Constructed in memory of Mr. Lee P. Frans in 1974, WGWG was billed during dedication ceremonies as "one of the finest facilities of its type" at any private college.

"Now the possibilities of this radio station are endless," Setzer said.

Administration officials agree that the new equipment should help make the University more visible to a larger audience, noting that the broader signal will be carried as far south as Spartanburg, S.C., and along a sizable portion of the I-85 South corridor.

Longtime GWU Friends Join To Create Divinity Scholarship

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ginn have honored three families who have been longtime friends of Gardner-Webb by establishing the Allen-Ginn-Elliott Christian Service Organization Endowed Scholarship Fund for the Gardner-Webb School of Divinity.

The fund will provide financial assistance to worthy students attending the School of Divinity who have committed their lives to full-time Christian service, with preference given to those students from Western North Carolina.

The scholarship was initiated to commemorate the association that the families of Leonard Allen, Lawson Allen, Charles Ginn and Dr. Phil Elliott have had with Gardner-Webb.

Dr. Elliott is a former president of Gardner-Webb who brought Lawson and Leonard Allen to the college's staff. The Rev. Charles Ginn, a former pastor of Sandy Run Baptist Church in Mooresboro, married Edna Allen, sister of Lawson and Leonard Allen. Thus, a special relationship between the families and Gardner-Webb was formed.

Ginn, eldest son of Charles and Edna Ginn and an attorney in Boone, coordinated the scholarship to celebrate the unique friendship of the three families as well as to benefit the efforts of the CSO at Gardner-Webb. Other family members have added to the effort.

Dr. Chris White noted, "By joining together their resources in an admirable display of generosity, these families have made a solid commitment to Christian higher education."

Family members gather to honor their association with Gardner-Webb

Gardner-Webb, State Agency Join To Offer Free Business Advice

The World Trade Resource Center at Gardner-Webb and the Small Business and Technology Development Center (SBTDC) have joined to provide free consulting and research advice to local businesses who import or export goods and services.

The SBTDC is an extension service of the University of North Carolina with 15 offices in operation across the state. It encourages and supports small businesses who may want to explore international trade as a way of expanding their markets.

Services offered on the Gardner-Webb campus will include conducting research to determine if a business has legitimate import/export options overseas. Consultants will also recommend and help implement strategies for entering those markets.

Information about licenses and permits, marketing plans, capital availability and selling to federal, state and local governments may also be supplied to businesses at no cost.

Peter Law, regional international business development counselor for the SBTDC, will be available for international consulting available through the World Trade Resource Center office at Gardner-Webb. Blair Abee will handle general business counseling for the SBTDC at Gardner-Webb.

Dr. Anthony Negbenebor, director of the World Trade Resource Center, will be coordinating the meetings and activities between businesses and SBTDC representatives.

North Carolina, with financial support from the U.S. Small Business Administration, has made the services free due to a recent concentrated effort to assist small businesses in marketing their products overseas.

Four international specialists are stationed regionally around North Carolina to help business mature beyond American borders. Law has been based in nearby Hickory because of the increase in industrial and entrepreneurial ventures in the Shelby and Gastonia area.

Gardner-Webb's World Trade Resource Center is a non-profit, non-political organization that encourages the development of foreign trade between nations. It currently offers to businesses features such as an export hotline, economic bulletin board, market research capabilities and translating services for foreign documents.

For more information about the program, please call (704) 434-4385 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Brock Named Director Of Marketing

Gardner-Webb has announced the appointment of John Brock as marketing director. In his new role Brock will assist the University's efforts in student recruiting and public relations.

Brock, who came to Gardner-Webb in 1986, will continue his duties as director of the Broyhill Academy for the Study of Independent Concepts, visiting professor of fine arts and director of the Gardner-Webb University Theatre.

Among Brock's marketing duties will be addressing issues of retention and student satisfaction while maximizing finances for publicity for various departments throughout the University. He has produced Gardner-Webb's two most recent recruiting videos, developed primarily for the University's Admissions Department to attract prospective students.

