

Gardner-Webb University

Digital Commons @ Gardner-Webb University

GWU-Today

Spring 4-24-2016

Eighteen Students Present Their Work At Senior Show

GWU-Today

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.gardner-webb.edu/gwu-today>

Recommended Citation

GWU-Today, "Eighteen Students Present Their Work At Senior Show" (2016). GWU-Today. 321.
<https://digitalcommons.gardner-webb.edu/gwu-today/321>

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by Digital Commons @ Gardner-Webb University. It has been accepted for inclusion in GWU-Today by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Gardner-Webb University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@gardner-webb.edu.

Eighteen students present their work at Senior Show

The entrance to the show was decorated with this graphic piece, which was created collaboratively by multiple seniors, and surrounded by head shots of all of the graduates.

On Thursday, April 21, eighteen Communication & New Media students displayed their work in their semesterly Senior Show. GWU-Today photojournalist, Megan Hartman captured some moments from the exhibit.

To see all photos, click here.

Outside of the Communication Studies Hall.

The halls were filled with students, friends, family, professors and community members.

Graphic design major, Taylor Alexander, shares his work with family and friends.

GWU-Today photographer and photojournalism major, Elizabeth Banfield, talks about her designs.

The show will remain up until finals week.