Dear Sir:

The East Carolina Manuscript Collection is making an effort to locate the personal papers of the late North Carolina novelist-playwright Thomas Dixon. One source informed us that he vaguely recalled some effort several years ago to place these papers in the library at your institution. He was uncertain as to whether or not this was actually accomplished, and he could not remember who had possession of the papers at the time.

We would appreciate any information which you may be able to give us on this matter. If the papers are in the possession of Gardner-Webb, it would be of interest to us to know the extent of the collection and the physical form of the documents.

Sincerely yours,

Donald R. Lennon
Manuscript Curator