Brock, a Mars Hill College graduate and U.S. Army veteran, is a former president and principle stockholder of Mastertemp Inc., chairman of Regal Productions Inc. and president and CEO of John Brock Productions Inc., which produces feature-length films and commercials.

He has also formerly served as editor and publisher of the Cleveland

Freeman Scholarships Awarded to 4

Gardner-Webb in July awarded four Cleveland County high school students the Joseph B. Freeman Jr. Education Scholarship during a ceremony at the Cleveland County Chamber of Commerce.

Amber Wallace, Chad Humphries and David Jenkins of Crest High School, along with Chan Phanthalack of Kings Mountain High School, are this year's recipients. The students were nominated by the principals of their high schools and approved by the respective superintendents.

The scholarship is named in honor of Joseph B. Freeman Jr., the late Shelby businessman who headed Shelby's Interstate Johnson Lane office. It is given to Cleveland County students whose academic ability and motivation are good but who may not have the financial resources to attend college.

Although recipients may attend other institutions, at least half will attend Gardner-Webb. For those who do attend Gardner-Webb as full-time, undergraduate students, the University will match, dollar for dollar, the amount awarded by the scholarship fund. The fund is used to provide tuition, housing and meals for the recipients.

This season fans will be able to follow the Bulldogs play by play anywhere in the nation. Gardner-Webb University fans all across the country can catch Bulldog football and men's and women's basketball broadcasts on the telephone service TEAMLINE.

Prospective listeners need only dial 1-800-846-4700 and enter Gardner-Webb's code of 1885. Charges for the service begin at 50 cents for the first minute, with the rate decreasing with each additional minute.

So, if Saturday finds you in an office in Baltimore or even on vacation in Florida, just pick up your telephone and dial the number for gridiron excitement!

Former Club Pro To Head GWU Tennis

Jeff Boren was appointed in late summer as Gardner-Webb's Director of Tennis Programs, overseeing both the men's and women's tennis programs.

Mark Hannuksela, women's tennis coach last spring, will serve as Assistant Director of Tennis Programs.

Boren, who has served as Director and Head Tennis Professional at Cleveland Country Club in Shelby since 1987, is a 1981 graduate of North East Louisiana University, where he starred in tennis.

The North Carolina Association of Tennis Professional's "Pro of the Year" in 1993, Boren is certified as P-1 by the U.S. Professional Tennis Association and is a candidate for the Master Professional Ranking in 1994.

A regular columnist for the Shelby Star and North Carolina Tennis Today, Boren is also a guest columnist for the Bessemer City Record, Ayden Daily News and Alexandria (La.) Daily Town Talk.

Boren served as Tennis Professional at the Courtyard Health and Raquet Club in Alexandria, La., from 1983 until 1987, and Boy's and Girl's Tennis Coach at Alexandria Senior High School from 1985 until 1987.

"We feel extremely fortunate to be able to add a coach of Jeff's caliber to our athletic staff," said Athletic Director Ozzie McFarland. "He is an outstanding teacher of the game and his enthusiasm and knowledge of tennis should take our tennis program to even greater heights."

Boren was enthusiastic about the new position "In creating the position of Director of Tennis Programs, it is obvious that Gardner-Webb is making a commitment to excellence for the tennis programs. I am honored that I have been given the opportunity to handle the responsibility of taking the men's and women's teams to the next level of competition.

"I have a lot to learn to effectively make the transition from club pro to college coach," he explained. "But I know I will be surrounded by a great staff at Gardner-Webb who will help me transfer my talents and skills from the club arena to the college arena."

Boren replaces Ray Hardee, who in three years has rebuilt the men's tennis program to a position of challenging for the South Atlantic Conference title. Hardee finished with a 21-24 record.

Hopper Named Assistant SID

Andrew Hopper Jr. of Shelby has been appointed Assistant Director of Sports Information.

Hopper, a 1994 graduate of Gardner-Webb with a degree in communications, has served on the staff of the University newspaper and the University yearbook.

The Shelby High School graduate lettered in tennis at Gardner-Webb and was a member of the football squad.

"We are extremely pleased to have Andrew joining the sports information department at Gardner-Webb," noted Director of Sports Information Mark Wilson. "He is an outstanding young man and his addition will allow us to improve the quality and quantity of services we will be able to provide to promote our athletic programs."

FALL SPORTS PREVIEWS

Volleyball — Head Coach Donna Robertson hopes to improve on last year's 4-17 won-loss record and seventh place finish in the conference. Three sophomores return: OH Kristi Knox, who was among the conference leaders in hitting percentage with .242; OH Regan Hensley, among the conference leaders with 3.30 digs per game; and setter Nikki Kettenacker, 2.60 assists per game.

Also returning are defensive specialists Jennifer Hamby, a senior, and Jodi Dill, a junior; MHs Misty Simmons, a sophomore, and Heather Robertson, a junior; OHs Amy Sistrunk, a senior, and Kristi Bunn, a sophomore.

Men's Soccer — Head Coach Tony Setzer welcomes back 19 returnees from last year's squad that won six of the final eight regular season matches to post an 8-10 won-loss record.

Setzer was pleased with how his team matured during the latter stages of the season and feels there is much to build upon, "Our play down the stretch was as good as anyone in the conference. Certainly we feel that with the wins over Lander, Elon and Presbyterian, we have made great strides with our program."

Top returnees up front include sophomore attacker Jerome Lee Yaw, junior Ty Richards and senior Alex Ranucci. Expected to bolster the Bulldogs offensively is the return of senior midfielder Joe Gray and junior Richard Barclay.

Defensively, Setzer welcomes back seniors Edwin Odugba and Brian Irwin and goalkeepers Brooks Derrick and Chad Folk, both sophomores.

Top among the 13 newcomers is Rodger Gill, a midfielder from Maracas, Trinidad.

Women's Soccer — Led by All South Atlantic Conference goalkeeper junior Sherstin Lauman, the Lady Bulldogs will look to improve on last year's 7-9-2 record and fifth place finish in the conference standings.

First-year Head Coach Lennox Charles will look for high-scoring all-conference (2nd team) forward Kristen Lott to again lead GWU offensively. Lott, a junior is already the school's career score leader with 28 goals. Junior midfielder Lori Burris, 5 goals and 9 assists, will also be counted upon heavily.

Lauman, senior Kerry Kettenacker and sophomores Suzie Christofferson and Erika Lombardo will anchor a defense that should be even stronger in 1994, thanks to the addition of junior college All-American Katie DePasquale. A sweeperback, DePasquale earned NJCAA "National Player of the Year" honors at Monroe Community College in New York.

Men's Cross Country — Third-year Head Coach Dick Wince will build his young team around returnees John Page and Pete Scott. Page, a senior, is the most experienced runner while Scott was the most improved over the course of the season.

Women's Cross Country — An injury kept Gardner-Webb from qualifying in the conference meet but Head Coach Dick Wince hopes that a solid nucleus of returnees will continue to improve.

Tops among the returning letter winners are senior Kim Zamrok and sophomores Beth Lowe and Petra Orloff.

Wayne Myers, a 1979

graduate, had the golf round of his life in June when he shot a 57 at the Southern Oaks Golf Club in Easley, S.C., where he is head pro and manager. According to Golf Digest magazine, Myers' score is the second lowest ever recorded — the lowest being a 55, achieved once in 1936 and again in 1962.

For his incredible feat, Myers was featured in Sports Illustrated, Golf World and Golf Magazine. But his success on the golf course is not unusual. He played for two NAIA national championship teams at GWU and was named All-America once.

To put Myers' score in perspective, only two PGA Tour professionals have ever shot below 60. They both shot 59s.

SEASON OUTLOOK:

'94 FOOTBALL HOPES REFLECT ON '92 SEASON

Head Coach Woody Fish is hoping to return his squad to the form that carried the Bulldogs to the conference title in 1992. Last season's collapse to 1-9 overall and 0-7 in conference play was the biggest mystery in the South Atlantic Conference. "As a group I think we did not work hard enough in preparation and due to graduation we were forced to play some awfully young people. I guess that's about as close as I can come to an explanation."

Offense was not a problem until injuries in the backfield took their toll late in the season. "We scored at least five touchdowns in our first five conference games but lost all of them," noted Fish.

Fish will look to senior quarterback John Craven to again put up big numbers offensively. Craven, a Harlon Hill candidate, is on pace to break almost every NCAA Division Two Career Passing record and Total Offense record. Following his 1992 performance that earned him NAIA All-American and National "Player of the Year" honors by Don Hansen, Craven completed 249 of 449 passes for 2950 and 23 touchdowns.

The return of Shed Harris to the backfield (he missed 9 games to injury in '93) should strengthen the running game. All-SAC WR Lonnie Custer (61 receptions) leads an impressive group of veteran receivers. Also returning are senior WR Chris Gregory (67 catches over the past two seasons) and junior Terrance Porter (20 catches in 1993). Juniors Corey West (17 receptions) and Phillip Keefe (36 recetions and 4.5 yards per run) give the Bulldogs two quality wing backs in their "Run and Shoot" offense. The offensive line will be anchored by seniors Chad Grimmett (6-4 300 lbs.) and Contee Sarratt (6-2 300 lbs.) and junior Brian Linder (6-4 250 lbs.).

Defensively, the Bulldogs failed to live up to the expectations of the coaching staff in 1993. Defensive coordinator Scott Parker has made some key positional changes and expects newcomers to step in and provide help immediately. Tops among the returnees are senior linebacker Jon Atkins, senior cornerback Joey Houston and sophomore safety Corey Hardy. Atkins, at 6-0 245 lbs., collected 111 tackles in 1993 and was named second team all-conference. The 6-2 185-lb. Houston, behind an impressive spring, is hoping to bounce back from a lackluster performance in 1993. Hardy, at 5-11 and 185 lbs., was named SAC Defensive "Freshman of the Year" after collecting 75 tackles.

Other returning defenders expecting to contribute include sophomore cornerback Speedy Mickels and 6-0 215-lb. junior linebacker Cecil Bonner. Also expected to play key roles are defensive linemen Roger McDowell, a 6-2 250-lb. sophomore, Brian Wetherington, a 6-4 265-lb. junior, and Brandon Medlin, a 5-11 235-lb. senior.

Former GWU Football Star Finds Home In NFL

Gabe Wilkins, Gardner-Webb's recent contribution to the National Football League, is adjusting to life as a professional football player with the Green Bay Packers. He was Green Bay's fourth-round selection in the June NFL Draft.

Fans and friends who would like to keep in touch with Gabe can write him in care of the Green Bay Packers, P.O. Box 10628, 1265 Lombardi Ave., Green Bay, WI 54307-0628.

Dear Alumni,

I keep coming back to the thought that over 16,000 of us have come to Gardner-Webb since 1965 and our lives have never been the same since!

Many of us met our spouses here and many of our children came here. I proclaim that all of us are better off because we were each touched by dedicated professors who taught us in a Christian environment without the restraints by which many secular institutions are bound. We came as raw freshmen and left better equipped to make a contribution to mankind.

Though many of us went to other institutions of learning, let us always remember we got our start at Gardner-Webb!

Each of us at one time or another has felt the urge to come back to the campus for a visit, to come to a homecoming event or for some other occasion such as a class reunion. We are all encouraged to come back often and we should do it.

There is one way we can all be involved in support of Gardner-Webb and that is by supporting the Annual Fund. Our alma mater, which accepts no federal money and retains its independence from government "strings", really needs our support. Tuition and endowment income alone are not enough to meet the University's pressing needs to balance the operating budget and meet the expanding requirements of the academic program.

It has always seemed to me that just about all of us can participate in giving to the Annual Fund. Large gifts are welcome, but so are small gifts. Participation is vital. Today, approximately 10 percent of our alumni contribute to the Annual Fund. Many schools our size are above 20 percent. I challenge my class of 1952, and all other classes from 1905 to 1994, to join me in demonstrating to everyone that we can increase our participation to a higher level where it belongs!

Thanks to each one who has been a participant over the years and to each of you who will begin immediately. Please send your gift, large or small, to: The Alumni Office, Gardner-Webb University, Boiling Springs, NC, 28017.

Please do it today while its fresh on your mind. I hope to see you back on campus sometime soon. A great time to visit would be the alumni banquet on Friday evening, Oct. 14 at 7 p.m. and/or at Homecoming events on Oct. 15, 1994!

Sincerely,
Bob Pettyjohn
President, Alumni Association

Homecoming

Alumni, your time has come. Take calendars in hand and prepare to circle the weekend dedicated solely to you.

On Oct. 14 and 15, your alma mater has prepared two days of entertainment and memories for you and your former classmates. Homecoming 1994 is upon us and it promises to be filled with fun and nostalgia like never before.

The festivities begin Friday, Oct. 14 with reunion receptions, a banquet, dancing and live musical performances.

A soccer tournament, more reunions, more good food, more great music, more entertainment and a Runnin' Bulldogs football game fill the day on Saturday, Oct. 15.

As always, special recognition will be given to alumni in attendance and an array of special events across campus will be held.

This is your weekend, alumni. Don't miss it.

Shelbians Named to Head Annual Fund Campaign

Shelbians Dr. Rob and Caroline Connor Laney have been named to lead Gardner-Webb University's 1994-95 Annual Fund Campaign efforts.

Graduates of Gardner-Webb, the Laney's say they are excited about the prospect of heading this year's campaign effort.

Rob Laney, a 1974 graduate of Gardner-Webb, did his master's work in chemistry at Appalachian State University and earned a Medical Doctorate from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1981. His general surgery residency was done through the University of Florida at Gainesville at Shands Hospital.

A general surgeon with Shelby Surgical Associates, Dr. Laney is also chief of staff at Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

Caroline Laney earned a B.S. degree from Gardner-Webb in 1974. She is employed with CAPS (Child and Parent Support Services) in Shelby. She is involved with a personal safety program offered to all kindergarten through fifth grades in Cleveland County's city and county elementary schools.

The couple are lifelong members of Central United Methodist Church in Shelby. Rob is a member of the finance committee, is in his seventh year as a junior high United Methodist Youth Fellowship counselor and is an adult Sunday School teacher. Caroline serves as Family Ministries coordinator, is a member of the Administrative Council and the Board of "Kids Place" Preschool, teaches fifth grade Sunday School and is junior high UMYF counselor. A choir member, she is also music director for Bible School. Most recently, she is serving as co-chairman of the church's sesquicentennial celebration.

The Laney's are also active in their community, with Rob serving as member and past medical director for the Hospice Board, the United Way Board and the Young Life Steering Committee. Caroline is a member of the United Way Board, United Family Services Board, the Pioneer Girl Scout Council and the Parent Advisory Committee at Shelby High School. She also serves as PTO president at Shelby Middle School, as a Hospice volunteer and as annual campaign chair of the Young Life Steering Committee. She is a member of "The Gadabouts," a ladies sextet.

The Laney's have four daughters, Elizabeth Kime, 17; Sarah Quinn, 14; Dorothy Byers, 12; and Laura Gray, 7.

The Gardner-Webb alumni will be instrumental in helping the University raise unrestricted dollars from friends and alumni of Gardner-Webb.

Annual Fund Director Rusty Patterson notes that one goal of this year's campaign will be to secure more first-time contributors. "At the same time, we will ask those who have given in the past to increase their gifts to help defer the cost of providing a quality education in a Christian environment," Patterson said.

In naming the Laney's to head this year's campaign, Patterson noted, "Rob and Caroline are well-respected leaders in both their church and in the community. They exemplify the success that can be had by Gardner-Webb graduates.

"It will be a pleasure to work with the Laney's in educating Gardner-Webb's more than 16,000 alumni to the wonderful results that can be seen from the unrestricted gifts the annual fund produces."

A Message From The Vice President for University Relations

Dear Friends:

It is you, fine friends and supporters of Christian higher education, who are the heart of Gardner-Webb University.

On the following pages we have listed, one by one, the names of each individual, church, business, foundation and organization who have so generously shared with Gardner-Webb in the past year.

Behind each name is a different story — whether an alum wishing to boost the image of his fine alma mater; a business or corporate friend who would like to ensure the future of tomorrow's leaders; or a church wishing to aid in this institution's deep conviction of educating students in a Christian environment.

Whatever the reason, we thank you. Whatever the need, you have helped with the answer.

The information included in this, our Annual Report, reflects giving records from July 1, 1993, to June 30, 1994. We have made a diligent effort to be accurate in our presentation of names and information. If we have erred, please forgive us, yet inform us. We always need your help and understanding in such matters.

Respectfully,

The recipients are encouraged to help others financially if ever in a position to do so.

Duncan Family Endowed Scholarship: established by long-time trustee Grady S. Duncan and his wife, Joretta W. Duncan, of Gastonia and their family. Scholarship preference is given to undergraduate students from Gaston County.

Allen-Ginn-Elliott Christian Service Organization Endowed Scholarship Fund for the Gardner-Webb School of Divinity: established by Mr. and Mrs. Phil Ginn to honor the families of Leonard Allen, Lawson Allen, Charles Ginn and Dr. Phil Elliott to commemorate their association with Gardner-Webb. Former Gardner-Webb President Phil Elliott brought Lawson and Leonard Allen to the college's staff. The Rev. Charles Ginn, a former pastor of Sandy Run Baptist Church in Mooresboro, married Edna Allen, sister of Lawson and Leonard Allen. Thus, a special relationship between the families and Gardner-Webb was formed. The fund provides financial assistance to worthy students attending the School of Divinity who have committed their lives to full-time Christian service, with preference given to those students from Western North Carolina.

Carlos L. and Constance C. Young Endowed Handicapped Scholarship Fund: established by the Youngs of Shelby to provide financial assistance to a student in Gardner-Webb's Noel Program for the Handicapped. The scholarship reflects the Youngs' belief that those who are handicapped need a helping hand in life and an equal chance to educate themselves. It is their hope that this scholarship will help someone special beat the odds and succeed.

Rev. and Mrs. James Pittman Christian Service Organization Endowed Scholarship Fund: established by the Roanoke Rapids couple to provide financial assistance to worthy School of Divinity students who have committed their lives to full-time Christian service. A retired pastor of churches in the Kill Devil Hills area of North Carolina, Rev. Pittman has expressed a genuine interest in Gardner-Webb's efforts to train future ministers and church leaders through the School of Divinity.

Glaxo Women in Science Scholars Endowed Scholarship Fund: established with a grant from the Glaxo Foundation in Research Triangle Park, scholarships from the fund will recognize outstanding female students at Gardner-Webb and provide an incentive for women science students to enter the science profession. Recipients of the scholarship will also be provided with a woman scientist mentor at Glaxo Inc., one of the nation's leading pharmaceutical companies. The scholarship is awarded to two students. Students who remain eligible will be given preference in receiving the award in subsequent years.

Denotes gifts made through the Gardner-Webb University Annual Fund. The Annual Fund is the unrestricted money raised each year through gifts from alumni, trustees, parents, friends, corporations and foundations. Gifts to the Annual Fund secure Gardner-Webb's financial stability by providing the essential support that the University needs to balance its operating budget and to meet the expanding requirements of the academic program. All gifts are acknowledged. Gifts of $100 or more to the Gardner-Webb Annual Fund will qualify contributors for membership in a Gift Recognition Club, which will be noted in future editions of the Annual Report.

Gift Recognition Club memberships will be divided into the following categories:

Legacy Society	$10,000
Trustee Society	$5,000
President's Club	$2,500
University Club	$1,000
Benefactor	$500
Patron	$250
Centurion	$100

Gifts under $100 are also needed and encouraged.

For more information about the Gardner-Webb University Annual Fund, please contact Rusty Patterson at (704) 434-4259.

The Christian Service Organization

The Christian Service Organization is a special endowed scholarship fund which provides financial support to students who are preparing for vocational Christian service.

Within the larger fund are individual endowed scholarship funds, established by interested donors. Christian Service Organization scholarships are endowed when the total contributions to the fund reach or exceed $10,000. Many donors establish funds and make additions to the fund until it is endowed.

The Christian Service Organization is governed by its own Board of Directors which interviews each scholarship recipient and recommends awards. Donors who establish endowment funds within this organization express their commitment to assisting students in the high calling of the Christian ministry.
